The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of James L. Dennis, of Louisiana, to be U.S. circuit judge for the fifth circuit?

The nomination was confirmed.

Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOLE. I ask unanimous consent that the President be immediately notified that the Senate has given its consent to this nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Mr. DOLE. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now resume legislative session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1996

Mr. DOLE. I now ask unanimous consent that the Senate turn to the consideration of the State-Justice-Commerce appropriations bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I will just give my colleagues an update on where we are on the items to be completed before the recess.

The State-Justice-Commerce appropriations bill. I understand there is some great progress being made on that bill.

The Interior appropriations conference report is coming from the House on Friday. We did have a rollcall vote on the bill. I am not certain we will need a rollcall vote on the conference report. We have had a request for a vote on one or the other.

The DOD appropriations conference report is coming from the House Friday. A rollcall vote was taken on that bill, too. If somebody requests a vote, obviously we will have one.

The continuing resolution arrived from the House this afternoon. We hope to pass that by unanimous consent.

Then the adjournment resolution, which I do not think there will be a vote on.

Then the Senate Finance Committee needs to complete action on their portion of the reconciliation package, and I could announce to members of the Finance Committee right now we have staff on each side going through a number of amendments to see if they, staff, can agree, Republican and Democratic staff, and put them in a little "cleared" pile and a "rejected" pile and then "above our pay grade" pile, which will be for Members' consultation. We hope to save a lot of time that way. The chairman has indicated that he will call us back to the Finance Committee meeting as soon as that has been completed.

So it seems to me there is no reason for us to be anything but optimistic about next week at this point. Much will depend on the leadership of the distinguished Senator from Texas [Mr. GRAMM] and the distinguished Senator from South Carolina [Mr. HOLLINGS].

Mr. DASCHLE. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. DOLE. I will be happy to yield.

Mr. DASCHLE. The majority leader did not mention the Middle East facilitation bill. Is that on the list?

Mr. DOLE. I think that is going to be resolved. I need to talk to the Senator about that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 2076) making appropriations for the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1996, and for other purposes.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments, as follows:

H.R. 2076

SEC. 114. STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ASSISTANCE BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM.

Title I of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 is amended to read as follows:

"TITLE I—STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ASSISTANCE

"SEC. 10001. BLOCK GRANTS TO STATES.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General shall make grants under this title to States for use by State and local governments to—

"(1) hire, train, and employ on a continuing basis, new law enforcement officers and necessary support personnel;

"(2) pay overtime to currently employed law enforcement officers and necessary support personnel;

"(3) procure equipment, technology, and other material that is directly related to basic law enforcement functions, such as the detection or investigation of crime, or the prosecution of criminals; and

"(4) establish and operate cooperative programs between community residents and law enforcement agencies for the control, detection, or investigation of crime, or the prosecution of criminals.

"(b) LAW ENFORCEMENT TRUST FUNDS.—Funds received by a State or unit of local government under this title may be reserved in a trust fund established by the State or unit of local government to fund the future needs of programs authorized under subsection (a).

"(c) ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—

"(1) ALLOCATION.—The amount made available pursuant to section 10003 shall be allocated as follows:

"(A) 0.6 percent shall be allocated to each of the participating States.

"(B) After the allocation under subparagraph (A), the remainder shall be allocated on the basis of the population of each State as determined by the 1990 decennial census as adjusted annually, by allocating to each State an amount bearing the same ratio to the total amount to be allocated under this subparagraph as the population of the State bears to the population of all States.

"(2) DISTRIBUTION TO LOCAL GOVERNMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—A State receiving a grant under this title shall ensure that not less than 85 percent of the funds received are distributed to units of local government.

"(B) LIMITATION.—Not more than 2.5 percent of funds received by a State in any grant year shall be used for costs associated with the administration and distribution of grant money.

"(d) DISBURSEMENT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General shall issue regulations establishing procedures under which a State may receive assistance under this title.

"(2) GENERAL REQUIREMENTS FOR QUALIFICATION.—A State qualifies for a payment under this title for a payment period only if the State establishes that—

"(A) the State will establish a segregated account in which the government will deposit all payments received under this title;

"(B) the State will expend the payments in accordance with the laws and procedures that are applicable to the expenditure of revenues of the State;

"(C) the State will use accounting, audit, and fiscal procedures that conform to guidelines that shall be prescribed by the Attorney General after consultation with the Comptroller General of the United States and, as applicable, amounts received under this title shall be audited in compliance with the Single Audit Act of 1984;

"(D) after reasonable notice to a State, the State will make available to the Attorney General and the Comptroller General of the United States, with the right to inspect, records that the Attorney General or Comptroller General of the United States reasonably requires to review compliance with this title;

"(E) the State will make such reports as the Attorney General reasonably requires, in addition to the annual reports required under this title; and

"(F) the State will expend the funds only for the purposes set forth in subsection (a).

"(3) SANCTIONS FOR NONCOMPLIANCE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Attorney General finds that a State has not complied substantially with paragraph (2) or regulations prescribed under such paragraph, the Attorney General shall notify the State. The notice shall provide that if the State does not initiate corrective action within 30 days after the date on which the State receives the notice, the Attorney General will withhold additional payments to the State for the current payment period and later payment periods. Payments shall be withheld until such time as the Attorney General determines that the State—

"(i) has taken the appropriate corrective action; and

"(ii) will comply with paragraph (2) and the regulations prescribed under such paragraph.

"(B) NOTICE.—Before giving notice under subparagraph (A), the Attorney General shall give the chief executive officer of the State reasonable notice and an opportunity for comment.

"(C) PAYMENT CONDITIONS.—The Attorney General shall make a payment to a State under subparagraph (A) only if the Attorney General determines that the State—

"(i) has taken the appropriate corrective action; and

"(ii) will comply with paragraph (2) and regulations prescribed under such paragraph.

"SEC. 10002. APPLICATIONS.

"(a) The Attorney General shall make grants under this title only if a State has submitted an application to the Attorney General in such form, and containing such information, as is the Attorney General may reasonably require.

"SEC. 10003. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

"There are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this title—

"(1) $2,050,000,000 for fiscal year 1996;

"(2) $2,150,000,000 for fiscal year 1997;

"(3) $1,900,000,000 for fiscal year 1998;

"(4) $1,900,000,000 for fiscal year 1999; and

"(5) $468,000,000 for fiscal year 2000.

"SEC. 10004. LIMITATION ON USE OF FUNDS.

"Funds made available to States under this title shall not be used to supplant State or local funds, but shall be used to increase the amount of funds that would, in the absence of Federal funds received under this title, be made available from State or local sources."

SEC. 115. VIOLENT OFFENDER INCARCERATION AND TRUTH IN SENTENCING GRANTS.

Subtitle A of title II of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 is amended to read as follows:

"Subtitle A—Violent Offender Incarceration and Truth in Sentencing Incentive Grants

"SEC. 20101. GRANTS FOR CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES.

"(a) GRANT AUTHORIZATION.—The Attorney General may make grants to individual States and to States organized as multi-State compacts to construct, develop, expand, modify, operate, or improve conventional correctional facilities, including prisons and jails, for the confinement of violent offenders, to ensure that prison cell space is available for the confinement of violent offenders and to implement truth in sentencing laws for sentencing violent offenders.

"(b) ELIGIBILITY.—To be eligible to receive a grant under this subtitle, a State or States organized as multi-State compacts shall submit an application to the Attorney General that includes—

"(1)(A) except as provided in subparagraph (B), assurances that the State or States, have implemented, or will implement, correctional policies and programs, including truth in sentencing laws that ensure that violent offenders serve a substantial portion of the sentences imposed, that are designed to provide sufficiently severe punishment for violent offenders, including violent juvenile offenders, and that the prison time served is appropriately related to the determination that the inmate is a violent offender and for a period of time deemed necessary to protect the public;

"(B) in the case of a State that on the date of enactment of the Department of Justice Appropriations Act, 1996 practices indeterminant sentencing, a demonstration that average times served for the offenses of murder, rape, robbery, and assault in the State exceed by at least 10 percent the national average of time served for such offenses in all of the States;

"(2) assurances that the State or States have implemented policies that provide for the recognition of the rights and needs of crime victims;

"(3) assurances that funds received under this section will be used to construct, develop, expand, modify, operate, or improve conventional correctional facilities;

"(4) assurances that the State or States have involved counties and other units of local government, when appropriate, in the construction, development, expansion, modification, operation, or improvement of correctional facilities designed to ensure the incarceration of violent offenders, and that the State or States will share funds received under this section with counties and other units of local government, taking into account the burden placed on the units of local government when they are required to confine sentenced prisoners because of overcrowding in State prison facilities;

"(5) assurances that funds received under this section will be used to supplement, not supplant, other Federal, State, and local funds;

"(6) assurances that the State or States have implemented, or will implement not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of the Department of Justice Appropriations Act, 1996, policies to determine the veteran status of inmates and to ensure that incarcerated veterans receive the veterans benefits to which they are entitled; and

"(7) if applicable, documentation of the multi-State compact agreement that specifies the construction, development, expansion, modification, operation, or improvement of correctional facilities.

"SEC. 20102. TRUTH IN SENTENCING INCENTIVE GRANTS.

"(a) TRUTH IN SENTENCING GRANT PROGRAM.—Fifty percent of the total amount of funds appropriated to carry out this subtitle for each of fiscal years 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000 shall be made available for truth in sentencing incentive grants. To be eligible to receive such a grant, a State must meet the requirements of section 20101(b) and shall demonstrate that the State—

"(1) has in effect laws that require that persons convicted of violent crimes serve not less than 85 percent of the sentence imposed;

"(2) since 1993—

"(A) has increased the percentage of convicted violent offenders sentenced to prison;

"(B) has increased the average prison time that will be served in prison by convicted violent offenders sentenced to prison; and

"(C) has in effect at the time of application laws requiring that a person who is convicted of a violent crime shall serve not less than 85 percent of the sentence imposed if—

"(i) the person has been convicted on 1 or more prior occasions in a court of the United States or of a State of a violent crime or a serious drug offense; and

"(ii) each violent crime or serious drug offense was committed after the defendant's conviction of the preceding violent crime or serious drug offense; or

"(3) in the case of a State that on the date of enactment of the Department of Justice Appropriations Act, 1996 practices indeterminate sentencing, a demonstration that average times served for the offenses of murder, rape, robbery, and assault in the State exceed by at least 10 percent the national average of time served for such offenses in all of the States.

SEC. 118. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), the restrictions on the commercial sale of goods and services produced or provided by the Federal Prison Industries provided in section 1761 of title 18, United States Code, and any other provision of law shall not apply.

(b) Goods or services may not be sold commercially pursuant to subsection (a) unless the President certifies that the sale of such goods or services will not result in the loss of jobs in the private sector or adversely effect the sale of private sector goods or services sold on a local or regional basis.

(c) This section shall not be construed as authorizing the appropriations of any additional appropriations.

SEC. 119. PROVISION RELATING TO VOTER REGISTRATION.—(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (b) of section 4 of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 (42 U.S.C. 1973gg-2(b)) is amended by striking "March 11, 1993" each place it appears and inserting "August 1, 1994".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall take effect as if included in the provisions of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993.

SEC. 120. (a) GRANTS TO STATES.—(1) The Attorney General shall make grants to States for the provision of qualified legal services. To receive a grant under this paragraph a State shall make an application to the Attorney General. Such an application shall be in such form and submitted in such manner as the Attorney General may require, except that the Attorney General shall not impose a requirement on an individual or person as a condition to bidding on a contract under subsection (b) or to being awarded such a contract which requirement is different from any other requirement of paragraph (d)(1) of this section.

(2) Grants shall be made to States in such proportion as the number of residents of each State which receives a grant who live in households having incomes equal to or less than the poverty line established under section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2)) bears to the total number of residents in the United States living in such households: Provided, That, in States which have significant numbers of such households that are also Native American households, grants to such States shall be equal to an amount that is 140 percent of the amount such States would otherwise receive under this paragraph.

(3) Each State may in any fiscal year retain for administrative costs not more than 3 percent of the amount granted to the State under paragraph (1) in such fiscal year. The remainder of such grant shall be paid under contracts to qualified legal service providers in the State for the provision in the State of qualified legal services. If a State which has received a grant under paragraph (1) has at the end of any fiscal year funds which have not been obligated, such State shall return such funds to the Attorney General.

(4) No State may receive a grant under paragraph (1) unless the State has certified to the Attorney General that the State will comply with and enforce the requirements of this section.

(5) None of the funds provided under paragraph (1) shall be used by a qualified legal service provider—

(A) to make available any funds, personnel, or equipment for use in advocating or opposing any plan or proposal or represent any party or participate in any other way in litigation, that is intended to or has the effect of altering, revising, or reappointing a legislative, judicial, or elective district at any level of government, including influencing the timing or manner of the taking of a census;

(B) to attempt to influence the issuance, amendment, or revocation of any executive order, regulation, policy or similar promulgation by any Federal, State, or local agency;

(C) to attempt to influence the passage or defeat of any legislation, constitutional amendment, referendum, initiative, confirmation proceeding, or any similar procedure of the Congress of the United States or by any State or local legislative body;

(D) to support or conduct training programs for the purpose of advocating particular public policies or encouraging political activities, labor or anti-labor activities, boycotts, picketing, strikes, and demonstrations, including the dissemination of information about such policies or activities;

(E) to participate in any litigation, lobbying, rulemaking or any other matter with respect to abortion;

(F) to provide legal assistance to an eligible client with respect to a proceeding or litigation in which the client seeks to obtain a dissolution of a marriage or a legal separation from a spouse;

(G) to participate in any litigation or provide any representation on behalf of a local, State, or Federal prisoner;

(H) to solicit in-person any client for the purpose of providing any legal service;

(I) to pay for any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone communication, letter, or printed or written matter or to pay administrative expenses or related expenses, associated with an activity prohibited in this paragraph;

(J) to pay any voluntary membership dues to any private or non-profit organization; or

(K) to provide any subgrants for the provision of qualified legal services.

(6) A State which receives a grant under paragraph (1) and which also distributes State funds for the provision of legal services or which permits the distribution of interest on lawyers' trust accounts for the provision of legal services shall require that such State funds and such interest on lawyers' trust accounts be used to provide qualified legal services to qualified clients and shall impose on the use of such State funds and such interest on lawyers' trust accounts the limitations prescribed by paragraph (5).

(7) A qualified legal service provider of any qualified client or any client of such provider may not claim or collect attorneys' fees from parties to any litigation initiated by such client.

(b) AWARDING OF CONTRACTS.—(1) Each State which receives a grant under subsection (a)(1) shall make funds under the grant available for contracts entered into for the provision of qualified legal services within the State.

(2)(A) The Governor of each State shall designate the authority of the State which shall be responsible for soliciting and awarding bids for contracts for the provision of qualified legal services within such State.

(B) The authority of a State designated under subparagraph (A) shall designate service areas within the State. Such service areas shall be the counties or parishes within a State but such authority may combine contiguous counties or parishes to form a service area to assure the most efficient provision of qualified legal services within available funds.

(3) A State shall allocate grant funds for contracts for the provision of qualified legal services in a service area on the same basis as grants are made available to States under subsection (a)(2).

(4) A State shall award a contract for the provision of qualified legal services in a service area to the applicant who is best qualified, as determined by the State, and who in its bid offers to provide, in accordance with subsection (c), the greatest number of hours of qualified legal services in such area.

(5) A State contract awarded under paragraph (4) shall be in such form as the State requires. The contract shall provide for the rendering of bills supported by time records at the close of each month in which qualified legal services are provided. A State shall make payment to a qualified legal service provider at the contact rate only for hours of qualified legal services provided and supported by appropriate records. The contract rate shall be the total dollar amount of the contract divided by the total hours bid by the qualified legal service provider. A State shall have 60 days to make full payment of such bills.

(c) REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PROVISION OF QUALIFIED LEGAL SERVICES UNDER A CONTRACT.—(1) The term of a contract entered into under subsection (b) shall be not more than 1 year.

(2) A qualified legal service provider shall service the legal needs of qualified clients under a contract entered into under subsection (b) in a professional manner consistent with applicable law.

(3) A qualified legal service provider shall maintain a qualified client's case file, including any pleadings and research, at least until the later of 5 years after the resolution of client's cause of action or 5 years after the termination of the contract under which services were provided to such client.

(4) A qualified legal service provider shall keep daily time records of the provision of services to a qualified client in one tenth of an hour increments identifying such client, the general nature of the work performed in each increment, and the account which will be charged for such work.

(5) Each qualified client shall be provided a self-mailing customer satisfaction questionnaire in a form approved by the authority granting the contract under subsection (b) which identifies the qualified legal service provider and is preaddressed to such authority.

(6) Any qualified client who receives legal services other than advice or legal services provided by mail or telephone shall execute with respect to such services a waiver of attorney client and attorney work product privilege as a condition to receiving such service. The waiver shall be limited to the extent necessary to determine the quantity and quality of the service rendered by the qualified legal service provider.

(7) A qualified legal service provider shall make and maintain records detailing the basis upon which the provider determined the qualifications of qualified clients. Such records shall be made and maintained for 5 years following the termination of a contract under subsection (b) for the provision of legal services to such clients.

(8) A qualified legal service provider shall consent to audits by the General Accounting Office, the Attorney General, and the authority which awarded a contract to such provider. Any such audit may be conducted at the provider's principal place of business. Such an audit shall be limited to a determination of whether such provider is meeting the requirements of this Act and the provider's contract under subsection (b). In addition, a qualified legal service provider shall conduct an annual financial audit by a qualified certified public accountant which encompasses the entire term of a contract awarded under subsection (b), and shall transmit a report of such audit to the authority which awarded a contract to such provider within 60 days of the termination of such contract.

(9) A contract awarded under subsection (b) shall require that all funds received by the qualified legal services provider from any source be used exclusively to provide qualified legal services to qualified clients and shall impose on the use of such funds the limitations prescribed by paragraph (a)(5).

(10) The authority which awarded a contract shall terminate a qualified legal service provider who fails to abide by the terms of this section. A breach of contract by a qualified legal service provider shall require the authority to terminate the contract, to award a new contract to a different qualified legal services provider, and to recover any funds improperly expended by the provider, together with reasonable attorneys' fees and interest at the statutory rate in the State for interest on judgments. If such a breach was willful, the provider shall pay to the authority which awarded the contract additional damages equal to the one half of the amount improperly expended by the provider.

(d) For purposes of this section:

(1)(A) The term "qualified legal service provider" means—

(i) any individual who is licensed to practice law in a State for not less than 3 calendar years, who has practiced law in such State not less than 3 calendar years, and who is so licensed during the period of a contract under subsection (b); or

(ii) a person who employs an individual described in clause (i) to provide qualified legal services.

Nothing in this subparagraph shall be interpreted to prohibit a qualified legal service provider from employing an individual who is not described in clause (i) to assist in providing qualified legal services.

(B) No individual shall be considered a qualified legal service provider if such individual during the 10 years preceding the submission of a bid for a contract under subsection (b)—

(i) has been convicted of a felony;

(ii) has been suspended or disbarred from the practice of law for misconduct, incompetence, or neglect of a client in any State;

(iii) has been found in contempt of a court of competent jurisdiction in any State or Federal court;

(iv) has been sanctioned under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 or an equivalent State rule of procedure applicable in civil actions;

(v) has been sanctioned by the Legal Services Corporation; or

(vi) is a subgrantee of a qualified legal services provider; or if such individual has a criminal charge pending on the date of the submission of a bid for a contract under subsection (b).

(C) No State may impose a requirement on an individual or person as a condition to bidding on a contract under subsection (b) or to being awarded such a contract which requirement is different from any other requirement of this paragraph.

(2) The term "qualified legal services" means—

(A) mediation, negotiation, arbitration, counseling, advice, instruction, referral, or representation, and

(B) legal research or drafting in support of the services described in subparagraph (A), provided by or under the supervision of a qualified legal service provider to a qualified client for a qualified cause of action.

(3) The term "qualified client" means any individual who is a United States citizen or an alien admitted for permanent residence prior to the date of enactment of this Act who resides in a household the income of which from any source, which was received or held for the benefit of a member of the household, was equal to or less than the poverty line established under section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2)). The term "household" means a dwelling occupied by at least one adult.

(4)(A) The term "qualified cause of action" means only a civil cause of action which results only from—

(i) landlord and tenant disputes, including an eviction from housing except an eviction where the prima facie case for the eviction is based on criminal conduct, including the harboring of a nuisance who has engaged in criminal conduct;

(ii) foreclosure of a debt on a qualified client's residence;

(iii) the filing of a petition under chapter 7 or 12 of title 11, United States Code, or under chapter 13 of such title unless a petition of eviction has preceded the filing of such petition;

(iv) enforcement of a debt;

(v) enforcement of child support orders;

(vi) action to quiet title;

(vii) spousal or child abuse on behalf of the abused party;

(viii) an insurance claim;

(x) probate.

(B) Such term does not include—

(i) a class action under Federal, State, or local law; or

(ii) any challenge to the constitutionality of any statute.

(5) The term "State" means any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, and any other territory or possession of the United States and includes any recognized governing body of an Indian Tribe or Alaskan Native Village that carries out substantial governmental powers and duties.

(e)(1) The Legal Services Corporation Act (42 U.S.C. 2996 et seq.) is repealed.

(2) The assets, liabilities, contracts, property, records, and unexpended balances of appropriations, authorizations, allocations, and other funds employed, used, held, arising from, available to, or to be made available in connection with the Legal Services Corporation shall be transferred to Office of the Attorney General.

This title may be cited as the "Department of Justice Appropriations Act, 1996".

SEC. 403. Funds appropriated or otherwise made available under this Act or any other Act may be expended for compensation of the United States Commissioner of the International Boundary Commission, United States and Canada, only for actual hours worked by such Commissioner.

SEC. 404. CONSOLIDATION OF REDUNDANT FOREIGN RELATIONS FUNCTIONS.

(a) CONSOLIDATION OF FUNCTIONS.—

(1) CONSOLIDATION OF FUNCTIONS OF STATE DEPARTMENT, USIA, AND ACDA.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall, in consultation with the Secretary of State, the Director of the United States Information Agency and the Director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency—

(A) identify the functions carried out by the Department of State, by the United States Information Agency, and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency that are redundant by reason of being carried out, in whole or in part, by two or more of these entities; and

(B) take appropriate actions to eliminate the redundancy in such functions.

(2) SCOPE OF CONSOLIDATION.—In carrying out the requirements of paragraph (1), the Director of the Office of Management and Budget may provide for the discharge of functions of the entities referred to in such paragraph by a single office within one of the entities.

(3) ADDITIONAL CONSOLIDATION AUTHORITY.—In addition to the actions under paragraphs (1) and (2), the Director of the Office of Management and Budget may also carry out such other actions to consolidate and reorganize the functions of the Department of State, the United States Information Agency, and the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency as the Director and the heads of such entities consider appropriate to ensure the effective and efficient discharge of the responsibilities of such entities.

(4) ACTIONS AUTHORIZED.—The actions that the Director of the Office of Management and Budget may take under this subsection include the following:

(A) The abolishment, reorganization, consolidation, or transfer of functions (in whole or in part).

(B) The termination or transfer of the personnel associated with functions so abolished, reorganized, consolidated, or transferred.

(5) TRANSITION RULES.—The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall establish such rules and procedures relating to the consolidation of foreign relations functions under this subsection as the Director considers appropriate, including rules and procedures relating to the rights and responsibilities of personnel of the Government terminated, transferred, or otherwise affected by actions to carry out the consolidation.

(b) VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVES.—

(1) AUTHORITY TO PAY INCENTIVES.—The head of an agency referred to in paragraph (2) may pay voluntary incentive payments to employees of the agency in order to avoid or minimize the need for involuntary separations from the agency as a result of the consolidation of foreign relations functions under subsection (a).

(2) COVERED AGENCIES.—Paragraph (1) applies to the following agencies:

(A) The Department of State.

(B) The United States Information Agency.

(C) The United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

(3) PAYMENT REQUIREMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The head of an agency referred to in paragraph (2) shall pay voluntary separation incentive payments under this subsection in accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 4 of the Federal Workforce Restructuring Act of 1994 (Public Law 103-226; 108 Stat. 111), except that an employee of the agency shall be deemed to be eligible for payment of a voluntary separation incentive payment under that section if the employee separates from service with the agency during the period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act and ending on December 15, 1995.

(B) SUBSEQUENT EMPLOYMENT WITH GOVERNMENT.—The provisions of subsection (d) of such section 3 shall apply to any employee who is paid a voluntary separation incentive payment under this subsection.

(4) FUNDING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The payment of voluntary separation incentive payments under this subsection shall be made from funds in the Foreign Affairs Reorganization Transition Fund established under subsection (c).

(B) EXERCISE OF AUTHORITY DEPENDENT ON FUNDING.—The head of an agency may not pay voluntary separation incentive payments under this subsection unless sufficient funds are available in the Foreign Affairs Reorganization Fund to cover the cost of such payments and the costs of any other payments (including payments or deposits to retirement systems) required in relation to such payments.

(5) TERMINATION OF AUTHORITY.—The authority of the head of an agency to authorize payment of voluntary separation incentive payments under this subsection shall expire on December 15, 1995.

(c) FOREIGN AFFAIRS REORGANIZATION TRANSITION FUND.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is hereby established on the books of the Treasury an account to be known as the "Foreign Affairs Reorganization Transition Fund".

(2) PURPOSE.—The purpose of the account is to provide funds for the following:

(A) To cover the costs of actions relating to the consolidation of redundant foreign relations functions that are taken under subsection (a).

(B) To cover the costs to the Government of the payment of voluntary separation incentive payments under subsection (b), including any payments or deposits to retirement systems required in relation to such payment.

(3) DEPOSITS.—There shall be deposited into the account such sums as may be appropriated to the account.

(4) USE OF FUNDS.—Sums in the account shall remain available until expended for the purpose set forth in paragraph (2).

(5) REPORT ON ACCOUNT.—Not later than November 15, 1996, the Secretary of State shall transmit to the Committees on Appropriations and Foreign Relations of the Senate and the Committees on Appropriations and International Relations of the House of Representatives a report containing an accounting of—

(A) the expenditures from the account established under this subsection; and

(B) in the event of any transfer of funds to the Department of State under paragraph (5), the functions for which the funds so transferred are to be expended.

[(1) The demonstration of a full understanding of the basic legal needs of the eligible clients to be served and a demonstration of the capability of serving those needs.

[(2) The quality, feasibility, and cost effectiveness of plans submitted by the applicant for the delivery of legal assistance to the eligible clients to be served.

[(3) The experiences of the Corporation with the applicant, if the applicant has previously received financial assistance from the Corporation, including the applicant's record of past compliance with Corporation policies, practices, and restrictions:

Provided further, That, such regulations shall ensure that timely notice for the submission of applications for awards is published in periodicals of local and State bar associations and in at least one daily newspaper of general circulation in the area to be served by the person or entity receiving the award: Provided further, No person or entity that was previously awarded a grant or contract by the Legal Services Corporation for the provision of legal assistance may be given any preference in the competitive selection process: Provided further, That for the purposes of the funding provided in this Act, rights under sections 1007(a)(9) and 1011 of the Legal Services Corporation Act (42 U.S.C. 2996f(a)(9) and 42 U.S.C. 2996j) shall not apply.

[SEC. 504. None of the funds appropriated in this Act to the Legal Services Corporation may be used to provide financial assistance to any person or entity—

[(1) that makes available any funds, personnel, or equipment for use in advocating or opposing any plan or proposal, or represents any party or participates in any other way in litigation, that is intended to or has the effect of altering, revising, or reapportioning a legislative, judicial, or elective district at any level of government, including influencing the timing or manner of the taking of a census;

[(2) that attempts to influence the issuance, amendment, or revocation of any executive order, regulation, or similar promulgation by any Federal, State, or local agency;

[(3) that attempts to influence any decision by a Federal, State, or local agency, except when legal assistance is provided by an employee of a grantee to an eligible client on a particular application, claim, or case, which directly involves the client's legal rights or responsibilities, and which does not involve the issuance, amendment, or revocation of any agency promulgation described in paragraph (2);

[(4) that attempts to influence the passage or defeat of any legislation, constitutional amendment, referendum, initiative, or any similar procedure of the Congress of the United States, or by any State or local legislative body;

[(5) that attempts to influence the conduct of oversight proceedings of the Corporation or any person or entity receiving financial assistance provided by the Corporation;

[(6) that pays for any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone communication, letter, printed or written matter, administrative expenses, or related expenses, associated with an activity prohibited in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), or (5);

[(7) that brings a class action suit against the Federal Government or any State or local government;

[(8) that files a complaint or otherwise pursues litigation against a defendant, or engages in precomplaint settlement negotiations with a prospective defendant, unless—

[(A) all plaintiffs have been specifically identified, by name, in any complaint filed for purposes of litigation; and

[(B) a statement or statements of facts written in English and, if necessary, in a language which the plaintiffs understand, which enumerate the particular facts known to the plaintiffs on which the complaint is based, have been signed by the plaintiffs (including named plaintiffs in a class action), are kept on file by the person or entity provided financial assistance by the Corporation, and are made available to any Federal department or agency that is auditing the activities of the Corporation or of any recipient, and to any auditor receiving Federal funds to conduct such auditing, including any auditor or monitor of the Corporation:

Provided, That upon establishment of reasonable cause that an injunction is necessary to prevent probable, serious harm to such potential plaintiff, a court of competent jurisdiction may enjoin the disclosure of the identity of any potential plaintiff pending the outcome of such litigation or negotiations after notice and an opportunity for a hearing is provided to potential parties to the litigation or the negotiations: Provided further, That other parties shall have access to the statement of facts referred to in subparagraph (B) only through the discovery process after litigation has begun;

[(9) unless, after January 1, 1996, and prior to the provision of financial assistance—

[(A) the governing board of a person or entity receiving financial assistance provided by the Legal Services Corporation has set specific priorities in writing, pursuant to section 1007(a)(2)(C)(i) of the Legal Services Corporation Act, of the types of matters and cases to which the staff of the nonprofit organization shall devote its time and resources; and

[(B) the staff of such person or entity receiving financial assistance provided by the Legal Services Corporation has signed a written agreement not to undertake cases or matters other than in accordance with the specific priorities set by such governing board, except in emergency situations defined by such board and in accordance with such board's written procedures for such situations:

Provided, That the staff of such person or entity receiving financial assistance provided by the Legal Services Corporation shall provide to their respective governing board on a quarterly basis, and to the Corporation on an annual basis, all cases undertaken other than those in accordance with such priorities: Provided further, That not later than 30 days after enactment of this Act, the Corporation shall promulgate a suggested list of priorities which boards of directors may use in setting priorities under this paragraph;

[(10) unless, prior to receiving financial assistance provided by the Legal Services Corporation, such person or entity agrees to maintain records of time spent on each case or matter with respect to which that person or entity is engaged in activities: Provided, That any non-Federal funds received by any person or entity provided financial assistance by the Corporation shall be accounted for and reported as receipts and disbursements separate and distinct from Corporation funds: Provided further, That such person or entity receiving financial assistance provided by the Corporation agrees (notwithstanding section 1009(d) of the Legal Services Corporation Act) to make such records described in this paragraph available to any Federal department, or agency or independent auditor receiving Federal funds to conduct an audit of the activities of the Corporation or recipient receiving funding under this Act;

[(11) that provides legal assistance for or on behalf of any alien, unless the alien is present in the United States and is—

[(A) an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence as defined in section 101(a)(20) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(20));

[(B) an alien who is either married to a United States citizen or is a parent or an unmarried child under the age of twenty-one years of such a citizen and who has filed an application for adjustment of status to permanent resident under the Immigration and Nationality Act, and such application has not been rejected;

[(C) an alien who is lawfully present in the United States pursuant to an admission under section 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1157, relating to refugee admission) or who has been granted asylum by the Attorney General under such Act;

[(D) an alien who is lawfully present in the United States as a result of the Attorney General's withholding of deportation pursuant to section 243(h) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1253(h)); or

[(E) an alien to whom section 305 of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 applies but only to the extent that the legal assistance provided is that described in such section:

Provided, That an alien who is lawfully present in the United States as a result of being granted conditional entry pursuant to section 203(a)(7) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(a)(7)) before April 1, 1980, because of persecution or fear of persecution on account of race, religion, or political calamity shall be deemed, for purposes of this section, to be an alien described in subparagraph (C);

[(12) that supports or conducts training programs for the purpose of advocating particular public policies or encouraging political activities, labor or anti-labor activities, boycotts, picketing, strikes, and demonstrations, including the dissemination of information about such policies or activities, except that this paragraph shall not be construed to prohibit the training of attorneys or paralegal personnel to prepare them to provide adequate legal assistance to eligible clients or to advise any eligible client as to the nature of the legislative process or inform any eligible client of his or her rights under statute, order, or regulation;

[(13) that provides legal assistance with respect to any fee-generating case: Provided, That for the purposes of this paragraph the term "fee-generating case" means any case which, if undertaken on behalf of an eligible client by an attorney in private practice may reasonably be expected to result in a fee for legal services from an award to a client from public funds, from the opposing party, or from any other source;

[(14) that claims, or whose employees or clients claim, or collect attorneys' fees from nongovernmental parties to litigation initiated by such client with the assistance of such recipient or its employees;

[(15) that participates in any litigation with respect to abortion;

[(16) that participates in any litigation on behalf of a local, State, or Federal prisoner;

[(17) that provides legal representation for any person, or participates in any other way, in litigation, lobbying, or rulemaking involving efforts to reform a State or Federal welfare system, except that this paragraph shall not preclude a recipient from representing an individual client who is seeking specific relief from a welfare agency where such relief does not involve an effort to amend or otherwise challenge existing law;

[(18) that defends a person in a proceeding to evict that person from a public housing project if that person has been charged with the illegal sale or distribution of a controlled substance and if the eviction proceeding is brought by a public housing agency because the illegal drug activity of that person threatens the health or safety of other tenants residing in the public housing project or employees of the public housing agency: Provided, That for the purposes of this paragraph, the term "controlled substance" has the meaning given that term in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802): Provided further, That for the purposes of this paragraph, the terms "public housing project" and "public housing agency" have the meanings given those terms in section 3 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437a);

[(19) unless such person or entity agrees that it and its employees will not accept employment resulting from in-person unsolicited advice to a nonattorney that such nonattorney should obtain counsel or take legal action: Provided, That such person or entity or its employees receiving financial assistance provided by the Corporation shall also agree that such person or entity will not refer such nonattorney to another person or entity or its employees that are receiving financial assistance provided by the Legal Services Corporation; or [(20) unless such person or entity enters into a contractual agreement to be subject to all provisions of Federal law relating to the proper use of Federal funds, the violation of which shall render any grant or contractual agreement to provide funding null and void: Provided, That for such purposes the Corporation shall be considered to be a Federal agency and all funds provided by the Corporation shall be considered to be Federal funds provided by grant or contract.

[SEC. 505. None of the funds appropriated in this Act to the Legal Services Corporation or provided by the Corporation to any entity or person may be used to pay membership dues to any private or non-profit organization.

[SEC. 506. None of the funds appropriated in this Act to the Legal Services Corporation may be used by any person or entity receiving financial assistance from the Corporation to file or pursue a lawsuit against the Corporation.

[SEC. 507. None of the funds appropriated in this Act to the Legal Services Corporation may be used for any purpose prohibited or contrary to any of the provisions of authorization legislation for fiscal year 1996 for the Legal Services Corporation that is enacted into law: Provided, That, upon enactment of Legal Services Corporation reauthorization legislation, funding provided in this Act shall from that date be subject to the provisions of that legislation and any provisions in this Act that are inconsistent with that legislation shall no longer have effect.]

ADMINISTRATIVE [PROVISION] PROVISIONS— SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 508. Not to exceed 5 percent of any appropriation made available for the current fiscal year for the Small Business Administration in this Act may be transferred between such appropriations, but no such appropriation shall be increased by more than 10 percent by any such transfers: Provided, That any transfer pursuant to this section shall be treated as a reprogramming of funds under section 605 of this Act and shall not be available for obligation or expenditure except in compliance with the procedures set forth in that section.

SEC. 509. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds appropriated under this Act may be used in violation of this subsection.

(2) Notwithstanding section 8 of the Small Business Act or any other provision of law, in carrying out subsections (a) and (d) of section 8 of the Small Business Act, the Administrator shall provide assistance only to qualified small business concerns.

(3) As used in this subsection—

(A) The term "Administrator" means the Administrator of the Small Business Administration.

(B) The term "area of pervasive poverty, unemployment, and general economic distress" means an area that, based on the most recent decennial census data available from the Bureau of the Census, meets the following criteria—

(i) The unemployment rate for the area (as determined by the appropriate available data) is not less than 1.5 times the national unemployment rate, and

(ii) The poverty rate for the area (as determined by the most recent census data available) for not less than 90 percent of the population census tract (or where not tracted, the equivalent county divisions as defined by the Bureau of the Census for the purposes of defining poverty areas) located entirely within the area is not less than 20 percent.

(C) The term "small business concern" has the same meaning as in section 3 of the Small Business Act.

(D) Except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph, the term "qualified business" means any trade or business that is a qualified business under the Small Business Act on the date of enactment of this Act, except that such a business that fails to meet the applicable location and employment requirements under such Act shall not be a qualified business.

(E) The term "qualified small business concern" means, with respect to any fiscal year of the small business concern, any small business concern, if for such year—

(i) every trade or business of such small business concern is the active conduct of a qualified business within an area of pervasive poverty, unemployment, and general economic distress;

(ii) not less than 80 percent of the total gross income of such small business concern is derived from the active conduct of such business; and

(iii) not less than 35 percent of the total payroll of such small business concern is paid to employees who are residents of an area of pervasive poverty, unemployment, and general economic distress.

STATE JUSTICE INSTITUTE

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 601. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes not authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 602. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 603. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 604. If any provision of this Act or the application of such provision to any person or circumstances shall be held invalid, the remainder of the Act and the application of each provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 605. (a) None of the funds provided under this Act, or provided under previous Appropriations Acts to the agencies funded by this Act that remain available for obligation or expenditure in fiscal year 1996, or provided from any accounts in the Treasury of the United States derived by the collection of fees available to the agencies funded by this Act, shall be available for obligation or expenditure through a reprogramming of funds which (1) creates new programs; (2) eliminates a program, project, or activity; (3) increases funds or personnel by any means for any project or activity for which funds have been denied or restricted; (4) relocates an office or employees; (5) reorganizes offices, programs, or activities; or (6) contracts out or privatizes any functions or activities presently performed by Federal employees; unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress are notified fifteen days in advance of such reprogramming of funds.

(b) None of the funds provided under this Act, or provided under previous Appropriations Acts to the agencies funded by this Act that remain available for obligation or expenditure in fiscal year 1996, or provided from any accounts in the Treasury of the United States derived by the collection of fees available to the agencies funded by this Act, shall be available for obligation or expenditure for activities, programs, or projects through a reprogramming of funds in excess of $500,000 or 10 percent, whichever is less, that (1) augments existing programs, projects, or activities; (2) reduces by 10 percent funding for any existing program, project, or activity, or numbers of personnel by 10 percent as approved by Congress; or (3) results from any general savings from a reduction in personnel which would result in a change in existing programs, activities, or projects as approved by Congress; unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress are notified fifteen days in advance of such reprogramming of funds.

SEC. 606. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used for the construction, repair (other than emergency repair), overhaul, conversion, or modernization of vessels for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in shipyards located outside of the United States.

SEC. 607. (a) PURCHASE OF AMERICAN-MADE EQUIPMENT AND PRODUCTS.—It is the sense of the Congress that, to the greatest extent practicable, all equipment and products purchased with funds made available in this Act should be American-made.

(b) NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—In providing financial assistance to, or entering into any contract with, any entity using funds made available in this Act, the head of each Federal agency, to the greatest extent practicable, shall provide to such entity a notice describing the statement made in subsection (a) by the Congress.

SEC. 608. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to implement, administer, or enforce any guidelines of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission covering harassment based on religion, when it is made known to the Federal entity or official to which such funds are made available that such guidelines do not differ in any respect from the proposed guidelines published by the Commission on October 1, 1993 (58 Fed. Reg. 51266).

SEC. 609. LIMITATION ON THE USE OF FUNDS FOR DIPLOMATIC FACILITIES IN VIETNAM.—None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available by this Act may be obligated or expended to pay for any cost incurred for (1) opening or operating any United States diplomatic or consular post in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam that was not operating on July 11, 1995; (2) expanding any United States diplomatic or consular post in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam that was operating on July 11, 1995; or (3) increasing the total number of personnel assigned to United States diplomatic or consular posts in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam above the levels existing on July 11, 1995.

SEC. 610. None of the funds made available by this Act may be used for any United Nations undertaking when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds (1) that the United Nations undertaking is a peacekeeping mission, (2) that such undertaking will involve United States Armed Forces under the command or operational control of a foreign national, and (3) that the President's military advisors have not submitted to the President a recommendation that such involvement is in the national security interests of the United States and the President has not submitted to the Congress such a recommendation.

SEC. 611. None of the funds made available in this Act shall be used to provide the following amenities or personal comforts in the Federal prison system—

(1) in-cell television viewing except for prisoners who are segregated from the general prison population for their own safety;

(2) the viewing of R, X, and NC-17 rated movies, through whatever medium presented;

(3) any instruction (live or through broadcasts) or training equipment for boxing, wrestling, judo, karate, or other martial art, or any bodybuilding or weightlifting equipment of any sort;

(4) possession of in-cell coffee pots, hot plates, or heating elements; or

(5) the use or possession of any electric or electronic musical instrument.

SEC. 612. None of the funds made available in title II for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration under the heading "Fleet Modernization, Shipbuilding and Conversion" may be used to implement sections 603, 604, and 605 of Public Law 102-567.

SEC. 613. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used for "USIA Television Marti Program" under the Television Broadcasting to Cuba Act or any other program of United States Government television broadcasts to Cuba, when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that such use would be inconsistent with the applicable provisions of the March 1995 Office of Cuba Broadcasting Reinventing Plan of the United States Information Agency.

SEC. 614. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds appropriated under this Act may be used in violation of the provisions of paragraphs (2) and (3).

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, neither the Federal Government nor any officer, employee, or department or agency of the Federal Government—

(A) may intentionally discriminate against, or may grant a preference to, any individual or group based in whole or in part on race, color, national origin, or sex, in connection with—

(i) a Federal contract or subcontract;

(ii) Federal employment; or

(iii) any other federally conducted program or activity;

(B) may require or encourage any Federal contractor or subcontractor to intentionally discriminate against, or grant a preference to, any individual or group based in whole or in part on race, color, national origin, or sex; or

(C) may enter into a consent decree that requires, authorizes, or permits any activity prohibited by subparagraph (A) or (B).

(3) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit or limit any effort by the Federal Government or any officer, employee, or department or agency of the Federal Government—

(A) to recruit qualified women or qualified minorities into an applicant pool for Federal employment or to encourage businesses owned by women or by minorities to bid for Federal contracts or subcontracts, if such recruitment or encouragement does not involve using a numerical objective, or otherwise granting a preference, based in whole or in part on race, color, national origin, or sex, in selecting any individual or group for the relevant employment, contract or subcontract, benefit, opportunity, or program; or

(B) to require or encourage any Federal contractor or subcontractor to recruit qualified women or qualified minorities into an applicant pool for employment or to encourage businesses owned by women or by minorities to bid for Federal contracts or subcontracts, if such requirement or encouragement does not involve using a numerical objective, or otherwise granting a preference, based in whole or in part on race, color, national origin, or sex, in selecting any individual or group for the relevant employment, contract or subcontract, benefit, opportunity, or program.

(4)(A) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit or limit any Act that is designated to benefit an institution that is a historically Black college or university on the basis that the institution is a historically Black college or university.

(B) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit or limit any action taken—

(i) pursuant to a law enacted under the constitutional papers of Congress relating to the Indian tribes; or

(ii) under a treaty between an Indian tribe and the United States.

(C) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit or limit any classification based on sex if—

(i) sex is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operation of the Federal Government entity or Federal contractor or subcontractor involved;

(ii) the classification is designed to protect the privacy of individuals; or

(iii) (I) the occupancy of the position for which the classification is made, or access to the premises in or on which any part of the duties of such position is performed or is to be performed, is subject to any requirement imposed in the interest of the national security of the United States under any security program in effect pursuant to or administered under any Act or any Executive order of the President; or

(II) the classification is applied with respect to a member of the Armed Forces serving on active duty in a theatre of combat operations (as determined by the Secretary of Defense).

(5)(A) In any action involving a violation of this subsection, a court may award only injunctive or equitable relief (including but not limited to back pay), a reasonable attorney's fee, and costs.

(B) Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to affect any remedy available under any other law.

(6)(A) This subsection shall not affect any case pending on the date of enactment of this Act.

(B) This subsection shall not affect any contract, subcontract, or consent decree in effect on the date of enactment of this Act, including any option exercised under such contract or subcontract before or after such date of enactment.

(7) This subsection does not prohibit or limit the availability of funds to implement a—

(A) court order or consent decree issued before the date of enactment of this Act; or

(B) court order or consent decree that—

(i) is issued on or after the date of enactment of this Act; and

(ii) provides a remedy based on a finding of discrimination by a person to whom the order applies.

(8) As used in this subsection—

(A) The term "Federal Government" means the executive and legislative branches of the Government of the United States.

(B) The term "grant a preference" means use of any preferential treatment and includes but is not limited to any use of a quota, set-aside, numerical goal, timetable, or other numerical objective.

(C) The term "historically Black college or university" means a part B institution, as defined in section 322(2) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (920 U.S.C. 1061(2)).

SEC. 615. (1) This Act may be cited as the "Stop Turning Out Prisoners Act".

(2) IN GENERAL.—Section 3626 of title 18, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§3626. Appropriate remedies with respect to prison conditions

"(a) REQUIREMENTS FOR RELIEF.—

"(1) LIMITATIONS ON PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—Prospective relief in a civil action with respect to prison conditions shall extend no further than necessary to remove the conditions that are causing the deprivation of the Federal rights of individual plaintiffs in that civil action. The court shall not grant or approve any prospective relief unless the court finds that such relief is narrowly drawn and the least intrusive means to remedy the violation of the Federal right. In determining the intrusiveness of the relief, the court shall give substantial weight to any adverse impact on public safety or the operation of a criminal justice system caused by the relief.

"(2) PRISON POPULATION REDUCTION RELIEF.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, the court shall not grant or approve any relief the purpose or effect of which is to reduce or limit the prison population, unless the plaintiff proves that crowding is the primary cause of the deprivation of the Federal right and no other relief will remedy that deprivation.

"(b) TERMINATION OF RELIEF.—

"(1) AUTOMATIC TERMINATION OF PROSPECTIVE RELIEF AFTER 2-YEAR PERIOD.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, any prospective relief shall automatically terminate 2 years after the later of—

"(A) the date the court found the violation of a Federal right that was the basis for the relief; or

"(B) the date of the enactment of the Stop Turning Out Prisoners Act.

"(2) IMMEDIATE TERMINATION OF PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, a defendant or intervenor shall be entitled to the immediate termination of any prospective relief, if that relief was approved or granted in the absence of a finding by the court that prison conditions violated a Federal right.

"(c) PROCEDURE FOR MOTIONS AFFECTING PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—

"(1) GENERALLY.—The court shall promptly rule on any motion to modify or terminate prospective relief in a civil action with respect to prison conditions.

"(2) AUTOMATIC STAY.—Any prospective relief subject to a pending motion shall be automatically stayed during the period—

"(A) beginning on the 30th day after such motion is filed, in the case of a motion made under subsection (b); and

"(B) beginning on the 180th day after such motion is filed, in the case of a motion made under any other law; and ending on the date the court enters a final order ruling on that motion.

"(d) STANDING.—Any Federal, State, or local official or unit of government—

"(1) whose jurisdiction or function includes the prosecution or custody of persons in a prison subject to; or

"(2) who otherwise is or may be affected by; any relief the purpose or effect of which is to reduce or limit the prison population shall have standing to oppose the imposition or continuation in effect of that relief and may intervene in any proceeding relating to that relief. Standing shall be liberally conferred under this subsection so as to effectuate the remedial purposes of this section.

"(e) SPECIAL MASTERS.—In any civil action in a Federal court with respect to prison conditions, any special master or monitor shall be a United States magistrate and shall make proposed findings on the record on complicated factual issues submitted to that special master or monitor by the court, but shall have no other function. The parties may not by consent extend the function of a special master beyond that permitted under this subsection.

"(f) ATTORNEY'S FEES.—No attorney's fee under section 722 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (42 U.S.C. 1988) may be granted to a plaintiff in a civil action with respect to prison conditions except to the extent such fee is—

"(1) directly and reasonably incurred in proving an actual violation of the plaintiff's Federal rights; and

"(2) proportionally related to the extent the plaintiff obtains court ordered relief for that violation.

"(g) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section—

"(1) the term 'prison' means any Federal, State, or local facility that incarcerates or detains juveniles or adults accused of, convicted of, sentenced for, or adjudicated delinquent for, violations of criminal law;

"(2) the term 'relief' means all relief in any form which may be granted or approved by the court, and includes consent decrees and settlement agreements; and

"(3) the term 'prospective relief' means all relief other than compensatory monetary damages."

(3) APPLICATION OF AMENDMENT.—Section 3626 of title 18, United States Code, as amended by this section, shall apply with respect to all relief (as defined in such section) whether such relief was originally granted or approved before, on, or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(4) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of subchapter C of chapter 229 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking "crowding" and inserting "conditions".

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, we have before us a very complicated bill, a very controversial bill. We are attempting to establish a sequence of activity with a goal of trying to expedite its consideration.

In order that we might try to get all this to come together in an orderly fashion, because I know many of our colleagues hope to be gone this weekend—even though, knowing I would be managing the bill, I plan to be here tomorrow and Saturday, so I am in no hurry; I want to be sure my colleagues understand that—but in order to try to expedite our consideration here, we have put together an amendment that will be offered by Senator HATFIELD, the distinguished chairman of the full committee, an amendment that is co-sponsored by Senator HOLLINGS.

It has to do with adding to our 602(b) allocation; that is, allocating additional money to the subcommittee and then disbursing that money in such a way as to deal with some of the concerns that have been raised against the bill. And so that we could deal with this in an orderly fashion, I would like to propound a unanimous-consent request that we have opening statements by the distinguished ranking member of the subcommittee, by myself, by any other Senator who would like to make an opening statement; that then it be in order for us to submit for consideration managers' amendments that have been agreed to on both sides and any debate there might be on them; and then I would like it to be in order for the distinguished Senator from Oregon, Senator HATFIELD, to offer his amendment with Senator HOLLINGS because it addresses numerous issues.

If we do not do it in that way, we are probably going to simply use up time as we try to deal with those issues one by one. We can certainly proceed without this unanimous-consent request, but I hope our colleagues will indulge us since our objective is simply to try to expedite consideration of the bill.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, this procedure has been agreed to, so I hope we can proceed along that line.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, would the distinguished Senator from Texas yield?

Mr. GRAMM. I would be very happy to yield.

Mr. BYRD. The distinguished chairman spoke of a reallocation of resources?

Mr. GRAMM. Yes, I did.

Mr. BYRD. The chairman of the committee and the ranking member of the full committee are authorized to approve such reallocation. Nobody has proposed this to the ranking member as yet about such a reallocation of resources.

Would the Senator inform me as to whether or not I am going to be contacted on that matter?

Mr. GRAMM. Well, if I might say to the distinguished Senator from West Virginia, this is not my amendment. There has been a series of discussions among Members. Basically what the Senator from Oregon has been doing is trying to find a way through our impasse.

As I am sure our colleagues are aware, our appropriations bill has $4.26 billion less than requested by the President for our subcommittee. It has $1.9 billion less than a freeze. And it has $870 million less than the House.

Senator HATFIELD has been working with Senator HOLLINGS and others to try to allocate funds to this subcommittee. I was unaware, I must say, that that had not been discussed with the distinguished Senator from West Virginia.

I have an outline of the amendment. But probably what I should do under this circumstance is simply ask unanimous consent that we be able to do opening statements, that we be able to do the technical managers' amendments we have agreed to, give the distinguished Senator from West Virginia an opportunity to discuss this with Senator HATFIELD, who is in a meeting with the Secretary of Energy on something very important in his State right now.

When the agreement has been reached and the ranking member, Senator BYRD, is satisfied, then we can proceed with it. And, again, this is not my amendment; I have not been directly involved in it even though I have concluded that this is a prudent thing for us to do.

Mr. BYRD. Well, I certainly thank the distinguished Senator. I know that it is an oversight, an inadvertent one. I want to make clear that such authorizations of reallocations have to be made by both the chairman and the ranking member of the full committee. And we make those after contacting various and sundry subcommittee chairmen. And I do not anticipate any problem along that line. But I thought I had better make mention of this before it becomes a problem.

Mr. GRAMM. Well, Mr. President, let me just then ask unanimous consent that we have opening statements by Senator HOLLINGS and myself and any other Member who would wish to make an opening statement, that it also be in order for us to offer managers' amendments where we have agreement on both sides of the aisle, and that when an agreement is reached between the distinguished chairman of the full committee and the ranking member, Senator BYRD, that at that point it be in order for Senator HATFIELD to offer his amendment which deals with some 20 different subjects. I think by doing it that way, we can expedite consideration.

So I ask unanimous consent that it be in order to have opening statements, that it be in order for me to offer, on behalf of myself and Senator HOLLINGS, managers' amendments where there is agreement on both sides of the aisle, and that it then be in order, when Senator BYRD has agreed, for the distinguished chairman of the full committee, Senator HATFIELD, to offer an amendment on behalf of himself and Senator HOLLINGS.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I am not sure I heard the entire request. I apologize to the Senator from Texas. We would certainly have no objection to opening statements at this point. Because no one has had the opportunity to see these amendments, we have had requests on our side that prior to the time we agree to any kind of unanimous-consent agreement which would involve these amendments that Senators have the opportunity to look at them.

So, we would have to object to anything beyond the opportunity to make opening statements at this point.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, we are certainly narrowing it down to opening statements.

So with that, I ask unanimous consent that we begin opening statements and that it not be in order to offer an amendment until those opening statements are completed; at that point that—let me state it this way: I ask unanimous consent that it be in order now to have opening statements; that at the conclusion of the opening statements, subject to the agreement of the minority leader, at that point that it be in order for the distinguished Senator from Oregon, Senator HATFIELD, to offer an amendment on behalf of himself and Senator HOLLINGS.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, let me try to give an opening statement on a very complicated bill without getting into too many of the details but in such a way as to basically cover the issues that are involved in this bill.

I think there are many reasons why this is a very complicated and a very controversial bill. One reason is money. This bill, probably more than any other appropriation that we will consider this year, has a very tight budget. It, in fact, provides $4.26 billion less for Commerce-State-Justice appropriations than was requested by the President.

It provides almost $2 billion less than a nominal freeze in the current level of appropriations for Commerce-State-Justice. And I remind my colleagues that, compared to some of the larger appropriation accounts, this is a fairly small appropriations bill in terms of actual dollar outlays. So when we are talking about $2 billion less for fiscal year 1996 than we are spending this year, we are talking about a substantial reduction in the ability to expend money for the carrying out of functions in the Department of Commerce, the Department of State, and the Department of Justice.

The bill also has almost $900 million less than our counterparts in the House had. And this is the first point I want my colleagues to understand. When the President criticized this bill for not providing funding for purposes for which he requested funding, it is important for our colleagues—and, quite frankly, it is important for those who are following this debate—to understand that we are operating under a totally different budget than the President proposed.

Our budget comes into balance in 7 years. Our budget substantially reduces discretionary spending. Our budget imposes very real constraints on spending money.

The President, in proposing $4.3 billion more for these three Departments of Government than we proposed, does so in a budget that will not be in balance by the second coming. It does so in a budget that will not bring the deficit below $200 billion in a decade.

So the fact that the President, in his budget, can request funding for many functions that we do not fund is simply a testament to the fact that our budget is a binding budget that is balanced over 7 years and the President's budget is not.

There are several ways to approach the writing of an appropriations bill where you have to cut $4.3 billion. One way—and, quite frankly, in no way being critical, but I want people to understand why this is such a controversial bill—one way is to take the approach which has been taken in most other appropriations bills, and that is to simply take the level of savings that is dictated, nick a whole bunch of programs a little bit and, basically, take the approach that you are going to sort of hunker down and not fundamentally change anything.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that this is roughly equivalent to an action that a family which is running out of money might take at the end of the month when they say, "Well, we're running out of money and what we're going to do is spend a little bit less going to the movie and spend a little bit less on milk for the children."

As we know, families do not operate that way. Families set priorities. Families decide toward the end of the month when they are running out of money that they are not going to go to the movie, but that they are going to continue to buy their children milk.

As chairman of this subcommittee, I decided that if we were shooting with real bullets, if we were going to write an appropriations bill now that set out a path to balance the budget over 7 years, that we ought to recognize, to begin with, that we are going to have less money next year than we had this year, less the next, and less in each successive year for the next 6 years.

So I made the decision to terminate programs, to set priorities. My original recommendation terminated some 12 programs outright. It also set very strong priorities. It was my decision as chairman of the subcommittee that not all programs in the Commerce, State, Justice appropriations bill were created equally. I believe that the American people have very strong preferences, and what I have tried to do within the monetary constraints that I have had as chairman, and this has been supported by the majority in both the subcommittee and the full committee, is to try to fund the President's effort in fighting crime. I am very proud of the fact that this bill fully funds the FBI and the DEA. It fully funds our efforts to incarcerate violent criminals. It provides a strong funding increase for the courts to hire prosecutors to provide the system of criminal and civil justice that we need to deal with the problems that we face.

This bill provides a substantial increase in funding for the Justice Department, funding for our effort to fight violent crime, funding for our effort to fight drugs.

I will come back in a moment and talk about changes in how the Justice Department would function, but let me make this point. While we provide, basically, the same level of funding requested by the President, we have in subcommittee and full committee on this bill changed the allocation of funding. In the crime trust fund, we spend less money on social programs, we spend more money building prisons. It is a belief of the subcommittee and the full committee that we need to get tough on violent crime, and we try to do that in this crime bill.

The second area that we fund in this bill has to do with the Department of State. I have to say, Mr. President, that I have been somewhat disappointed. I visited with the Secretary of State. I explained to the Secretary of State the simple arithmetic of this bill, and the simple arithmetic of this bill is as follows:

If we provide roughly the level of funding requested by the President for the Justice Department, if we provide funding for half of the increase requested by the Federal judiciary, what that means is, given the amount of money we have left, that we have to cut every other program by an average of 36 percent. That is the cold reality that we are looking at.

I tried to explain to the Secretary of State that that was basically where we were and that that meant that we were going to have to reduce the level of funding for the State Department by roughly 20 percent. That is actually better treatment than we provided for the Commerce Department in this bill.

We have not adopted the authorization bill for the State Department, but a majority of the Members of the Senate have voted for that authorization. It has been filibustered. We have been unable to get 60 votes and, as a result, what I did in writing the appropriations bill is I took the authorization bill which has received a majority vote in the Senate on a cloture motion and I used it as the blueprint to write funding for the State Department.

The basic reductions that occur in the State Department budget have to do with American payments for membership in world organizations. The distinguished Senator from North Carolina, Senator HELMS, in his authorization bill, dramatically reduces the amount of taxpayer funding that goes to world organizations to promote objectives that, at least in the minds of the majority of the Members of the Senate, did not reflect the will of the American people.

I think it is important to note, and I want to be sure that it is part of the RECORD, that despite all of the moaning from the State Department that somehow not a sufficient account is taken in this bill that representing America abroad today is a dangerous business, something that I understand, I appreciate the sacrifice that is made by people who work in the State Department.

As a result, I have fully funded every penny requested by the President in his budget for such expenditures. Even though he spends $4.3 billion more in his budget than we are allowed to spend in ours, I fund every penny the President requests for security abroad for both our Embassies and our personnel.

So the criticism of the State Department that somehow we are underfunding the State Department and the needs of its people is simply verifiably false.

This is a tough budget. It does reflect the fact that the American people do not believe that we are getting our money's worth with all of these world organizations where we pay the bulk of the dues and have a relatively small say in what they do and on how our money is spent.

I think the plain truth is the American people understand that in the postwar period, America has been like a little rich kid in the middle of a slum with a cake. The whole world has looked at this cake and wanted a piece of it. We literally have run all over the world handing out pieces of this cake. Nobody has loved us for it. In fact, in many cases, they have not loved us, thinking they should have gotten more.

The fundamental philosophy behind this appropriations bill is we need to stop sharing the cake, and we need to start sharing the recipe we used to bake the cake, which is free enterprise, individual liberty, and private property.

So in the State Department appropriations bill, we provide $4.4 billion. The President requested $5.6 billion. Much of this reduction is taken in membership in world organizations. And, quite frankly, while this can be debated forever, I would be perfectly content to take my appropriations bill, take the President's budget, to tear the title page off, to put each of them on the table in every kitchen of every working American and let them decide whether they want money spent funding the war on violent crime in America, the war on drugs, gaining control of our borders, or whether they want the money spent paying dues to organizations around the world where the United States is now a member of these organizations and, in many cases, is paying the bulk of the dues.

I do not think there is any doubt that the American people would choose the position that I have chosen. It seems to me that is why the State Department has not wanted to debate the real issue here.

In terms of the Commerce Department, let me remind my colleagues that the budget that we adopted in the Senate was a budget that called for the elimination of the Commerce Department.

I have listened to my colleagues talk about eliminating departments, and I then look at their willingness to vote to actually cut the programs, and I often see a gulf between the rhetoric and the reality. It is almost as if when people are talking about eliminating departments, they want to go down and take down the flag and take down the plaque off the wall, but they want the Government to keep doing the things the Department has been doing.

When we adopted a budget that called for the elimination of the Commerce Department, when the Government Operations Committee reported a bill to eliminate the Commerce Department, I, as chairman of this subcommittee, believed that they were serious. And, as a result, we dramatically reduce spending in the Commerce Department. We set up a procedure to provide funds for current employees, and we provide the mechanism that would allow us, if in fact we pass the authorizing bill, to terminate the Department, and to do it in an orderly fashion.

Now, many of the people who voted for the budget to eliminate the Department want to preserve some of its programs and, obviously, we are going to have votes on those. There are many programs within the Commerce Department that this bill eliminates outright. But, basically, it is a bill that begins the process of dramatically reducing the level of expenditures for activities where the Government is attempting to pick winners and losers in the American economy. There is a fundamental philosophical difference between the two parties on this issue. The party which I represent—the philosophy I believe in—believes that the market system ought to be the basic determining factor of who gets money to invest; that Government does not have the wisdom to make that decision and, quite frankly, even if it had the wisdom to make that decision, since it is inherently a political decision, it would not make that decision very well.

That is an outline of the expenditures of the bill. As I said, the bill eliminates some dozen programs from the Minority Business Development Agency to the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration, to the Technology Administration, to the information infrastructure grants, to the Death Penalty Resource Centers, to the Competitive Policy Council, the Ounce of Prevention Council, and the bill eliminates Legal Services as a Federal program.

Now, let me talk about the language changes in the bill, because almost every one of these provisions is controversial. So let me try to tick through basically what the bill does.

The House appropriations bill appropriated to their crime bill, which was part of the Contract With America. The Senate has not passed a crime bill. The crime bill passed in the House contemplated and, in fact, provided a dramatic change in the President's program to provide funds to State and local governments. We had no corresponding bill pass in the Senate, but we do have a bill that has been introduced by Senator HATCH in conjunction with Senator DOLE. To make the House and Senate crime bills conformable, it was decided by the subcommittee and the full committee to write in the allocation formula from the Dole-Hatfield proposal, so that both appropriations bills are moving in the same direction toward block grants. Needless to say, with Senator BIDEN, this has been a very controversial subject, and we have worked out an agreement where Senator BIDEN will offer a substitute for this provision.

Senator HATCH and Senator DOLE would like to change their proposal, which was written into the bill, and so they will basically put the ball in the air. Each will submit alternatives, and we will determine, based on a vote on the floor of the U.S. Senate, what direction we move in.

But let me be sure that everybody understands what the bill before us does in this area. The bill before us would allow communities to carry out the community policing program exactly as the President proposed, if they choose to. In the bill before us, we would allocate funds to local police departments, and they would have the ability to do community policing exactly as the President has proposed, if they choose to do it. The objection that has been leveled against this block grant is not that they cannot do what the President has proposed we do, but that they have the option of doing it in a different way. The objection to our language is not a dispute about the President's program so much as it is a dispute in the ability of local government and local chiefs of police to decide to use the money in a different way if they think that will work better for them.

We have set out a guideline on how the money could be used. If people chose to do community policing, to put more policemen on the beat, as our crime bill last year proposed, and as the President supports, they could do that. If they decide that they want to have more policemen on the beat, but they want to use the funds for training, they could do that. If they decide that they want to work overtime to get better trained police officers on the street now while they bring new trainees into the police academy, they could do that. If they decide they need to use the funds to buy equipment to make their system more efficient, they could do that. But they have the capacity to carry out the program as the President has proposed, if they choose to.

The second change in language has to do with the Legal Services Corporation. It is not news to any of my colleagues that I am not a fan of the Legal Services Corporation. I believe that it has some legitimate functions. But I think that, in many cases, they have not carried those functions out.

Legal Services Corporation today has a lawsuit underway against every State in the Union that has tried to reform welfare. Every time any State in the Union has had a mandatory work requirement, the Legal Services Corporation has filed a lawsuit against them. Any time any State in the Union has tried to deny additional benefits to welfare recipients who have additional children on welfare, the Legal Services Corporation has filed a lawsuit against them.

The Legal Services Corporation has a long history of using taxpayer funds to promote causes which are not taxpayers' causes. My view is, Mr. President, that if someone wants to file a lawsuit against the State of New Jersey saying that they cannot have a mandatory work requirement for welfare recipients because it violates the constitutional rights of welfare recipients to have to work, people ought to have a right to file that lawsuit. But they ought not to use taxpayers' money to do it.

In any case, after many years of battling on this issue, this year I proposed—and was successful—in the initial mark to eliminate the Legal Services Corporation outright.

I did not have the votes in subcommittee to do that. An agreement was reached where we eliminate the Federal Legal Services Corporation. We take roughly half the money that it is now spending and we give that money in a block grant to State governments. Then State governments, within a set of guidelines which limit the ability of organizations that take Federal taxpayers' money to engage, basically, in the promotion of class action suits, opposing welfare, and a series of other restrictions based on past concerns—have block grants to spend on legal services. It provides roughly half the funds that the existing program provides.

Another controversial area of language in the bill has to do with prisoners' work. This is an issue which I feel very strongly about. I do not have much doubt in my mind that when the votes are counted on the floor of the Senate, I am going to lose on this issue. But I want the American people to know about it. Part of my reward for being chairman is that now people have to take this provision out.

Let me define the problem. To keep someone in the Federal penitentiary this year is going to cost the Federal taxpayers $22,000. We could send somebody to Harvard for what we are going to pay to keep them in the Federal penitentiary. We are paying more to keep someone in the Federal penitentiary than they would make if they could earn twice the minimum wage working.

Now, why is that so? Part of the reason is because of the way we build prisons. I have tried in this bill to begin moving us in the direction of stopping the building of Federal prisons like Holiday Inns, taking out the air conditioner, the color television, the weight room. The key ingredient in this direction is requiring Federal prisoners to work.

Now, this is where we run headlong into greedy special interests. This is not just the greedy special interests of organized labor. It is also, quite frankly, the greedy special interests of corporate America. It is the greedy special interests of big business, and it is the greedy special interests of small business.

We have three laws in effect that basically criminalize working Federal prisoners. It is basically criminal in America for prisoners to work in any conventional sense of working. Most Americans have not the foggiest idea this is true, and they would go absolutely berserk if they understood it.

These three laws basically go back to the Depression era when we took a criminal justice system where prisoners were working, where they were to a substantial degree paying the cost of their own incarceration, and in the Depression era we started eliminating their ability to work.

Now, some people could argue—though I would never make the argument—that it may have made sense in the Depression because by not having prisoners do something, someone else could do it and it would create a job. If one could have made that argument in the Depression, they cannot make that argument today.

We have one Federal statute that makes it illegal for prisoners to work in producing anything sold in interstate commerce. We have a law that makes it illegal for a prisoner to produce anything that is transported in interstate commerce. We have another law that makes it illegal for prisoners to produce anything that is sold within the State in which it is produced. Then we have another provision that sets out guidelines where, if prisoners did produce something that was sold in the private market, they would have to be paid union scale.

Let me translate all of those amendments and what they mean. What that means, in essence, is you cannot make prisoners work in producing anything to sell in the private sector of the economy.

All over the country we have 100,000 people in the Federal penitentiary. We have 1 million people incarcerated in America. By and large, except for producing a handful of things that are relatively insignificant in value as compared to the total economy, they cannot work.

Now, we have a bunch of programs in States where prisoners produce car tags. We have a Federal program where they produce furniture for the Federal Government. But by and large these laws prevent us from putting prisoners to work. I would like prisoners to work 10 hours a day 6 days a week. I would like to turn our Federal prisons into industrial parks.

What I have done in this bill is I have overturned these three laws, and I have set out a simple guideline. What the bill says is that it is legal for prisoners to be required to work so long as the President certifies that what they produce is not sold in such a way as to glut a local market or to glut the national market.

What I foresee under this provision, if it becomes law, is that we could turn our Federal prisons into industrial parks. Many of the goods that are produced abroad, component parts from everything from air conditioners to wheelbarrows to automobiles, we could produce some of those component parts with prison labor.

If we stopped building prisons like Holiday Inns, we could probably cut the $22,000 in half. If we required prisoners to work, we could probably cut the $11,000 of net cost in half. I believe that within a decade we could cut the cost of incarcerating people by 75 percent. But we are probably not going to do it. Let me tell you why. Because organized labor and because a few industries that do not want any competition will support the offering of an amendment that will continue to criminalize prison labor in America.

Now, I offered this provision in our bill because I think it is needed. I think when you have 1 million people incarcerated, it is inhumane not to have an orderly system where they can work. I will not drag this dead cat across the table too many more times here, but I want to remind my colleagues that when Alexis de Tocqueville came to America in the 1830's and went back home and wrote "Democracy in America," one part of American life that he commented on was our prison system and how enlightened it was because we worked prisoners hard. Prisoners at that time were working 12, 14 hours a day 6 days a week, and de Tocqueville noted how enlightened it was because by making prisoners work it made life in prison bearable.

If we made prisoners work today, not only would we save money, but people when they got out of prison would have a skill that they learned working in prison. If we made them go to school at night, they would know how to read and write, and having worked 10 hours a day 6 days a week, go to school at night, serve their full term, when they get out of prison they would not want to go back.

That is not going to happen because this provision is going to be stricken out by special interests. I know it, but I want people to have to vote on it, and I want people to be able to look at their vote. Prisoners in America should be required to work. They should be allowed to work in producing things that we can sell.

Every year our dear colleague, Senator HELMS, offers an amendment to ban trade with countries that make prisoners work. Every year I wonder why we cannot make our prisoners work. How is it that we have people who are working two and three jobs, struggling to make ends meet, and we are paying $22,000 a year to keep somebody in prison, and then we cannot force them to work to produce something of value to pay for their own incarceration?

It is called greedy, petty, special interests. The world ought to know about it. I hope to awaken them by putting this provision in this bill that somebody has to take out.

Now let me talk very briefly about two other language provisions in the bill. One has to do with the 8(a) program. The 8(a) program is designed to help disadvantaged businesses. The basic idea of the 8(a) program was that there are some businesses that are disadvantaged and that we want to try to help them get on the playing field and be more competitive.

The problem is that over the years, disadvantaged has come to mean minority or female. You cannot be disadvantaged, under the 8(a) contract, if you are not a minority and if you are male. So what I try to do is open up the 8(a) contract and say, no matter what your gender is, no matter what your race is, if you are operating in a depressed area, if you are a small, struggling business and you are hiring people who live in a distressed area, you ought to be treated in exactly the same way as someone doing exactly the same things you are who is from a different ethnic group or from a different gender.

We do not eliminate the 8(a) program, we simply open it up to people who are disadvantaged because they are small business people in depressed areas with high unemployment and they are hiring people from those areas.

This is a controversial subject. I understand that. But I believe, again, if we could put this proposal on the kitchen table in every kitchen in America and ask, if somebody is a small business person, if they are operating in an area of high unemployment, if they are hiring people who are from a high unemployment area, why should they be discriminated against based on race or gender? I think America has asked that question and I think America has answered it. They are waiting for the U.S. Senate to answer it and I want to give them a chance to answer it today.

The final provision I want to talk about in the bill, in terms of language, has to do with quotas and set-asides. I understand where the Senate stands on this issue. Of all people here, I understand it. I offered an amendment earlier this year to ban set-asides, to open up competition, and to say that in bidding on a Government contract you have to be judged on merit; that you cannot be judged based on gender or race. The American people say, by an 80-percent margin, that they support the merit system. America was built on it. Discriminating against people is fundamentally un-American, but the Senate supports discrimination and proved it on that night in that amendment.

This is my bill, as chairman of this subcommittee, and I am very proud of the fact that we have, in this bill, in the jurisdiction of Commerce, State, Justice under this bill, we say that it is illegal to discriminate against anybody in hiring, promotion, and contracting, and it is illegal to discriminate in favor of anybody. It is simple language. In fact, it is the language which the distinguished majority leader, Senator DOLE, has worked out. I had worked out similar language but, frankly, I thought his language was better so I included it.

It is basically a commitment to merit. I have to believe, based on our past vote, that this provision will be stripped out. But, again, America ought to know who is and who is not for quotas; who is and who is not for set-asides. Let me make it clear that the language in this bill preserves our total effort of outreach. It preserves our ability to go out and recruit people to apply for jobs. It gives us the full ability to work, to see that everybody gets on the playing field. But it requires that, once people are on the playing field, when it comes to being hired, being promoted, or getting a contract, that must be done by merit.

So this is a very controversial bill. It is no accident that we have kept it to the end. I am quite proud of the bill. Obviously, others oppose it. And the way democracy works is that we propose and we debate, and I accept the outcome of it. But I think this bill represents a dramatic change and, quite frankly, I have been disappointed in the other appropriations bills in that we have committed to a budget that calls for a dramatic change but everybody seems to be waiting until next year or the next year or the next year to make these changes. I wanted to make them now. I may not be here 2 years from now. I do not know. I may not be on this committee next Monday—I do not know that either. But I do know that I believe this represents a dramatic break with the past.

This bill terminates programs. This bill dramatically changes the way we operate the Federal Government. And I think it gives people a very clear choice. It defines a movement in the direction that I would like to see us go. I am proud that the subcommittee and full committee supported the effort to bring the bill to this point. I know there are some people on the subcommittee and full committee who, now that we are on the floor, will abandon us on some of these issues. But I think we have before us a good bill and, Mr. President, I appreciate the indulgence of the Chair as I outlined the bill.

Let me yield the floor for the distinguished ranking member, a man who has served on this subcommittee as both chairman and ranking member, a man for whom I have very great respect, the distinguished Senator from South Carolina.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GORTON). The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I rise today to speak against H.R. 2076, the fiscal year 1996 Commerce, Justice, and State appropriations bill. For me, this is unprecedented. Never in my 25 years on the Appropriations Committee—or my 18 years as serving as either the chairman or ranking minority member of this subcommittee—have I opposed this bill. And never in my career here have I seen an appropriations bill prepared in such a partisan manner and voted out of committee on straight party lines.

I am against this bill because I simply cannot go along with its recommendations and because of its extreme nature. This bill represents a 180-degree departure from the way we on this committee have approached our job when senators Rudman, Weicker, Pastore, Laxalt, and DOMENICI and I were chairman or ranking member. In the past, we focused on the business of governing. We worked together to ensure that the agencies under our jurisdiction are well-run and appropriately funded. Our job always was to see to it that the taxpayers' dollars were well spent. If a program was worth it, we sought to fund it adequately. At the same time, we conducted budget scrubs to ensure that we achieved savings from delayed contracts, program changes, and other technical matters.

But Mr. President, that is not what today's bill is about. It is not about governing. It is about politics and making philosophical policy statements. It is about picking winners and losers. It is about throwing money at one part of this bill, the Department of Justice, and about wreaking havoc on the rest of the bill. In many ways, this bill seems more like a budget resolution than an appropriations bill.

Mr. President, government is not a dirty word. I know that there are some who have come to Washington intending to have a fire sale. Well, those people will probably like this bill because it is a bonfire. Agency after agency is eliminated or subjected to unprecedented reductions of 20 percent or more. This bill slashes programs with little description or detail of what is being cut. For example, the International Trade Administration is cut by $47 million below a freeze. But the report does not direct how the reduction should be made. Should it be from the Import Administration that protects U.S. industry from foreign dumping? Or should it come from the foreign commercial service that promotes U.S. industry overseas or from trade and industry sector analysis? This bill just does not say.

So, we have wholesale elimination of agencies. And we will have wholesale reductions in force and office closures. They are not being highlighted in this report, but mark my words on that.

Take the Small Business Administration. My friend SBA Administrator Phil Lader tells me that his appropriation for salaries and expenses means that the SBA will have to lay off 1,200 of their 3,100 employees.

Mr. President, maybe I am old fashioned, but I will not join in this fad that denigrates public service. In the 25 years I have worked on this bill, I have learned that much of it supports what we in the budget game call salaries and expenses. What that means is that most of this bill funds people. And I have come to have great respect for the dedicated public servants who work hard to serve the people of this country.

I think of Emilio Iodice, of the International Trade Administration, our senior commercial officer in Madrid, Spain, who is hustling day in and day out to get contracts for American business. I think of Dr. Neal Frank and Bob Sheets, of NOAA, who have run the hurricane center in Miami, FL, and who worked around the clock to warn us of killer storms. I think of Ambassador Princeton Lyman in South Africa who is helping that nation build a lasting democracy and of the many foreign service officers I have met. In my view, these State Department and USIA foreign service officers truly are the best and the brightest. I sometimes wonder how many of us could pass their stringent entry requirements. And of course, I think of the many professional comptrollers who with us on a day-to-day basis—people like Mike Roper at Justice, Mark Brown at Commerce, and Stan Silverman at USIA.

With this bill, I worry about the message that we are sending to these dedicated public servants and young people who might want to enter government service. I think we should be praising these people for their service, not denigrating them.

JUSTICE INCREASES

In the Commerce, Justice and State hearing room in the Capitol, there is a painting of Edmund Randolph, our first Attorney General. I think about him when I look at what is happening to this Justice budget in this bill. We are throwing money at a problem without being responsible. Do my colleagues know when funding for the justice department hit the $3 billion level? It was 1983. In other words, it took 194 years for the Justice Department's budget to reach $3 billion. And that is how much the increase is for Justice in this bill for just 1 year. That is nothing short of amazing.

I think most of us who were around in the early 1980's realize that we tried to throw too much money at Defense too quickly. And as some will remember, I was one of those who pushed hard to increase Defense in 1980. But, I fear that this is exactly what we are doing with Justice in the 1990's. This year, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is unable to spend almost $50 million that we gave it last year to hire more agents. Of course, the bureau will find other uses for the money. But this bill before us plans to give the FBI an increase of almost half a billion dollars above this year—an increase of 20 percent in one year. I am all for my good friend Judge Freeh and the dedicated agents who serve us. But a 20-percent increase in 1 year? And when I look at the Immigration Service, we are adding 1,300 border patrol agents per year, which again, is more than a 20-percent annual increase.

Now I stand second to none in my support for the Justice Department. During the span that I last served as subcommittee chairman of this appropriations subcommittee, the Justice Department grew from $3.9 billion in 1986 to $13.7 billion in 1994. In the Senate, Attorney General Janet Reno probably does not have a bigger fan than me. But we have got to slow down and take a look at where all this money is going. We have got to stop the bidding war to see who can throw more money at law enforcement to rack up political points.

Mr. President, this bill is largely the story of two bills. For Justice and judiciary, it represents increases and for the remainder of the bill it will cause destruction. It did not have to be done this way. I would urge my colleagues to look at how much more reasonable and moderate the bill is that the House sent to us. The Contract With America crowd developed a much more responsible bill.

I would like to describe some of the recommendations for my colleagues.

For the Commerce Department, the bill: Eliminates entirely several Commerce technology programs: the Technology Administration, new Advanced Technology Program and manufacturing extension program grants. It eliminates previous funding to modernize National Institute of Standards and Technology laboratories.

The bill eliminates the Minority Business Development Agency, a program created during the Nixon administration to empower minority entrepreneurs, and to expand minority-owned businesses.

The bill eliminates the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration.

The bill cuts the International Trade Administration by $45 million or 17 percent below a freeze. This would result in office closures around the country and overseas, and debilitate our trade promotion efforts for U.S. industry.

It cuts the Economic Development Administration [EDA] from its current level of $410 million to $100 million. It reduces one of the only programs with a direct charter to assist communities impacted by defense base closures and realignments.

It severely reduces the National Telecommunications and Information Administration [NTIA] operations, the public broadcasting and facilities program, and it terminates the information infrastructure grant program and the children's educational television program.

Mr. President, the bill authorizes and appropriates funds for a new Commerce Reorganization transition fund which finances personnel separation costs and termination costs for the various agencies proposed for elimination.

It provides $395 million for economic statistics and the Census Bureau, an increase of $84.5 million above the House bill, and $70.4 million above this year.

It provides $1.867 billion for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration [NOAA], a decrease of $45 million below the current year, but $92 million above the House bill. Like the House, the NOAA fleet modernization program is terminated.

For the State Department and international affairs agencies, the bill severely cuts State Department operations funding $340 million below this year's level. This will result in the closing of many embassies and consulates around the world and the layoff of 1,100 foreign service and civil service employees.

The bill rescinds $140 million in prior year appropriations for embassy construction, repairs and maintenance. This will likely result in the cancellation of our new embassy in Ottawa, Canada, and the elimination of repairs, maintenance and security improvements around the world.

The bill assumes S. 908, Senator HELMS' authorization, which never proceeded in the Senate because of its controversial provisions. This bill, however, provides $890 million less funding for the State Department than Senator HELMS proposed to authorize.

The bill authorizes and funds a new Foreign Affairs reorganization transition fund and provides $26 million for this account. Bill language directs the director of OMB rather than the Secretary of State to consolidate programs under State, USIA and ACDA.

Funding for international organizations is cut by 37 percent below current levels. This year the United States paid $873 million to the United Nations, the Organization of American States and 49 other international organizations. These assessments are based on treaty obligations. In 1996, the administration requested $923 million for these obligations. The bill provides only $550 million. We would have to pull out of a lot of international organizations or simply refuse to pay our bills.

The U.S. Information Agency [USIA] is devastated under the recommended bill. USIA is cut $364 million below the current year and $53 million below the House bill.

This bill cuts international educational exchanges, like the Fulbright program, by $43 million below the current year.

The bill provides $355 million for international broadcasting—the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe Liberty, and Radio and TV Marti. It is far below last year's level, but above the House.

For independent and regulatory agencies, the bill terminates the Legal Services Corporation, current funding of $400 million, and replaces it with a civil legal assistance block grant under the Justice Department. The bill carries 13 pages of legislation including a long list of restrictions on the use of these funds. For example, the block grant could not be used for helping a poor person seek a legal separation from an abusive spouse.

The Corporation was created during the Nixon Administration. I worked closely with Lewis Powell in the endeavor, and I stood with my friend, Warren Rudman, in his yeoman efforts to save the LSC. Like the Senator from Texas, I have had concerns about the LSC being involved in class-action suits. But the House bill had already dealt with that, and it retained funding for the LSC.

The bill cuts all regulatory agencies at least 20 percent below a freeze. In each case, the bill uses fee collections to cut appropriations even though these fees often were created to enhance operations. The recommended bill will result in significant reductions in personnel and operations.

The Federal Trade Commission [FTC] is proposed to receive $79 million instead of $98 million as proposed by the House and provided currently. The FTC is charged with consumer protection and anti-trust duties. Again, we are looking at a one-third reduction in staff and cancellation of many important programs such as the FTC's efforts to combat telemarketing fraud.

The Federal Communications Commission [FCC] is proposed to receive $166 million instead of the current level of $185 million. We keep giving new responsibilities to the FCC under the communications bills, but here we are cutting them below current levels.

The Securities and Exchange Commission [SEC] is funded at $238 million instead of the current level of $297 million. Further, the bill reduces charges to individuals registering securities and shifts $60 million in costs to the federal taxpayers. So I guess that says we want to combat violent crime in Justice, but white-collar crime by Ivan Boesky is fine.

The Competitiveness Policy Council is eliminated.

The Maritime Administration is funded at $70.6 million instead of $94.7 million, the current level, and far below the administration's request of $309 million.

The Small Business Administration [SBA] is funded at $558 million, $359 million below this year, and $73 million below the request. SBA says that they will have to reduce over a third of their workforce based on the committee's report language direction to fund grants and loans instead of personnel. This ignores many of the streamlining efforts that Erskine Bowles and Phil Lader have already accomplished, resulting in reduction of 500 positions during the past 2 years.

REWRITING THE CRIME BILL/LEGISLATION

Finally, I oppose this bill because it proposes to terminate the successful Cops on the Beat program and other authorized Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund programs. In their place, the appropriations bill essentially authorizes a new Crime bill. Talk about breaking new ground for legislation on an appropriations measure.

The Cops on the Beat or Community Oriented Policing program is one of the most efficient and effective programs that has ever been created. Within a year of passage, 25,000 additional police are on the street in America. We will be debating this program soon, in more detail. But I must say that I simply do not understand why any member would want to terminate this program.

Drug courts is another authorized program. It was Janet Reno's creation, based on her experience in Miami. This is not a soft prevention program. Drug courts work and are getting non-violent offenders off of illicit substances and back into society.

This bill is block grant crazy. Legal services—They say, "Let us make it into a block grant." Community policing and drug courts—They say, "Let us make it into a block grant." I guess I do not understand. I remember the Republican filibuster against the President Clinton's stimulus package in the spring of 1993. As I recall, the principal argument against that bill was that it was funding block grants and recipients had a wide discretion of how they could use block grants. In law enforcement in the past, we had a block grant program—LEAA—and it was a disaster.

Mr. President, this bill contains many other pieces of legislation. It takes the limits off of sales from prison labor, and it changes affirmative action and procurement regulations.

I hope that my colleagues will carefully examine this bill. Many have said, "Yes, it is a travesty, but the President will veto it." That may be true. All indications are that it could not be signed in its current form.

I, for one, hope that the Senate will not go on record by supporting such an extreme, irresponsible measure. I hope we can make some changes to this bill and improve it.

Mr. President, obviously I am not disposed to speak at length, but I have to comment about my distinguished colleague and his opening statement on two or three items. Just in closing, he said: This is open. This is the way we do it. It is open to debate. We debate these things, and we vote on them and we make decisions.

Unfortunately, having been on this committee for over 25 years, in this subcommittee we did not debate, we did not discuss, and we did not do anything other than vote. That is why the bill comes on a bipartisan split, so to speak, of 15-13. It reminds me of Mao Tse-tung when he got a birthday wish. It said, "From the Central Committee, by a vote of 15 to 13, we wish you a happy birthday."

This bill is an atrocity. In my experience in particular measures, it is voted that way because, very conscientiously, we did not have a chance to debate and rectify certain things. But I do not want to dwell on that too much at length because the distinguished chairman of the full committee is henceforth coming to the floor to try to give us an additional allocation and correct some things, like the elimination of the Minority Business Enterprise Administration—an entity that started out with President Nixon back 25 years ago in 1970—and various other things like that which were eliminated.

The bill is called an atrocity because the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee, for whom I have great respect, says we overturned laws. He is dead right in this particular measure. It is not the function of an Appropriations Committee to overturn laws. On the contrary, we are supposed to conform to the authorized law, or the law authorizing the amounts, and thereupon appropriate within those particular amounts.

Here we see a measure that takes a bill that has been debated fully and voted three readings in the House, three in the Senate—with respect to cops on the beat—signed into formal law, the law of the land, and participated in with enthusiasm by the overwhelming majority of the police forces over the entire country. It is a program that is working and working extremely well.

Without any authorization, that law, as provided by way of money in this measure, is overturned. It is just repealed. The formal law is totally disregarded, and in its place, we have a so-called block grant approach.

Similarly, with respect to the Legal Services Corporation, that was more or less created by the distinguished former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Justice Powell, when he was president of the American Bar Association. Here is a corporate entity, the Legal Services Corporation, worked in by the private sector, by the professional attorney sector and by the Federal Government in a most successful fashion, but it is not within this bill. That endeavor that has been going on successfully for years is totally overturned and repealed. A new program is put in. It is not authorized.

Of course, the parliamentary tactic is to raise a point of order. But in the spirit of trying to move along, we can have some votes around here on points of order and everything else. But I am not trying to turn back anything parliamentarily. I am trying to turn it back on the basis of merit.

But if you go through this particular measure, they come down real hard on the future of this country with respect to, for example, the programs within the Department of Commerce and the Department of State. The Department of State is not really left with an operating budget. We have been closing consulates and closing down various endeavors on behalf of the Department of State over the last 15 years. Somehow, somewhere, people have forgotten that, after all, we had President Reagan come to town with spending cuts, and then President Bush. After 8 years of President Reagan and President Bush for 4 years, we had 12 years of spending cuts. Then we had, of course, President Clinton come to town and cut out another $500 billion in spending cuts.

So what we are on to is the tail end, so to speak, of 15 years of various spending cuts whereby programs like WIC, Head Start, title I for the disadvantaged, and many others, are only half funded, as are many programs in health research. That is the reason we just rejected, by way of extended debate, the Labor, Health, and Human Resources appropriations bill. For every dollar we spend over at NIH, we save the taxpayers $13.50.

So these money-saving programs have run into a frontal assault of a so-called political contract that is devastating to the functioning of our society.

I almost wish when it comes to the Department of Commerce that President Clinton had said we ought to get rid of the Department of Commerce. If President Clinton said we have to get rid of the Department of Commerce, the whole business community—all of that crowd that runs under the white tent for NAFTA and for GATT, and all the Republican crowd, all of those executives, that Business Round Table—would come running up here: "What do you mean this Democratic President is trying to do away with the voice of business at the Cabinet table?" You cannot find them today. Why? Because the Republicans thought of that idea.

Yes, labor is to have a voice at the Cabinet table, but not commerce, the business leadership. Agriculture is to have a voice at the Cabinet table, but they want to do away with the Department. You will not find agriculture in the Constitution. You will not find the Labor Department there. But you will find, under article I, section 8 of the Constitution, that the Congress is hereby authorized to regulate foreign commerce. We are doing away with constitutional responsibilities in a willy-nilly contract fashion. Now with the fall of the wall, we really look upon the State Department to promulgate our values the world around and capitalism the world around along with the Department of Commerce.

Very interestingly, that is exactly what they are doing. Secretary Christopher and Secretary Brown have been doing an outstanding job, but there is no acknowledgment or recognition of it whatever in this particular appropriation. Rather, they tried to do away with the technology, the advanced technology program, the manufacturing centers, the Office of Technology and all, as we go on down the list—these various endeavors to keep America competitive.

Our foreign policy, our security as a nation, our success in this global competition, rests like a stool on three legs. We have, on the one leg, the values of a nation which are very strong and are unquestioned. America voluntarily will try to feed the hungry in Somalia, voluntarily will try to set up democracy in Haiti, and now is trying to help, of course, in Bosnia and in the Mideast where they are meeting right now. With respect to our values, it is very strong, and with respect to our military leg, it is unquestioned. But with respect to the economic leg, over the past 45, almost 50 years, it is fractured and willingly so.

We set up the Marshall plan. We sent our money and our technology and our expertise to countries abroad in the conflict between capitalism and communism, and capitalism has won out. And we are all very grateful for that. But during that 50-year period, what we had to do was sort of sacrifice our economy and give up markets with the assault on market share. We had to give up markets to our friends in the Pacific rim, in Europe, and otherwise around, with a sort of nudist trade policy—running around here like ninnies hollering "free trade, free trade"—when there was not any such thing, and it is not now. We all understand that.

But now with the fall of the wall comes the opportunity to rebuild the strength of the economy. Yes, in many instances, that means more government. I want a Senator to say that on the floor of this U.S. Senate. What we need is more in education, more in the inner-city restructuring, more in transportation, more in science and technology, and more in medical research. That is exactly what we are not doing in this particular measure here.

Let me go right to the point about the President's budget for which we get a gratuitous statement from our distinguished chairman of the subcommittee. He said again that the President's budget would not be in balance at the second coming, and had $200 billion deficits as far as the eye can see. If you want to read the gratuitous statement, you just look at the committee report of State, Justice, Commerce, and on page 4. I will quote this one sentence:

The administration's request in a budget that made no attempt to balance the budget, not in 7 years, not in 10 years, not ever.

Here comes a committee report from a crowd that we could not get a single vote from to cut $500 million in spending and raise revenues to pay for some of these programs. Yes, we raised taxes on Social Security, and $25 billion of the increased revenue on Social Security we gave to what? To Medicare. They are running all over the Hill. "It is going broke. It is going broke." Last year they said, "What is the matter? Nothing is wrong with America's health programs. It is the best health system in the world. What is the matter?"

I can show you the same crowd that they quote now as saying it is going broke in the year 2002. Last year, that same entity reported it was going broke in the year 2001. At least we got one year's grace out of the discipline that we set for spending cuts and revenue increases and foregoing programs.

Let me qualify. I speak about this budget because I can tell you here and now they act like they have a budget that we have to conform to so their budget balances in the year 2002. Absolutely false. For one, this particular Senator voted against that silly Reaganomics which at the time was called by the then majority leader a "river boat gamble," the then Vice President as "voodoo," and now we have "voodoo" all over again—going on all over this Hill. We do not have a sense of history whatever. I opposed that voodoo and proposed instead a budget freeze like the mayor of a city or the Governor of a State. What they do is just take this year's budget for next year. We would save billions. We could not succeed.

I then joined with the distinguished chairman of our subcommittee in Gramm-Rudman-Hollings, and we said let's have not only freezes, but we are going to have automatic spending cuts across the board. And that worked. Mr. President, it worked, until 1990, when they repealed it. And at 12:41 a.m., October 19, 1990, I raised a point of order against the repeal. And let the RECORD show who voted to repeal it.

Now they are running around and saying it did not work. They repealed it because it was working. It was going to cause cuts across the board. I went along in 1988 with tax reform in order to close loopholes.

So we had budget freezes, we had budget cuts, and we had loophole closings. And then, if you please, Mr. President, I came with increased taxes, a value-added tax proposed in the Budget Committee where I got eight votes, and I got Republican colleagues to go along. And we had a discipline trying to offset this deficit and an end of increased deficits as far as the eye can see.

Right now, the deficit that is projected—we will get it—but it is not 100 something, not 200. It is near $300 billion. I will enter the exact figure in the RECORD. All you need do is figure out how much the Government takes in and how much it spends and find the difference.

I do know that as a result the interest costs for the fiscal year beginning on Sunday, October 1, fiscal year 1996, the interest costs on the national debt—as a result of that voodoo and that riverboat gamble—is $348 billion. We only have 365 days a year, so that is $1 billion a day practically that we go down to the bank the first thing in the morning and borrow—$1 billion a day.

None of these plans, neither the Republican nor the Democratic plan, saves $1 billion a day.

I try my best to keep pointing this out to get level so we all speak the same language. Only this past week, I wrote the Congressional Budget Office. I said that my friends on the other side of the aisle continued to talk in terms of a balanced budget by the year 2002.

I ask unanimous consent that I may include the letter in the RECORD dated September 25 from the Congressional Budget Office, June E. O'Neill.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, September 25, 1995.

Hon. ERNEST F. HOLLINGS,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR: This is in response to your letter of September 20 concerning CBO's scoring of the budget resolution for fiscal year 1996 adopted by the Congress. Because a budget resolution represents a general plan for future Congressional action rather than specific legislative proposals, CBO cannot provide estimates for a budget resolution in the same sense that it estimates appropriation bills or bills that provide changes in direct spending or revenues. CBO has compared the spending, revenues, and deficits proposed by the budget resolution with those projected by CBO in Chapter Three of its August 1995 report, The Economic and Budget Outlook: An Update. A copy of that report has been enclosed.

If you wish further details about this comparison, we will be pleased to provide them. The staff contact is Jim Horney.

Sincerely,

JAMES L. BLUM
(For June E. O'Neill).

Mr. HOLLINGS. The Republican budget, the Kasich budget, the Gingrich budget, or whatever budget you want to call it that they are talking about balancing, has never been scored.

The distinguished chairman of the Budget Committee is here and we worked together when he was ranking member and I was chairman. I can tell you here and now, after we passed that budget in May, we sent over the assumptions so that the Congressional Budget Office could score it. Those scores have never been sent over. From time to time they have asked questions: If we do this, we save that; if we do this, we save that.

But we do not have a CBO-scored figure for President Clinton's budget and we do not have a CBO figure for the Republican budget.

Watching all of this as it occurs, at this particular time, I can guarantee you that it will not be balanced in the year 2002. And anybody who wants to bet me, pick out the odds and the amount. I will jump off the Capitol dome if this budget is balanced by the year 2002. I can tell you that here and now.

What happens is exactly what happened, as the distinguished Presiding Officer and I viewed it this morning in the Committee of Commerce. We were allocated $15 billion. What did we do? We took $8.3 billion that we have already allocated in the telecom bill. So we double-counted that already. Talk about smoke and mirrors. We are not going to have smoke and mirrors. I understand, of course, that in the Finance Committee they were $80 billion shy last week.

Someone said, no, they got up, meeting last night, to about $15 billion, and they are still trying to find it. But if they go through with the contract and do away with the Social Security tax increase, they will have to find another $25 billion. They are shy there.

I can go to welfare reform. We passed welfare reform. It was a $63 billion savings. The budget that they say is going to be balanced called for a $113 billion savings. That is $50 billion shy there. The agricultural and everything crowd said, no, we had not met our figure. It is smoke and mirrors.

So what you see now is the moment of truth. And I only mention this to get that moment of truth out. We ought to level with each other. You cannot get on top of this cancer of interest costs on the national debt unless you do all of the above. All of the above includes spending cuts, spending freezes, loophole closings, tax increases, and denying new programs.

We just voted earlier this week—I hated to vote against the distinguished Senator from Maryland, Senator MIKULSKI, and her AmeriCorps Program—but I can tell you now that that program was going to cost billions and billions. I did not think we ought to start new programs that we could not afford and specifically not start an AmeriCorps Program for education whereby in order to get 25,000 scholarships we had to do away with 346,000 student loans.

That is what we did. We took the money from the student loans and put it into a new program and talked about voluntarism. I happen to have been down there the Sunday after Hugo hit us in our own backyard in South Carolina. There was the mayor and me and we had 1,500 to 2,000 volunteers that were working in the rain. We asked for a show of hands and we had them from 38 States. People volunteer.

When little Mr. Segal called me about this particular program and said we already have 2,000 out there working in the flood year before last, I said, "Young man, you have 2 million out there working without this program. You do not need a program at the Federal Government level to start voluntarism."

So the pressures brought on this particular budget are really politically manufactured where we are not going to balance anybody's budget. We are just going to get rid of the Government. That has been the cry of the contract—that the Government is not the solution, the Government is the problem, the Government is the enemy.

So what you have here is a $283 billion estimated deficit for 1995. That is the accurate figure as between what we will take in and what we will spend. So let us not get high and mighty and start criticizing about how I got a balanced budget 7 years from now when people will be lucky to be around 7 years from now and they will know good and well they will come again.

I remember when we used to balance the budget year to year. In fact, President Reagan said, "I'm going to balance that budget in a year." He got into Washington and said, "Whoops, this is going to take me 3 years. I did not realize it was so bad."

Here was a gentleman who was going to do it in a year. Then we got to 3 years. Then under Gramm-Rudman-Hollings we got to 5 years. Now, this crowd comes with 7 years. And I can tell you within the next election we will come and have—excuse me, President Clinton has already gotten to 10 years. Now he has come back to 9.

We are going up, up, and away; 15 years. Say anything except to do the job and tell the American people that we have to deny programs and we have to raise taxes. We have to cut spending. We have to freeze spending. We have to close loopholes. We have to do all of the above to save $1 billion a day. This particular budget that we have that we are working on at this particular time does not come near to saving $1 billion a day to get us really rid of any kind of deficit at any time during that 7-year period.

Now, Mr. President, the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee talks about philosophy—and I must touch on that and then we can go to these amendments—the philosophy here that they are trying to justify these programs to get things back to where they can do it as they please.

They said, if they really want to buy equipment, then they can do that. If they want to put policemen on the beat, then they can do that. It is the old adage that the best government is that closest to the American people, the Jeffersonian philosophy. And I generally adhere to that except through hard experience.

Within the field of law and law enforcement, we have had our experience. We had what you call the legal assistance enforcement program, LEAA, and that particular program gave block grants back to the States and communities. And when we looked around, we had—please, my gracious—down in Hampton, VA, they bought a tank and put it on the courthouse lawn and thought the courthouse was going to be attacked. The sheriff down in Alabama, he bought a tank because he was going to have crowd control. The Governor in Indiana, he bought an airplane so they could fly to New York and buy clothes. And they had all kinds of embarrassments where the money never got through to the policemen on the beat.

Now, there is no education in the second kick of a mule. We learned from hard experience. So we came around with community policing and policemen on the beat and said, in order to qualify, you have to come with a match of 25 percent. And it is working extremely well.

Now they come with the philosophy of getting the grants back, which reminds me—and I have, of course, a memory that is resented many, many times. But I am referring to the stimulus bill where when President Clinton came to town, we were going to stimulate the economy. And the distinguished chairman of my subcommittee, now who believes in block grants, said, heavens above, "We are going to use it for cemeteries, for whitewater canoeing, for fisheries, atlases, for studies of the sickle fin chub," and all these different other programs back at the local level. And the Senator slaughtered President Clinton's stimulus program—just killed it dead in its tracks here on the floor of the U.S. Senate.

Now we come with the philosophy: Whoopie, let us get the money back to the Government; we are not smart enough to do anything here in Washington; only the people back home are smart enough. So here we go again. Here we go again, changing the formative law and making it into block grants. Taking working programs like policemen on the beat and the Legal Services Corporation. Abolishing these laws in that sense and providing monies for a program that has already been derided in the most expert fashion by my distinguished chairman.

I can tell you now that we could not possibly go along with the block grants. I think the President said he is going to veto that particular approach. Maybe we can reconcile it. I hope some of the defects of this particular bill can be cared for in Senator HATFIELD's and my amendment. We worked until 1 in the morning on this particular amendment. I think it will meet generally with the approval of the colleagues.

And a reallocation here, I am grateful for that help. Of course, there are fundamentals still involved. And I will say it right to the point. We will be debating these things, as the distinguished chairman says. What we have done is really savaged Commerce and its programs, the State Department, and, more or less, force-fed a goose in Justice. When I say "force-fed a goose in Justice," I look at the particular figures.

I can see that it took us from 1789 to 1983 or 1984 to get to a $3 billion Justice Department budget. But it has only taken us the last 15 years to quadruple, quintuple—excuse me—and go up, up and away to $16.95 billion in this particular 1996 appropriation. I know we have had various crime bills. I know we have had the problems and everything else of that kind. But I can tell you now that we have, with all the budgetary constrictions, to get a little bit better balance in this particular measure.

And in some of these, I am definitely of a mind where the Senator from Texas and I agree that you should not abuse the use of legal services money to sue the State and Governor and Legislature of New Jersey over welfare reform. We agreed that we could work the prisoners. I have worked prisoners as a Governor. I put in a laundry program. I put in a furniture repair program. I even had a Jaycee chapter as well as our educational programs behind the wall.

We agree on many, many things. But generally speaking, we did not have a chance to debate these things. Unfortunately, we had not conformed the appropriations to the basic statutes, whatever. We have just run willy-nilly through the programs trying to abolish departments and the working programs that have done so much for our society.

I yield the floor.

Mr. PELL addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. PELL. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, the Senate is considering the appropriations bill for the Commerce, Justice and State Departments. It would be tempting to address this bill in the same fashion as I have other measures during this session which have contained drastic—indeed, draconian—spending cuts. The natural inclination is to talk about how the cuts will affect specific programs or policies, many of which are vital to the security of our Nation or the well-being of our people.

In this context, I would be led to talk about how the CJS appropriations bill, as reported by the committee, lops off more than $1 billion—I repeat, more than $1 billion—from the President's request for the foreign affairs agencies. There will be dramatic reductions in spending for the administration of foreign affairs, for the acquisition and maintenance of buildings, for the U.S. assessed contributions to the United Nations, for U.S. contributions to U.N. peacekeeping, and for international exchange programs.

I understand that the chairman of the Appropriations Committee may offer an amendment which may add additional funds to the foreign affairs account—which I applaud and will support. I must speak now, however, to the bill as reported by the committee.

Many of my colleagues know that these are programs and functions that are extremely important to me. When I recently announced my intention not to seek reelection to the Senate, some of my fellow Senators graciously came to the floor to say some very kind things about me. For that I am deeply grateful, and indeed humbled. One thing that struck me that day was how many of my colleagues mentioned my support for the United Nations, and the fact that I have carried a copy of the charter with me for many years.

I have not carried it with me all of this time just for show and tell. I carry it because I believe in it, and I think that it has represented—and continues to represent—one of our best hopes for international peace and security. If we proceed with the reductions in funding for the U.S. contributions to the regular and peacekeeping budgets, however, the charter will become nothing more than pretty words. There will be no point, and no joy, in carrying it in my pocket.

I have also been a consistent advocate of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency [ACDA]. More than three decades ago, President KENNEDY and the Congress decided to create by statute the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency—which was then and remains now the only separate agency of its type in the world. If the Congress eviscerates ACDA and perversely rewards its employees by discharging them, we will do grievous damage to our ability to lead the world in effective arms control, to verify compliance of often hostile nations with their arms control obligations to us, and to deal effectively with new arms control and proliferation threats.

As I said moments ago, it would be tempting to continue at length about the impact of this and other bills on programs such as arms control, the United Nations and U.N. peacekeeping. Today, however, I want to discuss this bill in broader and more far-reaching terms. Whether or not the Senate cares to admit it, our decisions and actions this year are going to have a direct and negative impact on America's place in the world, and on our fundamental relationships with other world powers.

I am very proud of the U.S. record of leadership, achievement, and engagement in international relations. Twice in the 20th century, our Nation stood with its allies to fight on a global scale against aggression. During the cold war, the United States took the lead to contain the hegemonistic designs of the former Soviet Union. In the early 1990's, the United States led an international coalition of forces in turning back Iraq's illegal grab of Kuwait.

Equally as important, however, are the battles we did not fight—the conflicts that we avoided, the crises that we averted through diplomatic discussion and pressure. Even if we made mistakes from time to time, we were successful in all of these endeavors because of our belief in principles, our commitment to do what we thought right and our willingness to be actively engaged. Our decisions, policies, and programs were often costly in both human and material terms, but they made our world a safer place, and our Nation a better and more profitable place to live.

Our motivation sadly seems to have changed. Decisions are being made out of political expediency rather than sound judgment. Our impulse as politicians—particularly this year—is to rush willy-nilly to make budget cuts for their own sake, without regard to the consequences. Instead of using reason and analysis to construct a foreign policy, we are using calculators.

We must stop, think, and take a good hard look at how the United States can expect to project its power and influence under the circumstances now proposed. The State Department and the foreign affairs agencies—our Nation's eyes, ears, and voice to the world—cannot carry out its mission if they haven't the personnel, resources, and infrastructure required by the times.

It is not just a matter of doing more with less. I know the fiscal imperatives of our time, and appreciate that we are required to spend less and consolidate functions and responsibilities. The spending reductions in this bill are so severe, however, that the United States will be forced to close dozens of critical posts overseas, to renege on treaty commitments, and simply disengage from diplomatic activity. That is not sound fiscal policy, and it is certainly not leadership. It is isolationism. We are shutting ourselves off from the world, and our Nation's security and economy will suffer.

I do not use the term isolationism lightly. It is a serious charge, but one that I think is accurate. We must acknowledge the impact of this bill on our ability to work with other nations, and understand that by violating our international commitments, we will undermine our own national security. And make no mistake, this bill will force us to violate our international commitments and will have an adverse impact on virtually every aspect of the quality of life of our citizens.

Allow me to give some examples. In 1990, the Bush administration pledged that the United States would meet its treaty obligation to pay its U.N. dues in full, and that we would pay off our arrears. This bill would violate that pledge, and we will become the world's biggest deadbeat. At a certain point—which is fast approaching—we will lose our vote in the U.N. General Assembly because of the size of our arrears. This bill will also affect our obligations to NATO, to the International Atomic Energy Agency, to the International Telecommunications Union, and to the World Health Organization. In other words, we will have a diminished role to play in the critical fields of international security, nuclear non-proliferation, global communications, and international health.

We also would hamstring the work of lesser-known but important organizations such as the Hague Conference on Private International Law and the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law. Both of these are making vital contributions to simplifying and unifying the international legal system. How many times have we interceded on behalf of constituents in international adoptions, or in cases of parental abduction, or in the enforcement of legal judgments? This bill will afford our constituents less protection in such matters, and we will be responsible.

As a broader, practical matter, American citizens will be far less able to rely on U.S. Government support abroad as a result of this bill, whether it be in consular, commercial, or political matters. My guess, and it pains me to say this, is that the Congress will try to duck its responsibility for such an outcome. Instead of facing up to our constituents and explaining why they cannot find support or relief, Members will try to shift the blame to the State Department and our overseas employees.

Recently, some have found it fashionable—and even humorous—to characterize the Foreign Service as a coddled group of elitist intellectuals who shun hard work. As a former Foreign Service officer, I reject the characterization and am compelled to pay tribute to the dedicated and capable men and women who comprise our diplomatic corps. I know how hard they work, and how dedicated they are to serving our Nation's interests. Some of them, as we have just seen in Bosnia, have made the supreme sacrifice of giving their lives in service to the country.

Mr. President, we should honor these men and women and give them our full appreciation. At a minimum, we should see that they have a basic level of support to handle their ever-increasing responsibilities. We would never send our soldiers to war without support in depth; why would we send our diplomats—whose service is no less noble or patriotic than that of any soldier—to do political battle with virtually no support at all?

Mr. President, we are forsaking the lessons of history for political opportunism. The proponents of this bill will insist that they are not isolationists, but they must realize that their proposals will lead us into isolationism. We cannot influence the decisions of international bodies if we are not there to participate. And if we try to participate without paying our bills, no one will listen to us. That is isolation in the truest sense of the word. Mark my words: if we continue down the path we are now heading, our children will be left with one of two choices. The first is to accept that their forebears let their country become a xenophobic, second-rate power with a shrunken and insulated economy. The second is to re-fight the battles for which our generation already has paid so dearly. Neither, in my view, is an acceptable choice.

I yield the floor.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise for a couple of minutes. First, I ask unanimous consent, if Senator GRAMM and Senator HOLLINGS will consider this, that the Domenici-Hollings amendment on legal services follow the amendment to be offered by Senator HATFIELD.

Mr. HOLLINGS. We have no objection.

Mr. GRAMM. Reserving the right to object, I have been talking to several other Members. We are trying to work out an agreement where we might actually reduce it down to four amendments that we would have on the bill. The Senator's would be one of those amendments, but it may very well be—as you know, there is competition for these offsets. Before I can accept that unanimous-consent request, I have to go back and talk to the people that I am talking to on the other side of the aisle.

So if the Senator will withhold, I will go back and talk to them and maybe look at these offsets and see if we can work it out. I want to be sure that the same resources are not being promised to two or three different places.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator withdraw his unanimous-consent request?

Mr. DOMENICI. No, I reserve it for a moment. I will just stay here in any event, I say to the Senator. If we do not agree to it, I will be here until Senator HATFIELD's amendment is disposed of and then seek the floor. I withhold my request.

Mr. President, might I just comment to my good friend Senator HOLLINGS, I want to share a thought with him. He was talking about jumping off the Capitol at the end of this year if we do not have a balanced budget.

Mr. HOLLINGS. No, when you say it is going to be balanced.

Mr. DOMENICI. What I suggest to my good friend, maybe in the meantime, there are those hang gliders. Our Governor does that.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Yes.

Mr. DOMENICI. You go off and learn how to jump off mountains and you do not crash.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Right.

Mr. DOMENICI. Since I am so sure we are going to get one, I would not want the Senator to fall off the Capitol. I would like him to get trained a little so when he jumps off, he will be all right. It is just a constructive idea because I have so much respect and admiration for the Senator.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I will put you in there with me.

Mr. DOMENICI. If you are good, I will join you.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Yes.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I just want to comment on Senator HOLLINGS's rather lengthy and, clearly, from his standpoint, a very important speech about a balanced budget.

I first want to say, if we accomplish in the next 45 days what was in the budget reconciliation instruction, and if we stick to the caps on appropriations, which we have done, I understand even points of order have been sustained on the floor without even the thought of exceeding the caps, my guess is the unexpected result will be the Congressional Budget Office will tell us that we are on a path to a balanced budget, and we will get there.

In fact, I would not be surprised if when we finish that exercise that they do not tell us that there is, indeed, some kind of a small surplus. And I just want the Senators who are voting for all of that to know they did price out that budget resolution. They priced it out so that they could tell us that, in fact, there was going to be a rather substantial economic dividend that put us in the black. I know my good friend does not agree with that. He did not vote for it and does not support it. I think it is a very historic budget resolution. In all respects, it does what the Senator suggests, save one. In all respects, it does the kinds of things we said we ought to do. It just does not raise taxes. The rest is there—the reform and the elimination of programs, the suggestions, the freezes—they are all part of this very difficult effort.

I yield the floor.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD at this point the actual record of the gross Federal debt beginning in 1945 going right on down to the estimated 1996 debt, and the real deficit going from 1945 down to 1996 with the gross interest costs, which has only been computed to be included since 1962.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

| Year | Gross Federal debt (billions) | Real deficit | Change (in percent) | Gross interest |

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, the distinguished chairman of the Budget Committee is talking and the Senator from South Carolina is talking, but the facts speak more loudly than each of us. For example, the gentleman talking then was the President when he came to town. In 1980, we were paying interest costs of $74.8 billion on a national debt of over 200-some years of history, with all the wars from the Revolutionary War up to and including World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam. Now, it is estimated to go to $348 billion just in interest costs. That was the crowd that came and talked and said they were going to save us from waste, fraud, and abuse. In fact, I got an award from the Grace Commission, working with them. By 1989, we had to report it, and 85 percent of the Grace Commission recommendations had been implemented.

However, wanting to do away with waste, as we talked—look what actually occurred. It has gone to the greatest waste in the history of the Government—from $74.8 billion to $348 billion. Over $200 billion just in increased in costs for nothing. If we had the two-hundred-seventy-some billion dollars here now for these things, you would not have extended debate on labor, health and human resources. We would have the money for those programs. You would not have an amendment on Legal Services. We would have provided for it and for cops on the beat and for the State Department, and the strengthening of our technology, and all.

My point is that we keep on talking, and we get estimates from the CBO and all of these econometric models and all the economists that we keep following and, as old Tennessee Ernie said, we are another day older and deeper in debt.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SIMON. Will my colleague yield for a moment?

Mr. HOLLINGS. Yes.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I simply want to acknowledge that the person who educated me on gross interest over against net interest was the Senator from South Carolina.

Administrations like to put net interest into their budgets. We do not do that with any other function of Government. We do not say the Justice Department took in so many dollars in fines and everything, therefore, their budget is that much less. It is the gross expenditure of the Justice Department. But because administrations like to fuzz things up a little bit, they were using net interest. The real figure is gross interest. I want to acknowledge Senator FRITZ HOLLINGS for having educated me on this. And I hope he is educating a lot of other people, too.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I thank my distinguished colleague.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, in a moment we will have an amendment by the distinguished chairman of the full committee, which is going to shift the allocation among the subcommittees providing additional funding for Commerce, State, Justice and in the process solving many of the problems that hold this bill up.

While we are waiting on that—and I understand the distinguished Senator from West Virginia has now signed off on that amendment—I want to say, as the new chairman of this subcommittee, that I have had an opportunity, for the first time, to work with the distinguished Senator of the full committee, Senator HATFIELD, in that capacity. I think it is fair to say that the success that I have had in bringing the bill to this point is, in no small part, due to the assistance that I have had from the distinguished Senator from Oregon. I simply want to say that the Senator from Oregon has not only been very helpful to me in this bill, but I think he epitomizes what the skilled and dedicated legislator is all about.

I had a great deal of respect for Senator HATFIELD before we started trying to put together this very difficult bill. I have even more respect for him now. In case we have the miracle of miracles and we work out an agreement and this bill quickly becomes law and everybody scatters to the far ends of the continent, and maybe in some cases to the far ends of the world, I just wanted to say how much I appreciate the distinguished chairman for the personal help and council he has given to me. He certainly is deserving of our thanks and our appreciation.

Let me, in waiting for the amendment to be ready, simply suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be temporarily set aside for the purpose of considering a technical amendment which has been cleared on both sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2813

(Purpose: To make certain technical corrections)

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I send a technical amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Texas [Mr. GRAMM] proposes an amendment numbered 2813.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 15, line 23 strike “148,280,000” and insert in lieu thereof “168,280,000”.

On page 15, line 24 strike “and”.

On page 16, line 2 after “103-322” insert “; and of which $2,000,000 shall be for activities authorized by section 210501 of Public Law 103-322”.

On page 20, line 8 strike “$114,463,000” and insert in lieu thereof “$104,463,000”.

On page 115, line 9 strike “$40,000,000” and insert in lieu thereof “$22,000,000”.

On page 123, line 1 strike “$3,000,000” and insert in lieu thereof “300,000”.

On page 151, line 16 strike “(1)” and insert “(2)”.

On page 151, line 18, strike “(2) and (3)” and insert “(3) and (4)”.

On page 152, line 13 strike "(3)" and insert "(4)".

On page 153, line 14 strike "(4)" and insert "(5)".

On page 154, line 21 strike "(5)" and insert "(6)".

On page 155, line 3 strike "(6)" and insert "(7)".

On page 155, line 19 strike "(8)" and insert "(9)".

On page 151, line 16 after "Sec. 614." insert "(1) This Act may be cited as the "Equal Opportunity Act of 1995."

On page 161, line 25 strike "$115,000,000" and insert in lieu thereof "$140,000,000".

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, the bill that is currently before the Senate, H.R. 2076, fiscal year 1996 Commerce, State, Justice appropriations bill, as reported by the Senate Appropriations Committee, contains several inadvertent errors. This amendment is purely technical in nature and is intended to accurately reflect the amendments which were adopted in both subcommittee and full committee.

This amendment has been cleared by the distinguished floor manager on the other side. It is simply necessary to straighten out all of the drafting errors that have been created in getting the bill to this point.

Mr. HOLLINGS. It is cleared on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 2813) was agreed to.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the corrections to the committee report that I send to the desk be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

ERRATA: SUBCOMMITTEE ON COMMERCE, JUSTICE, STATE, THE JUDICIARY AND RELATED AGENCIES REPORT 104-139

Page 20, paragraph 2, sentence 2 should read:

"Of these funds, $275,000,000, including $107,720,000 in program increases, are derived from the violent crime reduction trust fund [VCRTF], as authorized in section 521 of Senate bill 735."

Page 27, under Border Control Systems Modernization, the first sentence should read:

"A total of $158,500,000 is recommended, of which $104,453,000 is provided from the violent crime reduction trust fund, to continue the border system modernization effort started last year."

Page 30, last paragraph, delete the following report language:

"The Committee recommendation assumes that the 300 agents relocated to the front lines of the border will include the agents noted by the Department as well as agents currently assigned to the San Clemente and Temecula checkpoints in California."

On page 37, the entry for the Committee recommendation for State and local block grant/COPS should be $1,690,000. A new entry should be added for Police corps. 1995 appropriation is zero. 1996 request is zero. House allowance is zero. Committee recommendation is $10,000.

On page 60, under National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration the paragraph should read:

"The Committee recommends a total of $1,866,569,000 in new budget (obligational) authority for all National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration [NOAA] appropriations. This level of funding is $45,135,000 below fiscal year 1995, and is $230,140,000 below the budget request. This recommendation is $92,159,000 above the House allowance, and includes transfers totaling $55,500,000 and fees totaling $3,000,000."

On page 68, under National Marine Fisheries Service the paragraph should read:

"The Committee recommendation provides a total of $288,567,000 for the programs of the National Marine Fisheries Service [NMFS] for fiscal year 1996. This amount is $27,261,000 less than the budget request, and is $19,917,000 more than the current year funding level. The amount provided under the Committee recommendation is $37,240,000 above the House allowance. The Committee has recommended funding, as shown in the preceding table, for a variety of important research and information programs which are designed to promote a sustainable use of valuable marine resources."

Page 77, under Fishing Vessel Obligations Guarantees:

"Committee recommendation—250,000."

Page 78, under National Technical Information Service, second sentence should read: "This is a decrease of $7,000,000 below the current available appropriation."

Page 86, under U.S. Sentencing Commission, first sentence should read: "The Committee recommends $7,040,000 for the salaries and expenses of the U.S. Sentencing Commission for fiscal year 1996."

Page 112, under Radio Construction: "Committee recommendation—22,000,000."

The bill includes $22,000,000 in new budget authority for the "Radio construction" account for fiscal year 1996. This amount is $63,919,000 less than the budget request, $47,314,000 less than fiscal year 1995 funding levels, and $48,164,000 below the House allowance.

Page 113, last paragraph, last line should read: "FTUI, and Center for International Private Enterprise (CIPE)—in equal amounts."

Page 133 under Department of State Acquisition and Maintenance of Buildings Abroad, line 1 should read: "The Committee recommends a rescission of $140,000,000 from the projected end-of-year carryover balances in the "Acquisition and maintenance of buildings abroad" account at the State Department."

Mr. HATFIELD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 2814 TO THE COMMITTEE AMENDMENT ON PAGE 2, LINE 9, THROUGH PAGE 3, LINE 5

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SANTORUM). The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD] for himself and Mr. HOLLINGS, proposes an amendment numbered 2814, to the committee amendment on page 2, line 9, through page 3, line 5.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of the committee amendment beginning on page 2, line 9, insert the following:

The amount from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund for the Edward Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Programs is reduced by $75,000,000.

The following sums are appropriated in addition to such sums provided elsewhere in this Act.

For the Department of Justice, Edward Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Programs, $75,000,000.

For the Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration, "Operations and Administration", $46,500,000; for the Export Administration, "Operations and Administration", $8,100,000; for the Minority Business Development Agency, "Minority Business Development", $32,789,000; for the National Telecommunication and Information Administration, "Salaries and Expenses", $3,000,000; for the Patent and Trademark Office "Salaries and Expenses", $26,000,000; for the National Institute of Standards and Technology, "Industrial Technology Services", $25,000,000; for the National Institute of Standards and Technology, "Construction of Research Facilities", $3,000,000; and the amount for the Commerce Reorganization Transition Fund is reduced by $10,000,000.

For the Department of State, Administration of Foreign Affairs "Diplomatic and Consular Programs", $135,635,000; for "Salaries and Expenses", $32,724,000; for the "Capital Investment Fund", $8,200,000.

For the United States Information Agency, "Salaries and Expenses", $9,000,000; for the "Technology Fund", $2,000,000; for the "Educational and Cultural Exchange Programs", $20,000,000 of which $10,000,000 if for the Fulbright program; for the Eisenhower Exchanges, $837,000; for the "International Broadcasting Operations", $10,000,000; and for the East-West Center, $10,000,000.

For the United States Sentencing Commission, "Salaries and Expenses", $1,460,000; for the International Trade Commission, "Salaries and Expenses", $4,250,000; for the Federal Trade Commission "Salaries and Expenses", $9,893,000; for the Marine Mammal Commission, "Salaries and Expenses", $384,000; for the Securities and Exchange Commission, "Salaries and Expenses", $29,740,000; and for the Small Business Administration, $30,000,000.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, first I want to express my deep appreciation for the kind words expressed by the chairman of our subcommittee, Senator GRAMM of Texas, and to say in response that it has been one of those wonderful occasions and experiences that sometimes happen in the Senate, and that is when we get down together one-on-one to negotiate and to try to find out the other person's perspective, the other person's viewpoint, the other person's priorities, and come to a new appreciation that this indeed, is one of the strengths of this institution—its diversity. And at the same time there is diversity in this institution, it does not mean that it means stalemate. It does not equal stalemate diversity.

I could find no person with greater sensitivity and words indeed than that personified by Mr. GRAMM in working out the differences and also, at the same time, working for the same goal.

I come to appreciate, from time to time, the strength of diversity. I sometimes also think that if I listened more, spoke less, I would hear what the other person might be saying a little more clearly than depending upon imagery or upon labels such that we oftentimes use in shortcut methods. That also does not build for personal relationships.

Mr. President, I have sent to the desk an amendment on behalf of Senator HOLLINGS, myself, and on behalf of the Appropriations Committee in general.

I filed an amended application for the Commerce, Justice and State bill that allows an additional $500 million in budget authority and $325 million in outlays to be spent on the bill.

Now, this begs for, again, a quick description again of our process. I know beyond the beltway that is not necessarily perhaps a very high item of interest. For our own colleagues to understand that at the beginning of any appropriations cycle that the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, along with consultation and along with staff and so forth, creates what we call the 602(b) allocations.

Now, we do not follow the House of Representatives. In other words, we have our own methods and our own priorities and so forth. So that reflects basically, once the committee has adopted the chairman's mark, that represents basically a committee action.

In this particular case, we had $1 billion—I am talking now in round numbers—$1 billion in a 602(b) allocation to this subcommittee headed by Senator GRAMM and with the former chair of the committee and now the ranking member, Senator HOLLINGS of South Carolina, $1 billion under the House of Representatives.

Now, there were obvious problems just from that allocation. These people had to work within that framework once adopted by the committee. They did so. That meant that they had to not just reduce and diminish some of the expenditures that have been built up over a period of time, but they also had to select between agencies and between programs within agencies.

Now, when we go to the House of Representatives for a conference ultimately as we do with each bill, the chairman of the House committee, ROBERT LIVINGSTON of Louisiana, and I have the responsibilities under the Budget Act that we have to find a way to bring those two committees together on an agreed target figure.

Normally, what we do is to strike the difference. We say, all right, that is $500 million for the Senate in this case and $500 million less for the House. You take that as your target figure to make your adjustments.

In this particular case, probably one of the most severely hit of all subcommittees in the Commerce, Justice, State Subcommittee, and they had an extraordinarily difficult time in the Senate to even get in the ballpark of meeting with the House floor conference.

Why wait until that moment when Congressman LIVINGSTON and I have to get together to fix that target, why not do it now? That is all this amendment represents. We are saying, in effect, we had the previous bill, HUD, independent agencies. We had to adjust that downward in terms of meeting a figure to the House figure for HUD, independent agency, the Senate HUD, independent agency, to get together for conference.

What I have done at this point is to advance that moment of time and decision that would have to take place with Congressman LIVINGSTON and myself, taking from the HUD bill we have just completed on the floor and transferring that budget outlay figure that we have just announced here this afternoon at $325 million.

I had a reserve fund in the so-called BA that we could draw from in the full committee, and we drew from that, to create now this amendment. In other words, this amendment does not add a single penny to our overall commitments under the budget resolution.

What we are doing is making a fine adjustment that has to occur anyway, and we are doing it in advance of the time in order to make this bill more acceptable and to be a broader base of support for the bill, but also to be more equitable and fair in the bill.

My phone has been ringing off the hook for the last 3 weeks since the committee reported the bill. I know that it has been so in the case of Senators GRAMM and HOLLINGS, as well, and probably many others who serve on the Appropriations Committee.

Now, this small increase of funds, we have made a printout of each account to which we are adding funds in the Commerce Department, the State Department, and some of agencies funded under this bill. We also have reiterated our commitment for the Byrne-formula grants in the Justice Department. Each member has before him or her the full amendment in detail. I will only refer to that.

Now, what this overall amendment does is to keep the spending levels closer to a freeze and closer to actions taken by the authorizing committees.

So this is not just trying to get an adjustment for this bill here in the Senate, and for the conference to come with the House, but also to tie in with the authorized levels provided by Senator HELMS in the case of Foreign Relations Committee and the State Department.

You will find on this printout such examples, if you look at the columns where this so-called outlays and this adjustment takes place in the last two columns of the figures. As an example, we are taking domestic and counselor programs and funding them with replacement of money at about $115.8 million at the Senate Foreign Relations Committee authorizing level. That is how you work these charts back and forth.

The amendment provides additional funds for six independent agencies. Those six independent agencies are U.S. Sentencing Commission, International Trade Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Marine Mammal Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, Small Business Administration.

Now, in the case of the Federal Trade Commission and the International Trade Commission and all of these, what we have done is to have a freeze minus 10 percent in the amendment. That contrasts to a freeze minus 20 percent which was in the bill that is now before the Senate. That, again, is representative of another type of handling of these additions.

In the case of the Small Business Administration, we propose to add an additional $30 million, which should be sufficient funding to administrator the loan volume recommended in the committee bill.

Again, we refer back to not only our previous work but to authorizing committees as well. There are many competing demands in this bill and it makes it very difficult, even with this amendment.

Let me make very clear, this amendment does not solve all of our problems. But I do think it can solve sufficient problems to get this bill wrapped into the CR, down to the White House, eventually to be vetoed. I have to be straightforward. My impression, maybe this amendment is going to help in some way alleviate that probability that is now very clear that the President intends to veto this bill.

Maybe we can again, hopefully, make that a lesser possibility than it is under the bill that we have before us.

So, Mr. President, I am not going to go on about these changes. I am very happy to respond to specific questions that people may have, but I do want to say that it has been through the cooperative spirit of the leadership of this subcommittee and the leadership of the full Senate that we are hoping, today, to offer this amendment, have it adopted, and thereby move on to address other issues in this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, let me rise in gratitude to our distinguished full committee chairman and also the subcommittee chairman for allowing us to proceed, and to note a softening and thawing on behalf of the distinguished subcommittee chairman, which is very becoming.

Senator HATFIELD has really saved us. I read Mary McGrory this morning, and she said Ross Perot had given President Clinton oxygen. I feel like, in this amendment, which I am proud to cosponsor, we are getting oxygen. It keeps some very important programs alive.

The distinguished full committee chairman, Senator HATFIELD, has been very sensitive and very understanding and very realistic. There is none of this kind of pork or any of these other kind of things. This amendment adds back funds to high priority commerce programs—$46.5 million for the International Trade Administration—we just had lunch on yesterday with the Special Trade Representative. We are trying to get more competitive and more realistic in a trade policy in this country, and we need these additional funds to just bring them up to where they would be at a freeze.

There is $32 million for the Minority Business Development Agency; $25 million for NIST—the National Bureau of Standards, manufacturing centers, the information technology centers; $8.1 million for the Export Administration; and finally for the front line—after the fall of the wall—namely, our State Department, which the distinguished ranking member, Senator PELL, has just addressed. $177 million is added to their operating accounts to bring them back to the level proposed in S. 908, Senator HELMS' Foreign Relations Authorization Act.

For the USIA, we are adding back $20 million for the international education exchanges, including $10 million for the Fulbright program. We also add back funds for the USIA operations, international broadcasting, and technology modernization. And for the independent agencies like the Federal Trade Commission, the Small Business Administration and others, we have added back certain funds that could be available now with this new allocation.

I thank particularly the staffs on both sides, Scott Gudes, Mark Van Der Water, David Taylor, Scott Corwin, and Steve McMillen, who worked until about 2 o'clock this morning, trying to bring this about.

I am very much appreciative to Senator HATFIELD, and I hope we can adopt this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Hawaii.

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I express my gratitude to the chairman of the full committee and to the Senator from South Carolina for addressing a concern I have been discussing with them for many months, the East-West Center. It is a very important national asset, and I thank them very much.

For those not familiar with the East-West Center, it is a world-class American institution dedicated to promoting better understanding and relationships with the countries of Asia and the Pacific.

It was created by a bipartisan government 35 years ago that foresaw the need for a better understanding between the United States and the Asia-Pacific region. The importance of the East-West Center is important now more than ever.

The Asia-Pacific region is the fastest growing region in the world. Today, over half of the population of the world is in Asia. This region has about 20 percent of the land mass and over 60 percent of the gross product of the world.

For every jumbo jet that flies over the Atlantic Ocean, four fly over the Pacific Ocean. Our trade with Asia is four times larger than our trade with Europe.

It has become the fastest growing economy. Trade with Asia provides nearly 3 million jobs to Americans and, by the year 2003, our exports to Asia will be more than double those to Europe.

I would like to share two concrete examples of the East-West Center's success in the Asia-Pacific. There was a time when our relations with Indonesia were next to nil. Our Ambassador was recalled. There were no exchanges or any formal conversation.

Indonesia cut off all ties with the United States. It would not permit any of its citizens to become Fulbright scholars, but it continued to send men and women to the East-West Center.

The same thing with Burma. Our relationship with Burma over the years has been hot and cold. At one time, Burma sent our Ambassador home and closed our consulates. But Burma sent students to the East-West Center.

It was convinced that this was a unique spot on the globe where men and women could freely discuss issues of the day.

The East-West Center now has 42,000 alumni globally; a network of distinguished colleagues in government, business, the media, academia, and the professions.

The student degree program, with 4,000 graduates, is a major component of cultural and technical interchange at the Center.

As you can see, the East-West Center is a national resource that must be funded at a responsible level. I ask my colleagues to support this national institution.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I am pleased to join the senior Senator from Hawaii, the senior Senator from Utah, the senior Senator from Alaska, the distinguished ranking member of the subcommittee, and the chairmen of the subcommittee and full committee, in offering this amendment to restore funding for the East-West Center.

Over the past 35 years, the East-West Center has established its reputation as one of the most respected and authoritative institutions dedicated to the advancement of international cooperation throughout Asia and the Pacific. The Center plays a key role in promoting constructive American involvement in the region through its educational, dialogue, research, and outreach programs. The Center addresses critical issues of importance to the Asia-Pacific region and United States interests in the region, including international economics and politics, energy and natural resources, population, the environment, technology, and culture.

The achievements of the East-West Center bear repetition. Since its creation by Congress in 1960, the Center has welcomed over 53,000 participants from over 60 nations and territories to research, education, and conference programs.

Scholars, statesmen, government officials, journalists, teachers, and business executives from the United States and the nations of Asia and the Pacific have benefited from studies at the Center. These government and private sector leaders comprise an influential network of East-West Center alumni throughout the Asia-Pacific region. I continually encounter proud Center alumni in meetings with Asian and Pacific island government officials and business leaders.

The success of the Center as a forum for the promotion of international cooperation and the strength of the positive personal relationships developed at the Center are reflected in the prestige it enjoys in the region. Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Indonesia, Fiji, Papua New Guinea, Pakistan, and other American allies in the region—over 20 countries in all—support the Center's programs with contributions. The Center has also received endowments from benefactors in recognition of its contributions and value.

Mr. President, the countries of Asia and the Pacific are critically important to the United States and our political and economic interests into the next century. By the year 2000, the Asia-Pacific region will be the world's largest producer and consumer of goods and services. The markets for energy resources, telecommunications, and air travel are fast becoming the world's largest.

Future economic growth and job creation in the United States is closely linked to our ability to identify and secure opportunities in the world's fastest growing economies. The East-West Center provides leadership and advice on economic issues, including APEC [Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation] and the U.S.-Pacific Island Joint Commercial Commission.

Mr. President, given the strategic and economic importance of the Asia-Pacific region to U.S. interests, and the credibility and trust enjoyed by the East-West Center in the region, I believe it is unwise to slash funding for the Center. We have closed, or are in the process of closing, AID offices in the region. These actions are sending signals to our friends and others in the region that our interest is waning.

For over 3 decades we have invested in the East-West Center, creating an important resource that promotes regional understanding and cooperation, provides expertise on complex regional issues, and advises U.S. foreign policy decisionmaking. If we fail to provide the Center adequate funding and a reasonable transition period to self-sufficiency, we will discard a valuable resource—a first-class institution that has earned an international reputation for its research scholarship and academic programs. Given the increasing significance of Asia and the Pacific islands to our interests and security, such action is short-sighted and ill-advised. I urge my colleagues to support our amendment.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, one of the things that is deficient, in my view, about the legislation before us—and I will shortly send an amendment to the desk about it that I think we have worked out—and that is, in fairness to my friend from Texas, the chairman of the committee, in his, if I have this correct, 602(b) allocation, initially he got less money in that allocation. I am not being critical of the chairman. He got less money in that allocation than was needed to fund some of the things I think he believes should have been funded, and I strongly believe, along with Senator HATCH and a number of my Republican as well as Democratic colleagues, should be funded.

In this case the present appropriations bill before us funds the Violence Against Women Act law at $75 million less than is needed. It is funded at $100 million. I am going to shortly send an amendment to the desk to increase that funding. I ask to be corrected if I am mistaken here, but I will, on behalf of Senator GRAMM and myself, send to the desk, along with Senators HATCH and WELLSTONE and others, an amendment that would restore the $75 million in this account.

I understand the reason we have been able to work this out is a consequence of the generosity of the distinguished chairman of the full committee and the ranking member of the subcommittee, this subcommittee, who have come up with this agreement that, in turn, has had the effect of providing an additional $75 million for the violent crime trust fund. It is that from which this is funded.

Of all the legislation I have ever worked on here in the Senate, this one, the Violence Against Women Act, has been, in my case, my first priority and proudest accomplishment. When it passed the Senate with overwhelming bipartisan support I was hopeful that support would be maintained. Frankly, I lost faith there for a little while when the appropriations bill first came out.

I am actually waiting for the amendment so I can send it to the desk. I will explain the rest of it while I am waiting.

Mr. DOMENICI. Will the Senator yield for an observation?

Mr. BIDEN. I will be happy to yield for an observation.

Mr. DOMENICI. I do not raise this officially, but I do not believe the Senator can offer an amendment at this point. I do not believe this amendment is amendable at this point.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I say to my friend from New Mexico, I have overwhelming confidence in his parliamentary skills. If he says it, there must be a likelihood he is correct, in which case I make a parliamentary inquiry: When is it appropriate for the Senator from Delaware to introduce an amendment that would, in fact, restore the $75 million to the violence against women account?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. When we dispose of the Hatfield amendment.

Mr. BIDEN. That is a very useful piece of information, Mr. President. I thank him very much, and, if it is appropriate, I ask unanimous consent that, upon disposal of the Hatfield amendment, I be recognized to offer my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. DOMENICI. Reserving the right to object, I will not object if I can add my unanimous consent to it that immediately thereafter we have a Domenici amendment on legal services.

Mr. BIDEN. I have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I will just take a moment, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I say to my colleague from New Mexico, I will just take a minute.

Mr. DOMENICI. No problem.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I want to just emphasize what the Senator from Delaware said, including being an original cosponsor to this amendment. I will wait. I am very pleased an agreement has been worked out. I will wait until the Senator from Delaware introduces his amendment. My understanding is we have a good agreement here. At that point in time I would like to talk about the importance of what we have done.

So I just ask unanimous consent I be included as an original cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Is there further debate on the amendment?

The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator HATFIELD, the sponsor of the amendment, a clarification question.

First of all, I strongly compliment my colleague on the amendment. I certainly intend wholeheartedly to support it. Under Small Business Administration you have an overall $30 million add-on. Am I correct that in the specifics, that for women's outreach programs, you have increased that to $4 million?

Mr. HATFIELD. The Senator is correct.

Mr. DOMENICI. And for the information centers, women's counselling, $200,000. Is that correct?

Mr. HATFIELD. The Senator is correct.

Mr. DOMENICI. I thank the Senator.

Mr. HATFIELD. Those are within the overall 30.

Mr. DOMENICI. I thank the Senator for his answers. I want to commend him for that.

I want to suggest that, if there is any area that we are being successful as a nation in encouraging new entrants into the business field, it is women ownership of business. It is skyrocketing in America, and some of it has to do with very effective programs when you are bringing women in and they are talking about what they might want to do in business, and providing a lot of information about how to obtain loans and the like. I think we ought to maximize that effort at this point.

I thank the Senator for that.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment? If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from Oregon.

The amendment (No. 2814) was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I thank Senator GRAMM, and Senator HOLLINGS particularly for his cosponsorship.

I also want to thank Scott Gudes, Scott Corwin, David Taylor, and Mark Van de Water, four members of our respective staffs who sat up and worked this out in detail until about 2 a.m. this morning.

They certainly deserve the accolades and appreciation of the whole Senate.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I want to particularly thank Mark Van de Water of Senator HATFIELD's staff. We really appreciate it very, very much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from Delaware is recognized.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I would like to ask unanimous consent that anyone who wishes to be added as a cosponsor on this amendment be able to do so.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2815

(Purpose: To restore funding for grants to combat violence against women)

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN), for himself, Mr. HATCH, Mr. HOLLINGS, Mr.

GRAMM, Mrs. BOXER, Mr. KOHL, Mr. KERRY, and Mr. WELLSTONE, proposes an amendment numbered 2815.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 25, line 19, strike "$100,900,000" and insert "$175,400,000".

On page 25, line 22, strike "$4,250,000" and insert "$6,000,000".

On page 26, line 7, strike "$6,000,000" and insert "$7,000,000".

On page 26, line 10, insert after "Act;" the following: "$1,000,000 for training programs to assist probation and parole officers who work with released sex offenders, as authorized by section 40152(c) of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994; $500,000 for Federal victim's counselors, as authorized by section 40114 of that Act; $50,000 for grants for televised testimony, as authorized by section 1001(a)(7) of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968; $200,000 for the study of State databases on the incidence of sexual and domestic violence, as authorized by section 40292 of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994; $1,500,000 for national stalker and domestic violence reduction, as authorized by section 40603 of that Act;"

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I offer this amendment to restore $75 million in funding for the Justice Department programs contained in the Violence Against Women Act, and I am pleased that many of my colleagues, including Senator GRAMM of Texas and Senator HATCH of Utah, are cosponsors of this amendment.

Of all the legislation I have ever worked on here in the Senate, this one—the Violence Against Women Act—has been my first priority and my proudest accomplishment. When it passed the Senate with overwhelming bipartisan support, I thought we were well on our way to making a significant commitment to the women of America. I thought we made more than a paper commitment. But passing the law, without following through and providing the funding is meaningless.

For too long, we have looked the other way when it comes to this kind of violence. For too long, we have turned our back on the women injured by men who say they love them. For too long, we have considered this kind of violence a private misfortune rather than a public injustice.

Last year, we took a historic step in the right direction when we passed the Violence Against Women Act. We made a commitment to the women and children of this country. We said: We will no longer look the other way—the violence you suffer will no longer be yours alone. Help is on the way.

And just in case my colleagues have forgotten, let me once again remind them of the dimensions of this problem:

The No. 1 threat to the health of America's women is a violent attack at the hands of a man. It is not breast cancer, it's not heart attacks, it's not strikes. Its violence against women by men.

These attacks have many names. They are called rape, assault, felonies. And the attackers have many faces. They are friends, relatives, spouses, and strangers.

The statistics are terrifying:

Every 18 seconds, a woman is beaten by her spouse, boyfriend, or other intimate partner.

Every 5 minutes, a woman is raped.

Nearly two out of three female victims of violence are related to, or know, their attackers.

As many as 35 percent of all women who visit emergency rooms are there because of family violence.

This violence also takes a tragic toll on our children:

Three million children each year witness violence in their homes. Studies show that these kids are more likely to drop out of school; abuse alcohol and drugs; attempt suicide; and, sadly, grow up to be abusers themselves.

The violence women suffer reflects as much a failure of our Nation's collective moral conscience as it does the failure of our Nation's laws and regulations.

How else can we explain the results of a study of junior high school students conducted in Rhode Island a few years ago?

In the study, the students were asked: When does a man have the right to have sexual intercourse with a woman without her consent?

It seems like an outrageous question doesn't it? but 80 percent of the students said that a man had the right to use force on his wife, 70 percent said he had the right to use force if the couple was engaged, and 61 percent said force was OK if the couple had already had sexual relations, and 30 percent said force was justified if the man knew that the woman had had sex with other men.

And the appalling answers do not stop.

About 25 percent of the boys said it was OK to force sex on a girl if the boy had spent $10 on her—and, astoundingly, 20 percent of the girls who were interviewed agreed.

If these are the attitudes we have communicated to our youth, it is hardly surprising that we tolerate a level of violence against women unprecedented in our history.

Somehow, we seem to forget that a society suffers what it tolerates.

That's why we cannot retreat from the commitment we made last year with passage of the Violence Against Women Act. The act, let me remind my colleagues, has four basic goals: To make our streets and homes safer for women; to make the criminal justice system more responsive to women; to start changing attitudes—beginning with our kids—about violence against women; and to extend to women the equal protection of our Nation's laws.

The Senate, the House, and the President—we all agreed last year that Federal dollars should be committed to these goals. Specifically, we authorized funding to:

Hire more police and prosecutors specially trained and devoted to combating family violence;

Train police, prosecutors, and judges in the ways of family violence—so they can better understand and respond to the problem;

Implement tougher arrest policies, including mandatory arrest for anyone who violates a protection order—so that the burden of seeking an arrest does not fall on the women who may fear further violence;

Expand and improve victim-service programs and provide specially trained family violence court advocates;

Fund rape crisis centers and open more battered women shelters; and Fund family violence education courses in our schools.

In the past 12 months, the Violence Against Women Act has already been put into action. In States and communities all across the country, Federal dollars are helping coalitions of police, prosecutors, judges, and victim service organizations work together—to make arrests, win convictions, secure tough sentences, and offer women the information and practical resources they need.

As many of you may already know, the first conviction and sentencing under the act took place recently in West Virginia.

It is a case about Christopher Bailey and his wife, Sonja, and it is enough to take your breath away. Christopher Bailey severely beat Sonja, forced her into the trunk of his car, and drove aimlessly across West Virginia and Kentucky for 6 days.

Sonja suffered massive head injuries and severe kidney and liver dysfunctions. Her face was black and blue, and her eyes were swollen shut. She had burn marks on her neck, wrists, and ankles.

Today, Sonja remains in a coma.

Christopher Bailey was convicted under a new provision in the Violence Against Women Act, and for kidnapping. Early this month he was sentenced to serve the rest of his days in prison.

Obviously, Bailey's conviction won't bring Sonja out of her coma. But it does send a clear message all across our land: violence against women will not be tolerated—it will be punished, and it will be punished severely.

Today, we here in the Senate must send that same message. We must keep the promise we made last year, and restore funding for the Justice Department programs authorized by the Violence Against Women Act.

Last year, the Congress authorized over $176 million for the Violence Against Women Act Justice Department programs. This bill as reported by committee cut more than $76 million from these programs.

The most devastating cut was made to the grant program at the heart of the act: The program to bring together State and local police, prosecutors, and victims advocates to target family violence and rape.

Last year, we authorized $130 million for that program. This bill only allocates $61 million—so $69 million dollars were cut from the police, prosecution, and victim services grants—that means more than 1 out of every 2 dollars were cut.

This is money for more police and prosecutors to crack down on violence against women; to train police, prosecutors, and judges so they can understand better and respond more effectively to violence against women; and to develop, enlarge and strengthen programs for victims of violence—like rape crisis centers, battered women's shelters, and special victim advocates.

This bill also cuts $1 million earmarked especially for rural areas to combat family violence, and the bill completely eliminated the $1.5 million targeted to combat stalking against women.

In restoring $75 million in funding for the Violence Against Women Act, this amendment does not take any new money out of the taxpayer's pockets. Instead, the money comes out of other places in the bill—where there's much more money appropriated than was requested by the President.

These cuts would have had a devastating impact on the lives of women and children in America. I am pleased that so many of my colleagues are joining me in restoring virtually all of the funding for the Violence Against Women Act.

Let me also point out: the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, chaired by my distinguished friend and colleague from Pennsylvania, Senator SPECTER, has recommended full funding for the Violence Against Women Act programs within the jurisdiction of the Department of Health and Human Services for rape education and prevention, domestic violence community demonstration projects, a domestic violence hotline, and battered women shelters.

In fact, recognizing the urgency of this problem, the subcommittee wrote in an additional $2.4 million for battered women shelters—shelters which serve as a refuge for women and their children when they are hurt and most vulnerable—and in greatest need of our compassion and support.

I applaud the subcommittee's efforts to honor the commitment that we made last year to the women and children of America. And I hope that when the HHS appropriations bill comes to the floor, the full Senate will honor that commitment as well.

But right here, right now, we must not retreat on the bill at hand. We cannot—we must not—turn back now. For too long, our society has turned its back on the nightmare that is violence against women.

Obviously, we cannot legislate humanity and kindness. And we cannot outlaw hatred and ignorance.

But we can help make America a safer place for women—and I call on everyone here to help do just that.

I hope all of my colleagues will join me in restoring full funding to the Violence Against Women Act programs. The women and children of America are counting on us.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator HOLLINGS be added as an original cosponsor, and Senator KERRY of Massachusetts, Senator GRAMM of Texas is already the original cosponsor, Senator HATCH, Senator BOXER, Senator WELLSTONE, and others who will come to the floor I am sure who wish to be part of this amendment.

I ask unanimous consent that they be added.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, in the interest of time because there are other amendments and a lot more to do on this bill, let me briefly explain this amendment and then yield to the chairman of the subcommittee for any comments that he would like to make, and he surely knows the mechanics of this better than I.

Mr. President, in order to restore every single piece of the Violence Against Women Act funding, there is a requirement that would be required that we would have to have had $76.7 million.

Just to give my colleagues an idea what I mean about that, the violence against women grants; pro-arrest policy; rural domestic violence, court-appointed special counsel, national stalker reduction, training programs, Federal victims counselors, grants for televised testimony, State databases, national baseline study for campus sexual assault, equal justice for women in courts, training grants for State courts, training for Federal and judicial personnel, Federal Judicial Center, and Administrative Office of the Courts, are all recipients of some portion of the violence against women funding.

Unfortunately, all we have available is $75 million, not $76.7 million to make this account totally whole.

So my amendment lays out which portions of all of those functions that I have just read are fully funded and which are not able to be funded with this addition of $75 million.

I want to put this in context. We are going to be funding $175 million out of $76.7 million. This is a $75 million increase. I wish it were a $76.7 million increase, but then again, as my friend, the chairman of the full committee is saying, I am being a little greedy in that regard. I realize every program has to take a little bit of hit.

So what we do in a nutshell is we add $75 million in the accounts that we may call the violence against women grants, pro-arrest policy, the rural domestic violence, court-appointed advocate programs, national stalker legislation, training programs, Federal victims counselors—we are not able to fully fund the grants for televised testimony. That was originally in our legislation—$250 million. It is funded at only $50 million. We are able to fund fully the State database. We are not able to fund the national baseline study on campus sexual assault at this moment. We are not able to fund equal justice for women in State courts, training for Federal judicial personnel, Federal Judicial Center, and Administrative Office of the Courts.

So that is what the additional $75 million goes to make whole.

I would be delighted to yield to the chairman of the committee for any comments, and thank him, by the way, for keeping—as he always does with me and with everyone else I know—a commitment. He told me that if he had the money he would make this account at least mostly whole. He got the money, and he did just that. And I thank him for that.

I yield the floor.

Mr. GRAMM addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, let me thank Senator BIDEN for working with me on this amendment. We had provided in the appropriations bill a tripling of funding for violence against women, which represented our largest increase in expenditure in the bill. Our problem was that, given the overall financial constraint we had, there was no way we could fund the authorized level of the program.

So Senator BIDEN and I were in a position that we both wanted to provide more money. This has been one of the top priorities of the bill. But yet we were still short of the full program that the Senate had authorized.

When the distinguished chairman of the committee allocated additional funds to the subcommittee, as he did in his amendment that was just adopted a moment ago, it allowed us to go ahead and to fully fund this program.

I am, therefore, very happy to join my colleague from Delaware in this amendment. I think given the funds that are now available that this represents a wise expenditure of money.

I join my colleague in supporting this amendment, and urge our colleagues to adopt it.

I yield the floor.

Mr. WELLSTONE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I would like to thank both of my colleagues, the Senator from Delaware, and the Senator from Texas and, of course, the Senator from Oregon, Chairman HATFIELD.

I also see the Senator from Utah whom I think has been a real leader in this area. I am really pleased that we have come together in a bipartisan way on this issue.

Mr. President, I could take a tremendous amount of time. But I think there are other Senators who want to make some brief comments on this as well. So let me just try to summarize several hours worth of what I would like to say on this issue.

In my State of Minnesota I think a lot of people are lighting a candle in this area. The statistics nationally are really grim. I think the FBI statistics is something like every 15 seconds a woman is battered in our country.

Mr. President, I think that we are taking this seriously now in a way that we have not before as a country, both as a crime and also in terms of the kind of things that we need to do to prevent it.

Mr. President, I think what this Violence Against Women Act funding does—I am so pleased that we were able to go up from $100 million to $175 million, is it provides funds to communities who can make good and positive things happen.

Mr. President, I think this is not bragging to say that Minnesota really is one of the leaders in the Nation—I think I would probably argue leader in the Nation. I think the general view that we have in my State is we are never going to be able to reduce the violence in our communities unless we are able to reduce the violence in our homes. It spills out into the streets. It spills out into the neighborhoods. It spills out into the community.

I think the second view that we have in Minnesota—and I think it is a view around the country—is that, whereas, when I was a kid, if we knew something was wrong in another home, whether it be a woman who was battered or a child—sometimes a man, but unfortunately mainly women and children, not that I think it is good that men are battered—I think it is awful that so many women and children have to pay this price. I think now we have reached the conclusion, as opposed to a point in time when we said it was no one's business, I think we are now seeing it as everybody's business. This is the kind of problem that could be tackled at the community level. It is the kind of problem that could be tackled by the law enforcement community. It is the kind of problem that could be tackled by the clergy. It is the kind of problem that can be tackled by women and others who are down there in the trenches in the battered women's shelters. It is the kind of problem that can be tackled in our schools where children learn alternatives to violence as a way of solving disputes. We really think as a country we can take this problem on.

I think this amendment which has been accepted by both sides is an extremely powerful, an extremely personal, and an extremely important message by the U.S. Senate that we are not going to back down from this national commitment.

I am proud to be a cosponsor. I thank the Senator from Delaware for his very fine remarks.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I rise in support of this amendment. I thank my colleague, friend, and cosponsor, Senator BIDEN, for his leadership in this area.

Mr. President, this really has a dramatic imprint on America. It is already starting to put people in jail that are violating the rights of women in our society. Frankly, it is a tough law. It is a good law. It is one that needs to be fully funded, and I am happy that we have the cooperation and the support of the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee in this matter as well.

As most of my colleagues are aware, I have long opposed programs I believed were mere pork projects. In fact, I led the battle against last year's crime bill because I felt that it had ballooned in terms of unjustified costs. The Violence Against Women Act, however, is an important program that deserves to be fully funded. The act provides for: Rape prevention education; battered women shelters; grants to encourage arrest policies in domestic violence cases; the investigation and prosecution of domestic violence and child abuse in rural areas; treatment and counseling for victims; and for developing community domestic violence and child abuse education programs.

These programs are important. Prosecutors and police officers must become more sensitized to the problem of violence against women. Women who are abused by their spouses must have a place to stay and must have counseling available to repair their shattered lives. Resources need to be channeled to stem the tide of violence directed against women.

Mr. President, no matter what anybody said, violence against women is a problem in America today. According to the Justice Department data, nearly half a million women were forcibly raped last year—a half million, in the greatest society in the world.

Some studies estimate that the total number of rapes including those not reported to the authorities exceed 2 million women a year. That is outrageous and it has to stop.

Indeed, according to a recent report by the Bureau of Justice Statistics, a woman faces four times the chance of being raped today than in 1960. Similarly, domestic violence strikes at the heart of the most important political unit in America, and that is the family. The family should be a safe harbor for those tossed about by the storms of life, not a place of abuse or of degradation. It is a sad fact of life, however, that the reports of domestic violence have been on the rise.

To this end, Senator BIDEN, Senator SPECTER, and I worked last year to see that the Violence Against Women Act was signed into law. According to both the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, however, the Justice Department has only spent $2 million of the total $25 million provided for fiscal year 1995. We have to restore this funding. The act is a small, albeit vital, step toward addressing the problem of family violence and violence against women generally.

So I certainly urge all colleagues to be supportive of this amendment. I am pleased to stand and support this excellent bill, and I compliment my friend and colleague from Delaware for his leadership in this matter, as well as those in the Chamber and others who have contributed to the bill and to the funding of it. And I particularly thank my colleagues on the Appropriations Committee for their willingness to fully fund this bill.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I join my colleagues in saying a few words in support of this amendment. I particularly thank the Senator from Delaware, Senator BIDEN, for negotiating on our behalf on this side of the aisle, his conversations that he has had with all of us, the dialog that he engaged in an effort to try to achieve a sensible strategy to save some of the programs in a bill that to many of us is still flawed.

The Senator from Utah just talked about rape and the problem of violence with respect to rape in particular, but the truth is that family violence, as we have all learned, is the No. 1 cause of all kinds of physical injury to women in this country. And when you translate the effect of family violence into the impact on several million young children, that impact plays out in a way that diminishes the capacity of those children to be able to learn, to be able to go to school, to be able to carry on normal relationships, and that flows into their adolescence and subsequent adulthood in ways that simply diminish the capacity of people to be able to participate as good citizens.

We all deplore the implosion within a large segment of America's population with respect to a fundamental structure—the family. Finally, with the Violence Against Women Act, we gave people hope that a particular kind of behavior was going to be properly singled out and treated. To have even thought of doing away with it was astonishing to me.

We do not need to talk further about that because we are restoring it. I am glad that the Senate has come to its senses with respect to it.

I might mention that the Violence Against Women Act not only speaks to the problem of the physical abuse against a woman. We just had a very long debate about welfare and the family cap. And my good friend from New Mexico, Senator DOMENICI, spoke extraordinarily eloquently in the Chamber about the problem of punishing innocent children and creating further problems in the cycle but also about the problem of increased incentive to have abortions as a consequence of illegitimate pregnancies.

Mr. President, when you consider violence against women, the truth is—and it has been ignored by prosecutors across America and by State governments across America—a large percentage of those unwanted pregnancies in America are the pregnancies of 13- and 14- and 15- and 16-year-olds by virtue of the actions of 24- and 25- and 26-year-olds. The last time most of us looked, that constituted statutory rape in this country.

A Congressman has just been tried on the basis of actions of an adult with a teenager, and the truth is that here in America a large percentage of preying on the young is taking place. The unwanted pregnancies that we see in this country are in fact criminal actions. So this act in effect allows us to also focus on that totally ignored aspect of illegitimacy.

And the truth is, if there was a stronger capacity within the welfare system to identify those people, we might begin to hold people accountable for their actions, but not do it in a way that creates a huge problem for the totally innocent child born as a consequence of those actions.

So, Mr. President, I congratulate the Senator from Delaware. I think this is a very important outcome. And I thank the Senator from Texas for acknowledging that this act that only recently went into effect is working, it is having a profound impact and it is healthy for this country to allow it to continue to work.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I rise in support of the Biden amendment to increase by $75 million the appropriation for enforcement of the Violence Against Women's Act. As an original cosponsor of the amendment, it is vitally important that Congress does not waiver in its commitment to ensure that women in America are free from the devastation of domestic violence.

Domestic violence is a social sickness, and women and children are its most common casualties. Violence against women in the home is a heinous crime being committed behind locked doors and pulled shades in cities and towns across America. By committing this additional funding to the Violence Against Women's Act, Congress will give women the tools to bring this crime out of the shadows.

Mr. President, a policeman recently said, "The most dangerous place to be is in one's home between Saturday night at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 6 p.m." He forgot to add, "Especially if you're a woman." A 10-year study found that in cases where the identity of the killer is known, over one half of all women murdered in America were killed by a current or former male partner or by a male family member. Studies have also shown that violence against women in the home causes more total injuries to women than rape, muggings, and car accidents combined.

In my home State of New Jersey, there were 66,248 domestic violence offenses reported by the police in 1993. Overall, women were the victims in 83 percent of all domestic violence offenses. Mr. President, 41 women lost their lives as a result of domestic violence disputes in my home State in 1993. These are not nameless, faceless statistics. Mr. President, these are women who endured torture and abuse during their marriages and were violently murdered.

Mr. President, I have introduced a bill to create community response teams around the country. Community response teams work in tandem with police to help victims of domestic violence right when a crisis occurs. By working together, community response teams and police can provide victims with the services so essential to them after they have been battered or beaten in their home.

Mr. President, an increasing number of jurisdictions in the State of New Jersey are employing community response teams. For example, in Middlesex County, which includes South River, there are currently five jurisdictions with community response teams. South River, with a population of approximately 15,000, has a community response team employing 7 community volunteers. In Woodbridge, a community response team of approximately 30 volunteers is serving a population of 100,000. These community response teams, serving both large and small communities, are effectively assisting women who are suffering physical and mental abuse.

Mr. President, Violence Against Women's Act funding is available for these successful programs in New Jersey to continue to aid victims of domestic violence. In addition, Violence Against Women's Act funding will assist in the fight against domestic violence by providing needed resources to prosecutors and police officers.

Mr. President, if domestic violence is to be obliterated in our society, we need to provide communities with the resources they need to prevent instances of violence and protect victims from further abuse. By providing additional funding to the Violence Against Women's Act, Congress will strengthen the lines of defense in the battle against domestic violence.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Biden amendment, which restores the $75 million shortfall in funding for programs to prevent violence against women.

After years of hearings, reports and statistics we learned that our society and our criminal justice system has been ignoring violence against women, often with tragic consequences for women, their children, and ultimately, for society itself.

We learned that one-fifth of all aggravated assaults in the United States occurred in the home; 3 to 4 million

American women a year are victims of family violence; one-third of all American women who are murdered die at the hands of a husband or boyfriend; one third of all women who go to emergency rooms in this country are there because of family violence; an estimated 700,000 American women are raped each year; children in violent homes are 1,500 times more likely to be abused or neglected; over the last 10 years, crimes against women have risen nearly three times as fast as the total crime rate; 98 percent of the victims of rape never see their attacker caught, tried or imprisoned; over half of all rape prosecutions are either dismissed before trial or result in an acquittal; and almost half of all convicted rapists can expect to serve an average of a year or less behind bars.

The solution to the problem is not to treat women as victims—it is empowerment. And that is what the act does. It allows women to take charge of their lives through such things as rape prevention programs or counseling provided at federally funded battered women's shelters.

The Violence Against Women Act is the first comprehensive approach to fighting all forms of violence against women. The law made a substantial commitment of Federal funds over a 6-year period to combat family violence and sexual assault. The commitment we made sends resources and support to those devoted to responding to and preventing violence against women.

I urge every Senator to support this amendment. Let us not go back on our promises made to the women of this country.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I rise in support of Senator BIDEN's amendment to restore full funding for the Violence Against Women Act.

This amendment would restore $76 million to programs in the Violence Against Women Act—training for police, prosecutors, and victims advocates to target family violence and rape; programs to reduce sexual abuse and exploitation of young people; training for judges and prosecutors on victims of child abuse; training for state court judges on rape, sexual assault, and domestic violence, and programs to address domestic violence in rural areas.

Last year, $240 million was promised by Congress for the Violence Against Women Act [VAWA] programs for fiscal year 1996—$176.7 million for VAWA programs administered by the Department of Justice, and $61.9 million for VAWA programs administered by the Department of Health and Human Services.

All of this is funded out of $4.2 billion provided by the crime trust fund in 1996. Funding in the crime trust fund comes from eliminating 123,000 federal jobs and cutting domestic discretionary spending. Full funding of the Violence Against Women Programs has no effect on the budget deficit and requires no new taxes. Now, I want my colleagues to clearly understand what this all means. Last year, as a country we decided that addressing crime was a top priority. We decided that savings from streamlining the Federal Government and cutting other domestic programs would go to fight crime.

As a country we made a commitment to breaking the cycle of violence and see that a person's home is the safe place it should be. Last year, as part of the crime bill Congress passed the Violence Against Women Act, we made a bipartisan commitment to address domestic violence. But now, only a year later, we are considering a bill to cut funding for these programs.

I must, at the same time, commend my colleagues on the Appropriation Subcommittee on Labor/HHS for their efforts and wisdom in more than fully funding the Violence Against Women Act Program under their jurisdiction.

But we must remember all the programs in the Violence Against Women Act are a package. Senator BIDEN and others worked for 5 years on this piece of legislation. All the pieces of it fit together. They all must be in place for it to work effectively. For example, we can encourage arrests by police officers but if they are not properly trained to understand the dynamics of domestic violence, an arrest could make the situation more explosive. Likewise, if more batterers are being arrested but judges are not trained to understand or take domestic violence seriously batterers are likely to go free or charged with lesser offenses.

Violence Against Women Act programs must be fully funded. Anything less would result in a betrayal of the bipartisan promise Congress made. Domestic violence should be a priority for national crime-fighting efforts. But without adequate funding we cannot address this serious problem.

We know all too well that it is the violence in the home that seeps out into our streets. If we do not stop the violence in the home we will never stop it in the streets. We knew this when we passed the crime bill last year and it is still true today.

Domestic violence is one of the most serious issues we face. It knows no borders. Neither race, gender, geographic or economic status shields someone from domestic violence. As a matter of fact, next week my wife Sheila and I are sponsoring the display of 50 photographs by Donna Ferrato, an award winning photojournalist. These photographs provide powerful and graphic evidence of this crisis, and I invite my colleagues to view them, I am only disappointed that these photos could not be displayed while we debate this issue.

Mr. President, nationwide, every 15 seconds a woman is beaten by a husband or boyfriend, over 4,000 women are killed every year by their abuser, and every 6 minutes a woman is forcibly raped.

We know that the majority, 70 percent, of men who batter women also batter their children. Or children may be injured during an incident of parental battery. We also know that 25-45 percent of all women who are battered are battered during pregnancy. Battering during pregnancy is the most common cause of birth defects.

Children are also scarred emotionally by witnessing the abuse of their mothers. They are traumatized by fear for their mother and their own helplessness in protecting her. They may blame themselves for not preventing the violence or even for causing it. This can manifest itself in aggression, sleeping disorders, or withdrawal.

When a woman and her children are struggling to leave violent homes, they face many barriers. Many people ask why she does not leave? Often the response to this question is merely another question: why does he beat her? I feel that particular response ignores the realities of women's lives. One reason women do not leave is fear. If she leaves, he will find her and kill her. Batterers often threaten to harm or take the children away to force her to stay. Leaving him never guarantees safety for a woman or her children. In almost three-quarters of reported spouse assaults, the victim was divorced or separated at the time of the attack.

Women are also dependent on the abusers for financial reasons. If they decide to leave, often they can not afford housing or food for themselves and children.

Abusers also play on emotions to trap victims into staying. He will threaten to kill himself. This plays on many victims desires not for the marriage to end, just the violence.

Domestic violence is a community issue. It is no longer an issue for women; it is an issue for all women, men, and children. Communities need to work together. It was the Violence Against Women Act that was intended not only to strengthen the laws concerning general violence, it was to provide some of the necessary resources to communities to address the violence in their own communities.

It was intended to help law enforcement officers to make responsible arrests and understand the dynamics of domestic violence—to learn not ask her what she did to make him mad. It was to help train judges to treat domestic violence as a crime and hold the abusers accountable for the violence.

How ironic it is that last year around this time we were celebrating the passage of the Violence Against Women Act. We were celebrating because, finally, the Federal Government had taken a very bold step to make the protection of women in their homes a top priority for this Nation. And now, 2 days before the beginning of Domestic Violence Awareness Month we are considering a bill that cuts the funding for these important programs.

As I travel and meet more and more women and children who are victims of domestic violence, I become even more outraged that a woman's home can be the most dangerous, violent, or deadly place she can be; if she is a mother, the same is true for her children. It was with the passage of the Violence Against Women Act that Congress said loudly and clearly it is time to stop the cycle of violence, it is time to make homes safe again, and it is time to help communities across the country deal with this crisis. Without full funding, Congress will turn its back on women and their families. And it will turn its back on communities that are struggling to deal with increasing crime.

I urge my colleagues to support the Biden amendment.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I would first like to thank my colleague from Delaware, Senator BIDEN, for crafting and offering this amendment as well as my colleague from Utah, Senator HATCH, for his leadership.

Mr. President, I want to speak to you today not just as a U.S. Senator, or a citizen of Maine, or even as a Republican. I want to speak to you as a woman, and I want to speak to you on behalf of the 135 million women of America about an issue that has more likely than not touched each of our lives at some point in time.

Let me just say that it is not an uncommon occurrence in Congress for either Chamber to authorize funding for a particular program but not to fully fund that program at the authorized levels. It happens often, and, in some circumstances, there may be justifiable reasons to take such a course of action.

By not fully funding some wasteful programs, we might even save the taxpayers of America some of their hard earned tax dollars and use them towards programs that work and that make a difference in the daily lives of America's families.

But I think it would come as a great surprise to many Americans—especially to those 135 million women—to know that a program such as the Violence Against Women Act, which was passed as part of last year's crime bill in Congress, has not yet been fully funded.

Now, I think it is safe to say that the Violence Against Women Act is one program that deserves its full funding. It is not wasteful. It is not unnecessary. It is not—and should not be—a target of waste watchers. And it is not to be overlooked. But it has been.

Fortunately, today, we have an opportunity to correct this oversight.

For those who may be wary of its funding—or who may doubt its necessity in this era of penny-pinching and budget scrutiny—let me just take a moment to paint a picture of life in America's streets and homes for some women.

It is a picture where more than 2.5 million women annually are victims of violent crimes.

It is a picture where an estimated 5,000 women are beaten to death each year.

It is a picture where in the 1990's, one out of every eight women have been the victim of a forcible rape.

It is a picture where every 15 seconds in America, a woman is battered—and where every 6 minutes, a woman is raped.

It is a picture where, between 1989 and 1993, the number of known rape offenses increased by 11 percent—despite more awareness of violence against women.

It is a picture where a woman in our country is more likely to be assaulted, injured, raped, or killed by a male partner than by any other assailant.

It is a picture where at least a third of all female emergency room patients are battered women, while a third of all homeless women and children are without shelter because they are fleeing domestic violence.

And the litany of tragedy and violence goes on to paint an even fuller, starker, and more disheartening picture.

This is an issue about a woman's safety, a woman's rights, and our ability as a nation to protect those inalienable rights as guaranteed under the Constitution.

But how can we defend a woman's right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" when we cannot protect her from "rape, battery, and the onslaught of violence."

Mr. President, the Violence Against Women Act is a critical tool in our fight to combat domestic violence across America. It is an essential bill for our mothers, our daughters, our sisters, our relatives, our friends, and our coworkers.

It contains provisions that enhance penalties for sex offenders; provides grants to States to improve law enforcement, prosecution, and victims services in cases of violent crimes against women; authorizes over $200 million for rape prevention and education programs; provides funds for the creation of a national domestic violence hotline as well as battered women's shelters; and does much more.

These provisions will help become a shield for women and deliver justice to victims of hateful and brutal assaults. Already, within the past year, two individuals have been imprisoned for life terms under this act for beating their spouses or girlfriends.

While I will be the first to say that violence knows no gender barriers and is clearly a threat to both men and women alike, no one can turn a blind eye to the fact that women are especially to be found in the scope of danger and crime.

Consider that women are six times—6 times—more likely than men to experience violence committed by an intimate. Consider that women and girls are victimized by relatives at four times the rate of males. And consider that an astounding 95 percent of violence victims are, in fact, women.

But the men of America have a stake in this legislation as well, which is why the fight here on the floor has been joined by such men as Senators BIDEN and HATCH. Namely, the fathers, sons, and brothers of the women of America who face the threat of violence each and every day. They deserve to know that the women who mean the most to them and their lives are safe on the streets of our cities.

It is for these reasons that I and 29 of my Senate colleagues requested that we fully fund the Violence Against Women Act in an August 9 letter to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Violence Against Women Act should be fully funded as it is supposed to be fully paid for out of the crime trust fund that Congress created last year. But the bill before us does not provide for it. Rather, the moneys within the crime trust fund have been what they call "re-prioritized," which in English means that the Violence Against Women Act has been short-changed to the tune of about $75 million.

In fiscal year 1995, total funding for this program was $26 million. The House Appropriations Committee appropriated $125 million for the program for fiscal year 1996, and the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee funded $100 million—a threefold increase over current funding, but still far short—woefully short—of what American women need and deserve to combat violence and domestic abuse.

Today, we are proposing a remedy to meet this crisis of funding head-on.

The amendment offered by the Senator from Delaware and the Senator from Texas provides the additional $75 million needed to fully fund the Violence Against Women Act.

Mr. President, let me conclude by saying that—as a former Cochair of the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues—I understand and know first-hand the importance of making women's health and women's safety a priority for Congress, because we must speak out for the 135 million women and girls of America.

We cannot let them down. We can no longer treat the Violence Against Women Act as a political football and simply fumble away women's needs and concerns.

I urge my colleagues to support the Biden-Gramm amendment.

Mr. BIDEN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I was taught by a fellow from South Carolina when I first got here 23 years ago that when you won, sit down. I mean, we won in the sense that everyone wins here. Women of America win.

I would like to ask unanimous consent—I will be very brief—that the following Senators be also added as original cosponsors: Senator INOUE, Senator AKAKA, Senator KOHL, Senator LEAHY, Senator HARKIN, and Senator SANTORUM, the Presiding Officer, from Pennsylvania.

Let me just say in closing, and then I will ask for the yeas and nays at that point, that there are certain facts people should keep in mind. I think of all the facts that affect women in this Nation as a consequence of violence, the thing that surprises me, that surprises most Americans most often are the following:

That family violence is the No. 1 cause of injury to adult women in America—No. 1, No. 1—not breast cancer, not heart attacks, not strokes. The No. 1 cause of injury to women in America is family violence, in almost every instance the fist of a man, supposedly someone who loves them.

The second point that people should keep in mind and why this is so important: Every 18 seconds a woman is beaten by her spouse, boyfriend, or other intimate partner in the United States, making the home the most dangerous place in the world to live for being a woman in a democracy. As many as 35 percent of all the women who will visit an emergency room in any of our cities tonight, one-third of all the women who will walk into an emergency room in Washington, DC; Wilmington, DE; Boston, MA; Butte, MT, one-third of them tonight who walk in will be there as a consequence of the fist of a man. They will be there because a man has injured them.

Three million children a year witness family violence in their homes. And as a consequence, the statistics are overwhelming. I will not bore you, but those children significantly have a greater likelihood of dropping out of school, becoming alcohol and drug abusers. They are the highest percentage of suicide attempts, and, most frightening of all, they become abusers—abusers. They become the abusers.

So, for these and 1,000 other reasons we could all speak to, I think this is a very, very important error we are correcting in this bill.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BIDEN. I yield the floor.

Mr. GRAMM addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I think we are going to decide to stack votes. So what I would like to do, unless someone else wants to speak on this amendment, is to suggest the absence of a quorum until we can decide if we are going to do that, in which case we would simply make this the first vote when we do the stacked votes.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, before the Senator suggests the absence of a quorum, I want to make it clear it is perfectly fine with me whatever way the Senator wishes to proceed.

Mr. HATCH. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask if it would be permissible then to proceed simply to speak on some issues with respect to the crime bill instead of putting in a quorum call.

I know, Mr. President, that discussions are going on now. We are negotiating, and Senator BIDEN is representing our side, with respect to the issue of cops, police. I would like to talk for a few minutes, if I may, Mr. President, about this issue of cops. It is one that I have been deeply involved in and concerned about for all the time I have been in the Senate. And in the last few years we finally have been able to elicit a response to try to meet one of the great needs of the country.

There is not one of us who has not been touched at one time or another in one way or another and sometimes very personally. I remember listening to the Senator from North Dakota in his own personal tale of what happened to his wife right here over on Capitol Hill. There are dozens of other examples. We have had a Senator randomly shot in the past here in Washington. We have had countless citizens in this city right around us shot. It is a war zone. It is the murder capital of the country. And it ought to have set a better example for what response should have been from the U.S. Congress.

Such a random act of violence occurred just a couple days ago in Massachusetts to a young prosecutor, Assistant Attorney General Paul McLaughlin, the son of a friend of mine, former Lieutenant Governor and U.S. attorney. But this young assistant attorney general, himself involved in working to fight the problem of gang warfare and gang criminal activity, was simply gunned down going to his car coming home in the evening after his normal 12-hour day in a prosecutor's office. A hooded young person walked up and blew him away.

I talked this afternoon with his father. And there is no way to express the sorrow that he and his family feel and no way for us to express our sorrow on their behalf.

But I can say, Mr. President, with clarity that what the State and local entities have been doing over the course of the past years and the Federal response to that is truly unconscionable because we have literally been disarming in the face of an increasing threat on an annual basis, a threat that is measurable. And all of us have come to understand, I hope finally, that nothing is more important in terms of really fighting crime than to put police officers on the streets of the country.

Mr. President, I have quoted the statistics before, but somehow they do not always seem to break through. But 15 years ago in this country we had 3.5 police officers per violent crime. Today we have, depending on the statistics, a range of 3.5 to 4.6 violent crimes per police officer. You can go into any of the major criminal activity communities in this country and you will find they are operating with less police today with a greater threat than they were 10 or 15 years ago with a lesser threat.

Ask anyone in those communities about the relationship between the community and police. By and large the police come in, they drive through in a cruiser, they are gone. People do not know them. It is a sign of transient authority, not the sign of a present authority that makes an impact on people's lives. The word "cop" came from the British concept of "constable on patrol." And it meant on patrol on foot, walking within a community. We used to do that in America. That was the nature of policing originally. The police officer knew the community, the people knew the police officer. There was a relationship with the police officer. The police officer was a role model. So, indeed, criminal activity rarely took place right under the nose of a police officer on patrol.

Now, in recent days, we have sent a message to people in this country that most crimes are very difficult to trace, very difficult to make arrests. In fact, one of the most startling statistics that I have come across is the fact that out of the 200,000 murders that occurred in this country in the last decade, fully 100,000 of them were murders that occurred by total strangers. Americans are being killed, not, as the FBI once told us, in these family disputes or lovers' quarrels, but they are being murdered randomly by people they have never seen and never met. And what is more frightening is fully two-fifths of those murders are committed by people who will never walk through the threshold of a police station or a courthouse.

Fully two-fifths of the murderers in America will never even come to justice. And 100,000 of our citizens in the last decade were gunned down by utter strangers. So when people say, well, violent crime is going down in America because there were 200 murders in your city last year and this year there were only 190, how are you supposed to feel safer? What greater safety is there in knowing that instead of 200 murders, 190 of your citizens were blown away?

Mr. President, 100,000 police officers is an inadequate response. I say to my colleagues today that 100,000 police officers is an inadequate response. And what is really bizarre in this new equation we are debating in Washington, the two greatest public crises in America today—education and public safety—are already today 100 percent and 95 percent controlled at the local level.

So here we are with an implosion of capacity to resolve these problems at the local level, and we are busy saying we are going to send back to the local level more responsibility with less resources. If that does not underscore the need for more than the 100,000 police officers, I do not know what does. Here we are, for the first time in American history the Federal Government is paying for local police officers.

Now, I hear some people around the country say, "What a fakery. You are only going to provide 20,000 police officers because you are not paying for the whole thing." Since when was it the responsibility of the Federal Government to pay for the whole thing? Every time we have had a Federal grant program, it would be with a matching grant where we have required 75 percent, 90 percent, or some percentage. Sometime we continued the 90 percent-10 percent relationship for 10 years, 15 years.

In this particular case, we have decided that this is a sufficient national crisis that we want to ask the local communities and the States to accept what is already their responsibility—to put police officers on the street. We did not say we want to put floodlights on the jail, we want to put computers in the station, we want new cruisers on the road. We want to put police officers on the streets of this country because that is what we need to begin to regain and take back control over our communities and our streets.

Mr. President, in recent weeks and months, I have toured a lot of Massachusetts and gone into the communities that, because of our effort, have community policing. I can tell you about Northhampton, MA. I can tell you about Gardner, Saugus, Lynn, about a host of areas, such as Boston and Lowell, where they now have community policing, and where they have been able to put it into effect and literally reclaim the community.

I was in a housing project where you now have community police officers on bicycles who ride around through the entire community, who walk around and play with the kids, who started basketball with the kids. The kids run up to them when they come into the area, instead of running away from them, which is what they used to do. These officers have helped literally to give that community hope.

In Lowell, on Bridge Street in Somerville, as recently as a couple of years ago, druggies and prostitutes had taken over the street. Citizens were afraid to come out of their homes in the street because of the vermin that were in the street. I talked to storeowners who said that as a result of those druggies and prostitutes, their earnings have gone down and people would not come into the store anymore. Lo and behold, with a grant from the Federal Government, we opened a small storefront and police officers went in; they are there all the time. The druggies are gone, the prostitutes are gone, the community has been reclaimed, and it is coming back to life.

Mr. President, in addition to that, the police officers have been able to intervene before crimes are committed. They have been able to get to know people, to know who the troublemaker is, who identify who belongs in the community, to be able to make determinations about who they need to watch more closely, who needs help. By virtue of their intercessions, they have literally directed people into various human service treatment facilities or functions where those people left to their own devices might well have pulled out a knife, a gun, or been one of the people in the statistics that the Senator from Delaware talked about earlier.

So, Mr. President, it works. It is working in America. Countless people have said, "You are not going to put more than 5,000 police on the street within a year. You are not going to put 15,000; you are never going to get to 20,000." Well, more than 25,000 new police officers, additional police officers, are already on the streets. It is because of the effort of this legislation.

So, Mr. President, it is my profound hope that in the next hour, or moments ahead, we will succeed in working out an agreement with the Senator from Texas to be able to put back into this bill the original concept of the community policing.

Block grants work in some cases. I am not against block grants. I have voted for them. But in this particular case, we have tried to target a particular national emergency and need, and we have tried to do it in a way that is administratively inexpensive. In fact, it is less expensive to implement the direct justice grant program of the crime bill with a cost of about 0.8 of a percent administratively than to administer the 2.5- to 3-percent administrative costs that will go with a block grant.

Moreover, under the block grant, there is absolutely no guarantee whatsoever that police officers will get to the street rather than the floodlights to the jails or the new cruisers to the station, or the new computer. And that is not to say those things are not important. It is not to say that people do not have a right to ask for those things and that they do not need them. But when 95 percent of the crime is a local jurisdiction, and the Federal Government is singling out a particular need and the particular emergency, we have a right to expect that that emergency is going to be met. And if one community does not need those police, Mr. President, I guarantee you there are 10 other communities in America that will gladly use the money to put police on the streets and make their citizens safer.

So, again, it is my hope that we will succeed in doing what we have already done, what we voted for in an overwhelmingly bipartisan fashion. I hope that will not be undone in this legislation.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, unless someone suggests otherwise or to the contrary, I believe that the debate on the pending amendment No. 2815 is completed. A rollcall vote has been asked for by Senator BIDEN.

So I ask unanimous consent that the vote occur on amendment No. 2815 at 9 p.m. this evening, and that that amendment be temporarily laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from New Mexico is recognized to offer his amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield to the Senator from Arizona who has an inquiry to make.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be recognized for 10 minutes to propose an amendment, at which time the amendment be set aside for the purposes of the Senator from New Mexico to propose an amendment, and I ask that at least 20 minutes be reserved after the disposition of the amendment of the Senator from New Mexico that 20 minutes be allocated to the Senator from Colorado [Mr. BROWN], and 10 minutes for the Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN].

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2816

(Purpose: To Ensure competitive Bidding for DBS Spectrum)

Mr. MCCAIN. I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

I want to thank my friend from New Mexico for allowing me to propose this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Arizona [Mr. MCCAIN] for himself and Mr. DORGAN, proposes an amendment numbered 2816.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of the Pending Committee Amendment, insert the following new section:

SEC. . COMPETITIVE BIDDING FOR ASSIGNMENT OF DBS LICENSES.

No funds provided in this or any other Act shall be expended to take any action regarding the applications that bear Federal Communications Commission File Numbers DBS-94-11EXT, DBS-94-15ACP, and DBS-94-16MP; Provided further, that funds shall be made available for any action taken by the Federal Communications Commission to use the competitive bidding process prescribed in Section 309(j) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. §309(j)) regarding the disposition of the 27 channels at 110° W.L. orbital location.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be recognized for 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, this amendment, sponsored by Senator DORGAN and myself, would mandate that the FCC auction the one remaining block of DBS spectrum which it holds.

Currently, the FCC is considering how to dispose of the 27 channels at 110° west longitude orbital location. If this spectrum is auctioned, industry experts state that it will sell for between $300 to $700 million. The alternative that is being considered by the FCC would call for the American people to receive much less valuable spectrum and $5 million dollars. Clearly, it is in the best interest of the American people that this spectrum be sold at public auction.

Mr. President, I want to state at the outset I have no interest in any of the companies involved in this issue. None of them to my knowledge is represented in my State. I do know that the company that seeks to acquire this for $5 million is the largest cable company in America.

Mr. President, the spectrum is a finite public resource. It is owned by the American people. And it may prove to be the single most valuable resource held by the public. In recognition of that fact, in 1993, the Congress mandated the first auctions of the spectrum. The still-in-process wireless telecommunications auction has generated a staggering $8 billion dollars and the auctions are only half completed.

This amendment recognizes the value of the spectrum and our duty as people's trustees to handle the spectrum in a manner that most benefits all the American people.

Mr. President, this amendment ensures that the American people benefit from the sale of this spectrum.

The amendment does not choose winners or losers. It does not allow ACC, the corporation that sat on this spectrum for 10 years and did nothing to make a profit.

The amendment does not change the rules in the middle of the game. ACC never owned this spectrum, it received a license under certain terms—terms it never lived up to. The FCC therefore correctly withdrew ACC's license and permission for it to construct a DBS system.

Most importantly for consumers, this amendment will not prevent new service from being offered to the general public, including service to those who live in Alaska and Hawaii. Those living in rural areas are also not adversely effected in any way by this amendment and the I want to note that the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association strongly supports this amendment.

Mr. President, let me lay out the facts surrounding this specific block of spectrum.

In 1984, the FCC divided a segment of the spectrum to be used for the broadcast of direct broadcast satellite [DBS] services. Under the terms of the agreement, spectrum would be allocated to the companies at no charge and in return, the companies would proceed diligently toward the construction of a DBS system.

Of all the spectrum allocated, only 3 blocks of spectrum—located at 101°, 110°, and 119°—cover the entire continental United States. These blocks are known as full-conus blocks and our considered by industry experts to have the highest dollar value.

DirecTV and Echostar were given two of the coast-to-coast U.S. blocks of spectrum.

Advanced Communications Corporation [ACC] was given the third full conus block, which consisted of 16 channels, and was granted approval to begin construction of a DBS satellite service at 110° west longitude. ACC paid nothing for the sole use of this spectrum.

In November 1991, the FCC altered its spectrum allocation scheme and gave ACC at total of 27 channels at 110° W.L., making the block even more valuable.

DirecTV is currently up and running and available to the consumer. Echostar is expected to be operational earlier next year.

During this time, ACC was repeatedly warned by the FCC that it was not acting in compliance with the due diligence standard.

In the summer of 1994, due to congressional mandate, the FCC began the process of auctioning spectrum. The PCS spectrum auction, which is now about half complete, has generated approximately $8 billion for the Treasury and the American people.

On September 16, 1995, ACC entered into an agreement with TCI to sell its spectrum to TCI for $45 million. Such a sale would have meant that ACC would actually have profited from warehousing spectrum for 10 years.

Only 3 months later, in December 1994, ACC applies for a second extension of its construction permit.

The International Bureau of the FCC determined that ACC had not proceeded with due diligence and issued an order on April 26, 1995 that concludes "Advanced [Communications Corporation] must now return the public resources it holds to the public so that these resources can be put to use by others." This decision was based on the fact that up until 3 months before ACC applied for the extension it had done nothing by warehouse the spectrum.

The bureau felt compelled to use a new, tougher definition of due diligence due to the congressional mandate regarding spectrum auctions.

After the International Bureau decision, the full Commission began consideration of a plan to allow TCI to give up some of its allocated DBS spectrum and in return receive the ACC spectrum at a cost of $5 million. This $5 million is to pay for costs incurred by ACC. The spectrum being given up by TCI is valued at a substantially lesser value than the ACC spectrum. TCI would give up 11 channels at 119° and spectrum that allows DBS service to be provided to Latin America, the Pacific rim and China. No industry experts believe at this time that those markets will be nearly as lucrative as the U.S. market. It could be decades if not longer before the spectrum TCI offered up would be worth the value of the full conus U.S. spectrum.

Mr. President, the FCC is at a standstill regarding this issue. It is looking to the Congress for guidance. And I believe it is appropriate for us to let the FCC know that the Senate believes that the spectrum should be disposed in a manner that brings about the greatest amount of benefit to the American people. Adoption of this amendment would ensure such an outcome.

Mr. President, let me clarify, this is not about helping one company or hurting another. It is not about determining winners or losers. It is about protecting the American people's interests. And faced with the staggering debt we have left for our children, we must act in a manner that ensures this spectrum is sold for the highest amount possible.

Further, if this spectrum is auctioned, any company, TCI, Hughes, a telephone company, anyone, can bid for the spectrum. The auction alone will determine who is the winner and loser. Not only is it the right thing to do, but it is the fairest thing.

There will be some issues raised I would like to address quickly.

First and foremost, I have nothing against TCI and have every reason to believe that it operates in an exemplary fashion. I said, this amendment is not about TCI or any other company, it is about protecting the people's interests.

TCI and its subsidiary Primestar have stated that they have spent considerable money on procuring two satellites and for a signal compression facility.

First, TCI chose to purchase these two Space system/Loral DBS satellites in 1990 for use by TEMPO, a cable consortium, for use at TCI's high-power DBS system located at 119° west longitude.

In 1993, TEMPO asked the FCC to modify its DBS system and disclosed that it had granted Primestar an option to acquire the same satellites to enable Primestar to operate with its own DTH system in the fixed service satellite high-power density arc. This is different from where most DBS satellites are located.

At this point the same two satellites had been proposed to be used in two different locations.

Now Primestar distributors are circulating a memo that states that if the ACC deal does not go through, that TCI has other options for satellite deployment.

Mr. President, we must put aside corporate interests and think about what action will best serve the American people. In this case, I think there can be no doubt that the public will benefit most from auctioning this spectrum.

Mr. President, the Citizens Against Government Waste, Consumer Federation of America, the National Taxpayers Union, and the National Rural Telecommunications Cooperative have all sent letters in support of this amendment.

I ask unanimous consent that the letters be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

COUNCIL FOR CITIZENS AGAINST GOVERNMENT WASTE,

Washington, DC, September 20, 1995.

DEAR SENATOR, The Council for Citizens Against Government Waste (CCAGW) and our 600,000 members support H.R. 2076, the Commerce, Justice, State, and the Judiciary Appropriations for FY 1996. CCAGW commends Subcommittee Chairman Phil Gramm and Appropriations Chairman Mark Hatfield for sending to the floor a bill which spends $4.6 billion less than the budget request and $1 billion less than the House version of H.R. 2076.

The $26.5 billion spending bill prioritizes the budgets for each agency under its jurisdiction. For example, the Justice Department receives $15 billion for FY 1996, almost $3 billion more than in FY 1995, to fight our nation's crime problem. But with a nearly $5 trillion national debt, there is always more to cut from spending bills.

CCAGW supports the following amendments:

The McCain amendment to mandate the Federal Communications Commission to auction the one remaining block of Direct Broadcast System spectrum. If this spectrum is auctioned, communication industry experts believe it will sell for between $300 to $700 million. It is in the best interest of the American people that the spectrum be sold at public auction.

The Grams amendment to eliminate the East-West Center and the North/South Center, saving taxpayers $11 million next year.

CCAGW opposes the following amendments:

Any attempt to restore or increase funds to the Legal Services Corporation.

The Inouye amendment to restore funds to the Federal Maritime Administration.

The Bumpers amendment to restore funds for the Small Business Administration.

The Bumpers amendment to restore funds to the Death Penalty Resource Centers.

CCAGW urges you to support these amendments and H.R. 2076. It prioritizes cuts while ensuring that state and local law enforcement agencies are properly funded. CCAGW will consider these votes for inclusion in our 1995 Congressional Ratings.

Sincerely,

THOMAS A. SCHATZ,
President.

CONSUMER FEDERATION OF AMERICA,

September 21, 1995.

Hon. JOHN MCCAIN,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR MCCAIN, we are writing to urge you to oppose an amendment that may be offered to permit the FCC to transfer the Direct Broadcast Satellite (DBS) license currently held by Advanced Communications to the largest cable television company in the world, TCI instead of auctioning it off to the highest bidder. At the present time, we are unsure who will offer this amendment. This amendment would strike a serious blow to the development of competition to the cable monopoly and shortchange the American public by giving away a prime piece of scarce radio spectrum for a fraction of its value.

The cable industry has been claiming for years that DBS presents a serious competitive threat. While cable competition has not yet arrived, DBS is a strong potential competitor to cable. If given the license to use this spectrum. TCI would turn around and lease it to Primestar Partners, a consortium of the nation's largest cable monopolists including TCI. Giving away what is perhaps the single best part of the high powered DBS spectrum to the largest cable monopoly is an entirely wrong-headed policy. It is both anti-competitive and anti-consumer.

This proposed amendment would allow TCI and its cable brethren to essentially jump ahead in line. There are a number of non-cable parties who are interested in providing DBS service to compete with cable that would be foreclosed from using this prime slot because of this "sweetheart" proposal.

In direct contrast, Sens. McCain and Dorgan have circulated an amendment which would auction this valuable spectrum to the highest bidder. This could raised hundreds of millions of dollars for the national treasury and help insure greater competition for cable in the process. It is this competition which will protect consumers.

Don't slam the door to cable competition and don't reach into consumers' pocket to enrich a group of the biggest monopolists in America. We urge you to defeat the amendment to transfer Advanced Communications's DBS license to TCI.

Sincerely,

BRADLEY STILLMAN,
Consumer Federation of America.

NATIONAL TAXPAYERS UNION,

Washington, DC, September 21, 1995.

Hon. JOHN McCAIN,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR McCAIN: The 300,000-member National Taxpayers Union (NTU) supports your amendment to require competitive bidding for awarding the last block of Direct Broadcast Satellite (DBS) spectrum held by the Federal Communications Commission.

National Taxpayers Union has long supported privatization of many public assets. The onset of the Information Age has created an extremely lucrative market for advanced communications, in turn dramatically increasing the potential value of the spectrum remaining under government control.

Given the economic potential of the communications sector, Congress should rely on competitive bidding and other market mechanisms to allocate federally owned spectrum. By providing a competitive auction for DBS spectrum, your amendment will ensure a fair market price for this property, not an arbitrary settlement negotiated by bureaucrats and special interests.

Previous spectrum auctions have benefited taxpayers and have allowed dynamic new businesses to develop their cutting-edge technologies. Charges and counter charges from interested corporations aside, a competitive bidding process is the best solution to establishing ownership at a fair price for this DBS spectrum.

Enactment of your amendment would allow the market to decide the price for this resource. Many members of the 104th Congress have resolved to end business as usual in Washington, and allow market forces to have a greater impact on government policy. They have the perfect opportunity to demonstrate their resolve by supporting your amendment to auction DBS spectrum.

Sincerely,

DAVID KEATING,
Executive Vice President.

THE NATIONAL RURAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS COOPERATIVE,
Herndon, VA, September 14, 1995.

Hon. JOHN McCAIN,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR McCAIN: I am writing to let you know that the National Rural Telecommunications Cooperative (NRTC) and its rural electric and rural telephone system members nationally are alarmed about a pending action by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which would allow the nation's largest cable operators to undermine satellite communications as a true competitor to cable.

Today, NRTC and its rural utility system members are actively providing digital satellite service to more than 200,000 rural consumers living outside of and within cable service areas. Our ability to do so comes through a major investment in Hughes Electronic's DIRECTV which gave us the right to bring digital satellite services to rural Americans.

Today, our rural utility systems provide more than 150 channels of digitally transmitted satellite programming service to consumers who look to them for new services and products. Today, we lease, rent and sell Digital Satellite Systems and we are providing local service and support to a rural subscriber base that grows by more than 1000 new customers a day. And we are doing so in competition currently with PrimeStar and are aware that next year we will have an additional competitor—DBS licensee, EchoStar.

We are very concerned that the FCC will give the PrimeStar partnership, led by majority owner TCI/Tempo, a DBS license that had been "warehoused" by Advanced Communications Corporation (ACC) for 10 years. As we understand, not only will the FCC give the license away, it appears it will do so without opening this unused spectrum to a competitive bidding process. An FCC giveaway of DBS frequencies which are conservatively valued at more than $300 million, will seriously hamper competition inside and outside cabled areas. Further, it will do nothing to decrease the nation's budget deficit while rewarding a company that sat on its DBS license and did nothing to provide service to consumers.

NRTC is in full support of your proposed amendment to H.R. 2076, the Commerce, Justice, State and Judiciary Appropriations bill. It is the proper response to heavy-handed efforts by an entrenched industry interested in controlling competition and free-market access to telecommunications services. NRTC has previously endorsed auctioning all the DBS spectrum involved in this FCC proceeding in a letter to the FCC.

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

BOB PHILLIPS,
Chief Executive Officer.

Mr. McCAIN. Also, interestingly, I have received numerous letters from small cable companies and electric cooperatives all over America.

The Williams Cable Services in Phoenix, AZ; Eastern Illinois Electric Cooperative; the Little OCMUCLG Service in Georgia; Agate Mutual Telephone Co. in Colorado; the Volcano Vision Co. in Pine Grove, CA; Oklahoma Telephone Co., Davenport, OK; Turner Vision in Bluefield, WV; Kansas DBS, Flint Hills Rural Development Corp.; South Alabama Electric Cooperative, Adams Telephone Co., and others who are all in favor of giving the American taxpayers $300 to $700 million and make this a competitive process.

Mr. GRAMM. If the distinguished Senator has time, let me ask a question to be sure I have this. Back when we used to give spectrum away, we gave spectrum to a company that took it on the agreement that they would use it, that they would initiate construction, that they would begin to broadcast on that signal.

The date that they agreed to is now past; is that right?

Mr. McCAIN. Long past, yes.

Mr. GRAMM. Now, having gotten the spectrum free and having gotten it for a specific purpose free, the date by which it had to be utilized is past, and now they are asking permission to sell it for $5 million, if I heard the Senator correctly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 2 additional minutes, if the Senator will so yield?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. So their time for using the spectrum having expired, they are now proposing to sell it for $5 million. But, if I heard the Senator right, if we asserted the right of the taxpayer to have the spectrum back, since the user has not fulfilled its end of the contract, we could sell that spectrum for how much money?

Mr. McCAIN. I would say to my friend, first of all, they were going to sell it to TCI for $45 million instead of $5 million, and they were awarded this license in 1984. Mr. President, 10 years later, in 1994, they had still not done a single thing in order to comply with the purposes of the license, in other words set up a DBS system.

The estimates are between $300 and $700 million would be the price of this spectrum at an auction. There are several major competitors.

The reason why there is such a huge spread, between $300 million and $700 million, is because the amounts we have already received from spectrum auctions have doubled the original estimates that we received from other spectrum auctions.

Mr. GRAMM. So the request is, having not fulfilled their commitment to the taxpayer, they want the right to sell it to somebody for $45 million, when, if we exercised the contract on behalf of the taxpayers and took it back, we would get between $300 and $700 million—million?

Mr. McCAIN. Million.

Mr. GRAMM. Between $300 and $700 million for it. In essence, the Senator's amendment is trying to protect the taxpayer from losing a minimum of a quarter of a billion dollars by simply enforcing our end of the contract?

Mr. McCAIN. I would say to my colleague in response, he is correct. That is why the Citizens Against Government Waste, the Consumer Federation, National Taxpayers Union, and others are all in favor of this amendment, because of the enormous benefit, of $700 million.

Mr. BURNS. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. MCCAIN. My friend from New Mexico was kind enough to yield time to me. I will be reluctant to use over that time because he has an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BENNETT). The time of the Senator from Arizona has expired.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have no objection if they want to use some additional time.

How much time would the Senator like, Senator MCCAIN, another 5 minutes?

Mr. MCCAIN. The Senator from Montana wanted to speak.

Mr. BURNS. I ask unanimous consent I have 1 minute just to ask a question in response, because I think it is important this body understand this.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Senator, I listen to you frequently and you need 2 minutes.

Mr. BURNS. I need 2 minutes?

Mr. DOMENICI. Yes.

Mr. BURNS. I may need more than that. I think it is important for this body to understand that the spectrum has already been reclaimed and is owned now by the FCC. It is available for sale. Is that not correct, I will ask my friend from Arizona?

Mr. MCCAIN. That is correct. But the contract that was entered into 3 months before the license was revoked is still a pending item before the FCC.

Advanced had over 10 years, including one 4-year extension, in which to construct and launch its DBS system. It failed to do so. It failed to meet the Commission's due diligence rules, imposed a decade go to ensure the public received prompt service therefor, if the channels have gone unused. Only by enforcing the progress requirements of the Commission's rules can we ensure that allocated resources will be efficiently and expeditiously put into productive use.

Mr. BURNS. I appreciate that. The only reason I ask the question is I think we should be very sure of our grounds here. Who actually owns that spectrum? Is it still in the hands of the original winner in the lottery? Or is it owned by the FCC? I think that is a question we should ask before we consider this amendment. I am just trying to clarify that.

Mr. MCCAIN. Let me try to clarify it one more time. Because the company did not exercise due diligence over 10 years, the FCC reclaimed it. Now it is up to the FCC as to how they want to dispose of it.

Mr. BURNS. If the Senator is correct, then that clarifies my question. I thank the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. BROWN. Will the Senator from Arizona yield? I ask unanimous consent to have 2 minutes to ask the Senator from Arizona a question.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BROWN. I will ask the Senator from Arizona, he has indicated his amendment will have a positive revenue impact, save millions of dollars. Has the amendment been reviewed by the Congressional Budget Office? And what is their estimate of how much money it raises?

Mr. MCCAIN. It has been scored as zero because it does not change the baseline. But I can tell my friend, it is patently obvious that if a spectrum is going to be auctioned off for somewhere between $300 million and $700 million, there is going to be an impact.

Mr. BROWN. The Senator has indicated—or the literature here indicated these channels may be available for auction. Let me ask, has the Commission made a final ruling as to whether or not these are to be forfeited?

Mr. MCCAIN. The Commission has not and is looking for guidance from the Congress.

Mr. BROWN. I might indicate what my sense of the amendment is. First of all, it does not raise anything because CBO has not looked at it. And, No. 2, it is disposing of property someone else ostensibly has a title to and the FCC has not cleared it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from New Mexico is recognized.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, Senator BROWN is here. I do not know that Senator MCCAIN, accurately, Senator BROWN, described the time you would need. He suggested 10 minutes? Is that 10 for you and 10 for somebody else?

Mr. MCCAIN. I suggested, and I would like to modify it concerning the desires of the Senator from Colorado, 20 minutes for the Senator from Colorado and 10 minutes for the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. GRAMM. My colleague needs to get some time for himself. And 10 minutes for you.

Mr. BROWN. My understanding was the discussion involved some intermittent time so I might become familiar with the needs of the Senator from Arizona. My hope is the distinguished Senator from New Mexico might go ahead. Obviously, I am agreeable to an appropriate amount of time for the Senator from Arizona to respond to whatever is raised on the floor.

The time someone may wish, I would have no problem to work out something.

Mr. DOMENICI. Senator MCCAIN, I assume now from your vantage point from getting this up things are under control and I can proceed? You are all right?

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. MCCAIN. I thank the Senator from New Mexico for his courtesy and patience.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I discussed with the distinguished Senator from Texas, the manager of the bill, and the Senator from New Mexico a unanimous-consent request I would like to offer; that I be allowed to set aside the pending business for 2 minutes, request the yeas and nays, and go back immediately to the business of the distinguished Senator from New Mexico?

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Nebraska.

AMENDMENT NO. 2817

(Purpose: To decrease the amount of funding for Federal Bureau of Investigation construction and increase the amount of funding for the National Information Infrastructure)

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I have an amendment I send to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, has a unanimous-consent request been propounded?

Mr. KERREY. Yes. The Senator from Nebraska asked to have 1 minute to propose an amendment.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, 2 minutes.

Mr. GRAMM. Has that unanimous-consent request been agreed to?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes.

Mr. GRAMM. Parliamentary inquiry. This amendment will be, after he presents it, it will be set aside and be fully debatable at that point, is that right?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. GRAMM. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Nebraska [Mr. KERREY], for himself, Ms. SNOWE, Mr. LEAHY and Mr. LIEBERMAN, proposes an amendment numbered 2817.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill insert the following: "The amounts made available to the Department of Justice in Title I for administration and travel are reduced by $19,200,000."

On page 73, between lines 4 and 5, insert the following:

INFORMATION INFRASTRUCTURE GRANTS

For grants authorized by section 392 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, $18,000,000, to remain available until expended as authorized by section 391 of the Act, as amended: Provided, That not to exceed $900,000 shall be available for program administration and other support activities as authorized by section 391 of the Act including support of the Advisory Council on National Information Infrastructure: Provided further, That of the funds appropriated herein, not to exceed 5 percent may be available for telecommunications research activities for projects related directly to the development of a national information infrastructure: Provided further, That notwithstanding the requirements of section 392(a) and 392(c) of the Act, these funds may be used for the planning and construction of telecommunications networks for the provision of educational, cultural, health care, public information, public safety, or other social services: Provided further, That in reviewing proposals for funding, the Telecommunications and Information and Infrastructure Assistance Program (also known as the National Information Infrastructure Program) shall add to the factors taken into consideration the following: (1) the extent to which the proposed project is consistent with State plans and priorities for the deployment of the telecommunications and information infrastructure and services; and (2) the extent to which the applicant has planned and coordinated the proposed project with other telecommunications and information entities in the State.

Mr. KERREY. The amendment I offer on behalf of myself, Senators LEAHY, and LIEBERMAN, is a very straightforward amendment. It restores $18.9 million to telecommunications and information and infrastructure assistance programs.

This program has been highly successful with thousands of applications for this. It is a matching program to get at least 2 for 1 for every dollar that goes out. It is community-based. Community-based organizations across the country have used this program to increase the educational effort in the telecommunications effort. It has created jobs. It has created real advancement of understanding of how this telecommunications revolution can produce benefits at the local level.

Mr. President, I understand that some of the objections have been raised to this program; talked about it being something that has not proven up. I urge my colleagues to look at not only the success we have but the backlog coming up. We have enjoyed a tremendous success with this program. It is not a program that is just throwing money out there. It is a program that requires a match from the community level. It is a program that empowers citizens at the local level to make decisions about how they want to increase jobs and education in their own communities. It has a fully funded offset.

I hope that my colleagues will consider and support a program that will create jobs, and will create more empowerment for the American people at the local level.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order the Senator from New Mexico is recognized.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, we continue to have some problems in that people are trying to find offsets for their amendments. It takes time to do that, and they discover that others have used the funds available. It should be hard to spend money. So I am not complaining about it. But to try to sort of bring some order to the process, I would like to ask unanimous consent that the distinguished Senator from Colorado, Senator BROWN, be recognized for up to 10 minutes to offer an amendment; after the 10 minutes, that the amendment would be set aside and would be fully subject to debate or any other relevant motions.

Then the Senate would go back to a debate on the McCain amendment until that debate is completed. If a rollcall vote is asked for on the McCain amendment, then it would be stacked after the rollcall vote, currently scheduled for 9 o'clock, is completed. At that point, Senator BIDEN would be recognized to offer his omnibus crime amendment. There would be 2 hours of debate equally divided, which would get us to the 9 o'clock hour, at which point we would have a vote on the pending amendment. If there is a rollcall vote asked—

Mr. MCCAIN. It has already been requested.

Mr. GRAMM. It has already been requested. We would have a vote on the McCain amendment, and at that point the Biden amendment would still be pending, and if the debate is completed, we would have that vote at that point.

I propound that unanimous-consent request.

Mr. HATCH. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. HOLLINGS. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I hope not to object, but to be able to answer the McCain amendment we need a little time, 10 minutes to explain that amendment—if the Senator will put that in the unanimous consent, that we have 10 minutes to explain it.

Mr. INHOFE. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. If I could inquire of the manager, where does that leave the Domenici amendment?

Mr. GRAMM. The Domenici amendment would then be brought up after the votes had occurred beginning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. HATCH. Reserving the right to object.

Mr. DOMENICI. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. HATCH. As I understand it, we were supposed to go after the McCain amendment. Ours would not take a very long time, but I would like to go before we had the 2 hours, if we can. Is it possible to do that, I ask the managers of the bill?

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

Mr. HATCH. Could I just ask that of the manager of the bill?

Mr. DOMENICI. Reserving the right to object, I say to the Senator, I have a few inquiries. It is my amendment being set aside here.

Mr. President, let me ask Senator GRAMM, there is an accommodation we are trying to make. I am now prepared to proceed with my amendment. I told the Senator I had been working on it because it is complicated, and we did get switched signals in terms of the money we had available. But I am prepared now. So I do not want to delay it the longest possible time. I wish to get it up soon. So when would the Senator from Texas be ready to discuss the Domenici amendment? Would the Senator be ready at 8 o'clock?

Mr. GRAMM. I would be perfectly happy to have the Senator bring the amendment up, offer it, lock in his offsets, if he has them, and I think that is a legitimate concern. What I would like to do, given that we had talked about having the debate on the Biden amendment begin at 7, is, if the Senator offers the amendment now, to come back to it.

This is a very important amendment to me. I am strongly opposed to it. And I think it will be something that will be debated at some length. Clearly, the distinguished Senator from New Mexico has the right to the floor under the unanimous-consent request. So if he wants to exercise that now, he can. And perhaps we might look at the following potential unanimous-consent request—that he would bring up the amendment and debate it for up to 20 minutes. Then it would be set aside. Senator BIDEN would be recognized to bring up his omnibus amendment, 2 hours equally divided, and at that point we would have reached the hour of 9 o'clock and we will have the first vote. We at that point could either go back to the McCain amendment and dispose of it or we could go back to the Domenici amendment and debate it. Either of those things I would be agreeable to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I say to the Senator from Texas and Senator HOLLINGS, what I would prefer to do—and I ask a parliamentary inquiry. What is the agreed upon time for a vote tonight?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A vote has been ordered to occur at 9 p.m. tonight.

Mr. DOMENICI. On which amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On the Biden amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. I would be glad to accommodate anybody the chairman wants to accommodate, except I would like him to include in the unanimous-consent agreement that immediately after the first vote on the Biden amendment, that Senator DOMENICI is permitted to offer his amendment; that it be debated in full, whatever time that takes, and that it be voted on immediately following—it be the next vote following the Biden vote. That gives the Senator plenty of time, Mr. President, for what he desires.

Mr. GRAMM. If the distinguished Senator will yield, I have no objection to what the Senator is doing, but it may well be that we might have an extended debate.

Mr. DOMENICI. Sure.

Mr. GRAMM. And we might decide for some reason that we might want to go ahead and consider other amendments intervening.

Mr. DOMENICI. We might do that in due course.

Mr. GRAMM. So I am reluctant to lock us into voting on the Domenici amendment next.

Mr. DOMENICI. I did not ask for that. I said the next amendment we vote on would be the Domenici amendment. The Senator can have some other amendments he wants to bring up. Get unanimous consent for that. I think that is fair. I have been accommodating everyone.

Mr. MCCAIN. Will the Senator from New Mexico agree to have a vote on my amendment following the Biden amendment? The yeas and nays have already been ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. The problem I have is I very much want to debate tonight the Domenici amendment. There are a lot of Senators who want to debate it. Senator GRAMM has a lot of people. I have been accommodating. The Senator's amendment will get voted on very soon but mine would precede that. I just ask that as a request.

Mr. GRAMM. Will the distinguished Senator yield?

Mr. DOMENICI. Of course.

Mr. GRAMM. I would like to get an agreement that allows the distinguished Senator from New Mexico bring up his amendment now, speak on that amendment as long as he chooses to, then Senator BIDEN would be recognized to offer his omnibus amendment, which is a crucial element to the completion of this bill, that there be 2 hours of debate equally divided, that would get us somewhere close to 9. We would have the pending vote. We would have the vote on the Biden amendment. Then the Senator's amendment would be the pending business and we would vote on it. And we would not vote on anything else until we voted on it.

Mr. DOMENICI. Reserving the right to object, Mr. President, all I want to do—I do not want to put my amendment down and debate it for 10 or 15 minutes. Just change the request so that I bring mine up immediately following the Biden amendment, and it is debated as long as necessary and then you have a deal.

Mr. GRAMM. All right.

I ask unanimous consent that the next amendment to be considered be the Biden amendment; that there be 2 hours equally divided on that amendment; that if a vote is ordered on that amendment, it occur immediately after the pending amendment, which will be voted on at 9 o'clock; that the distinguished Senator from New Mexico be recognized at that point to offer his amendment.

Mr. MCCAIN. Reserving the right to object, what does that do to the McCain amendment?

Mr. GRAMM. It will simply be pending and will be the order of business when the Domenici amendment is disposed of.

Mr. DOMENICI. Which is what I thought we had in mind when I permitted the Senator to bring up his amendment. I think that is fair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. MCCAIN. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I permitted the Senator's amendment to come up.

Mr. GRAMM. That is right.

Mr. MCCAIN. And we debated it and all we need to do is have a vote on it, it seems to me.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, that is all right with me. Get him in, too. No more debate.

Mr. MCCAIN. I withdraw my objection.

Mr. DOMENICI. I thank the Senator.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I ask Senator GRAMM, there will be no amendments to the Biden amendment?

Mr. GRAMM. I am not in a position that I can commit to that, I say to the Senator, because we have not checked on our side. We have not seen the final form of the BIDEN amendment. What I am trying to do is just have it considered. I assume there will not be—I assume we have the votes, but we want to look at it.

Mr. HOLLINGS. We cannot agree to the time limit.

Mr. GRAMM. There is not a time. We are just saying it will be debated between 7 and 9, and that if it is completed, that it would be the vote after 9. If it is not, it would be pending.

Mr. HOLLINGS. All right. Get it up.

Mr. BRYAN. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, if I might inquire of the floor managers, I just came to the floor a few moments ago, so I have not heard the colloquy. I want the managers of the bill to know that Senator BURNS and I have an amendment concerning USPTA, and I just want to make sure that the terms of the unanimous consent would not preclude us from having an opportunity to offer that amendment and perhaps have a vote. We do not need to do it this evening. We can go tomorrow. I want to assure my colleague that I am willing to cooperate and work with him. I do not know the terms of the agreement.

Mr. GRAMM. If the Senator will yield, nothing in this unanimous-consent request would in any way limit the Senator's ability to offer his amendment or any other amendment.

Mr. BRYAN. I appreciate that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I say to my friend from Texas, I do not remember the word he used—how did he oppose my amendment? Perfectly? What was the word?

Mr. GRAMM. With righteous passion.

Mr. DOMENICI. I want to say I oppose what he is for in terms of doing away with legal services with whatever passion he just described. So we know it is all even.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas.

Mr. PRYOR. I have a question, Mr. President. And I am sorry, I was not in the Chamber. My question is, Mr. President, has the Senator from Texas propounded a unanimous-consent request and has that request been accepted at this point?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, if I may pose a question, I have an amendment that I would like to offer at some point. It can be done tonight, it can be done early in the morning, or any time. I am joined in that amendment by the distinguished Senator from Maine [Ms. SNOWE]. It would be a sense-of-Congress resolution relative to the Economic Development Administration. I am just wondering at what point or what order we could try to factor this particular amendment into the list?

Mr. GRAMM. If the distinguished Senator from Arkansas will yield—

Mr. PRYOR. I will be glad to yield.

Mr. GRAMM. It sounds to me as if we have a pretty full schedule for the rest of the evening. My guess is that tomorrow morning would be a good time. But it may well be at some time tonight people will decide to get finished, at which point obviously the Senator could offer the amendment.

We are basically set now in terms of unanimous consent on two amendments. One is a fairly comprehensive amendment by Senator BIDEN where we will have 2 hours equally divided. Then we are going to Senator DOMENICI on trying to bring back the Federal Legal Services Corporation, which will be debated, I would think, pretty extensively. We have an amendment pending by the Senator from Arizona. So I cannot tell the Senator that he would not get to offer it tonight, but if I were the Senator, if we are here tomorrow, I would try to do it in the morning.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, if I could respond to my colleague, my friend from Texas, I have no problem offering the amendment tomorrow if I have just as much certainty as possible in the time sequence, because I have three amendments that I must offer in the Finance Committee markup on Medicare-Medicaid, and I am just trying to sort of find out where I should be and which time I should be there.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I am sure that the same is true for Senator HOLLINGS. We would try to accommodate the Senator in every way we can.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Senator.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, as I understand now, in the unanimous-consent agreement, Senator BIDEN will commence at 7 o'clock. To try to save a little time, I was off the floor momentarily at the time of the presentation of the amendment of the Senator from Arizona. The amendment of the Senator from Arizona as he relates it could be very accurate. On the other hand, I have heard different facts.

What occurs here is, as the Senator from Arizona has outlined the amendment, the FCC is asking for guidance. Whenever that occurs, beware, for the simple reason that we have an FCC to have full hearings to hear both sides of a particular case and issue and thereupon make a decision.

I have heard from both sides spasmodically. I have not called the FCC myself. I wanted to stay out of the case. But right to the point, it is my understanding there is sort of a split down there. And there is a definite difference of opinion with respect to due diligence being used on the granting of a particular license to an entity out there, I think, in Arizona.

The Arizona folks, it is related, did use due diligence, and came back twice to the Federal Communications Commission and were granted on both occasions extensions, because what is involved here is a satellite spectrum usage encompassing quite a commitment of financial support.

That commitment of financial support was finally obtained and committed, and there is related $1 billion that has been committed, and there is a launch date for that particular satellite in April of next year.

Now, this is in issue. And as the Commission was temporarily making a ruling, the parties involved appealed that particular ruling. And it is now under appeal. So what happens is that the case comes to the Congress, and some of us Senators on the Commerce Committee who are interested, of course, and disposed to Federal Communications matters, but without any hearing, and without knowing what is best to be done, I have always come down, because this occurs every time we get up to a particular bill or something, somebody brings up a fix, if you please, Mr. President, of a case down at the FCC.

I have been very cautious and astute not to join in those particular fixes. Specifically, I was asked if I could go along with an amendment that would do as is indicated by Senator MCCAIN. And I said no. I think we ought to leave it with the Commission.

Thereupon, I was asked if I would go along with an amendment on the other side. Go along with it and allow them to set fees and whatever it was. I said no. We are not giving authority for the FCC to become more or less a Congress setting fees. And I withheld my approval of that.

I said I simply think, under the circumstances, that it is best that the Congress not be involved in a half-of-a-hair-cut situation here whereby we have not had a single hearing.

The Chairman of the Commission has not asked my guidance. If somebody says they are asking guidance, I do not have any written letters or anything else like that on this particular matter. Therefore, I am opposed to the amendment. I want to talk it out with the distinguished Senator from Arizona. I know his intent is sincere. But I think this is the kind of amendment that ought to be tabled.

I only state this to use up some of the time. I see others want to use some time prior to 7, but I wanted to say that I am sorry I could not respond at the particular time that the Senator from Arizona presented his amendment. I left the floor with the understanding that the Senator from New Mexico was going to present his.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SIMON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

U.N. PEACEKEEPING

Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I am pleased with the negotiations that have taken place with Senator HOLLINGS, Senator HATFIELD, Senator BIDEN, Senator GRAMM, and others. They have improved this bill.

Let me add one concern I do have. This bill authorizes $250 million for U.N. peacekeeping. The request from the President was $445 million. The House figure—in most areas the House is, frankly, worse than the Senate—the House figure is $425 million. Again, our figure is $250 million. The authorization figure from the Foreign Relations Committee, chaired by Senator HELMS, is $445 million—and we have $250 million here. This is on top of what we have been doing to not pay our dues in the United Nations. We are the No. 1 deadbeat in the world.

Yesterday morning's New York Times has a story "To Pay Some Debts, U.N. Will Try Borrowing From World Bank." We owe $1.2 billion to the United Nations. They would not have to be going to the World Bank if we paid our bills.

I ask unanimous consent to have that article printed in the RECORD at this point, Mr. President.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the New York Times, Sept. 27, 1995]

TO PAY SOME DEBTS, U.N. WILL TRY BORROWING FROM WORLD BANK

(By Barbara Crossette)

UNITED NATIONS, Sept. 26.—The United Nations, facing its most severe financial crisis in half a century, will try for the first time to borrow money from the World Bank to pay some of its debts, the organization's highest-ranking financial officer said today.

Joseph Connor, a former chief executive of Price Waterhouse who is now United Nations

Under Secretary General for Administration and Management, said today that a World Bank loan was only one of many ideas being explored "to lift from our shoulders the burden of debt."

Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali said in an interview on Saturday that he planned to meet the World Bank president, James D. Wolfensohn, this weekend to discuss the proposal.

In the past, the United Nations has borrowed small amounts for specific development projects, Mr. Connor said, but there is no precedent for a loan of this kind, which would go to paying off some of the organization's growing general indebtedness.

"This crisis cannot be solved unless we can borrow money," the Secretary General said.

The United States, which is at least $1.2 billion in arrears in its dues to the United Nations, is expected to challenge the plan, an American diplomat said.

The American opposition to any new idea for raising money surprised diplomats from Europe and elsewhere, whose governments pay their bills regularly. A Western diplomat said today that with the United States the largest defaulter in assessments, it seemed inexplicable that the Clinton Administration would make things worse behind the scenes.

An American diplomat said today that the Administration had "two basic problems" with the loan plan.

"The United Nations and the Secretary General have no authority to borrow externally," the diplomat said. "And borrowing from the World Bank is restricted to sovereign governments."

The World Bank is technically part of the United Nations system, although the bank and the International Monetary Fund, both based in Washington, operate with considerable independence.

The United Nations, which has no capital base and cannot borrow commercially, is owed $3.4 billion in unpaid assessments, of which the United States owes roughly half.

The organization is $900 million in arrears in payments to countries that have provided peacekeeping troops and $400 million for purchases of various kinds. Half of the tens of millions of dollars awarded in contracts each year go to American companies.

"Our inability to pay is impacting the willingness of countries to participate in peacekeeping," Mr. Connor said. The operation in Bosnia alone is costing nearly $5 million daily, according to the Secretary General.

In a speech today to the General Assembly, the British Foreign Secretary, Malcolm Rifkind, proposed charging interest on late payments as one way of tightening penalties against member nations in arrears. He said 39 nations failed to pay anything at all last year.

In June at the meeting of the Group of Seven major industrial nations, Mr. Boutros-Ghali proposed that the United Nations would take bonds from nations owing money and use them to settle debts with other member countries. That idea was also opposed by the United States.

Mr. Connor said today that the bulk of the money owed by the United Nations for peacekeeping is in debts to Western European nations, Australia, Canada and other countries close to the United States.

Mr. SIMON. Then I would like to insert two other things into the RECORD. One is a statement by the Council for a Livable World, whose good work I think many of us acknowledge. This is a statement in support of U.N. peace operations, signed by a great many people. I ask unanimous consent that that be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

STATEMENT IN SUPPORT OF U.N. PEACE OPERATIONS

The United Nations is playing an increasingly critical role in preventing and resolving conflicts that have broken out across the globe. We welcome this expanded mission envisioned in the original U.N. charter but impeded by the Cold War. While the U.N. has not proved a panacea, it has achieved remarkable successes in countries such as Namibia, in El Salvador and in Cambodia.

International peacekeeping is not an altruistic endeavor; it directly serves U.S. security, political and commercial interests. As U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Madeleine Albright has stated: "Whether measured in arms proliferation, refugees on our shores, the destabilization of allies, or loss of exports, jobs or investments, the cost of runaway regional conflicts sooner or later comes home to America. In 1993, the U.N. will spend over $3 billion to stem or stop those conflicts, and we will pay one third of that. But without the U.N., both the costs and the conflict would be far greater."

However, the fate of peace operations hangs in the balance, in part due to crippling funding shortfalls and decreasing national political support for the United Nations as it seeks to reform and to meet new challenges. Although the U.N. is often a first line of crisis response overseas, the United States and other nations consistently fall behind in paying dues and peacekeeping assessments. These overdue bills serve to cripple the U.N.'s ability to respond rapidly to crises and implement needed reforms. In addition, Congressional critics have singled out U.N. peace operations as a vehicle for expressing their dissatisfaction with broader issues, from the defense budget and military readiness to U.S. interests abroad, and have sought to curtail already limited participation of U.S. armed forces in U.N. peace operations.

We endorse multilateral, burden-sharing approaches to preventing and resolving conflicts. In particular, we support strengthening the United Nations' ability to conduct peace operations. To encourage these approaches, we strongly urge the U.S. and all nations to pay on time their dues and peacekeeping assessments, and to pay all their arrearages to the United Nations. The United States must avoid the costs and dangers of a unilateral role as world policeman.

A policy that provides only weak financial and political support for peacekeeping jeopardizes the United Nations' long-term future. If the U.N. is not given the resources and encouragement to improve its capabilities, confidence in it will be undermined. The world community will have sacrificed the chance to establish a truly effective multilateral peacekeeping process, with emphasis on conflict prevention. The world will become more dangerous, to the detriment of our own security.

We should take advantage of the post-Cold War situation and apply the lessons of peacekeeping from the past several years to reform and expand U.N. peace operations and make them more effective. Peace operations, which give the U.S. an opportunity to help in reducing the worldwide level of armed violence with minimum risk and cost, are squarely in our national interest.

FINANCING THE UNITED NATIONS

The greatest threat today to the U.N.'s effectiveness and even survival is the cancer of financial insolvency. Countries slow to pay their share include many that are small. But it is the massive delinquencies of the United States that have plunged the Organization into chronic crisis and sapped its capacity to respond to emergencies and new needs.

The services provided by international organizations are, objectively, quite cheap—especially in comparison with the sums we spend on other dimensions of national security, such as the military, as backup in the event that diplomacy and the U.N. machinery fail. The annual U.S. assessments for peacekeeping worldwide are less than the police budget for the nation's largest city. Total American contributions, voluntary as well as obligatory, for all agencies of the U.N. system amount to $7 per capita (compared to some $1,000 per capita for the Defense Department).

Some object that U.N. peacekeeping costs have exploded over the past decade, from a U.S. share of $53 million in 1985 to $1.08 billion projected for 1995. But the end of the Cold War that sparked that increase, by freeing the U.N. to be an effective agent of conflict management, also allowed for far larger reductions in other U.S. security spending: Over the same decade, Pentagon budgets have fallen $34 billion. Increased reliance on U.N. collective security operations necessarily complements our defense savings. Moreover, U.N. costs are spread among all member states, and constitute a truly cost-effective bargain for all.

However, at a time of hard budget choices, many national politicians see U.N. contributions as an easy target. They are misguided. In asserting that national parliaments can unilaterally set their nations' assessment levels, claim offsets from assessed obligations for voluntary peacekeeping contributions, and impose policy conditions for payment of their agreed share of expenses, some Washington politicians jeopardize the institutional underpinnings of the world community. No multilateral organization—whether the U.N., the World Bank, or NATO—can long survive if member states play by such rules.

In ratifying the U.N. Charter, every member state assented in law to the financial obligations of U.N. membership. Virtually all of America's allies in the industrialized world fulfill those obligations to the United Nations—in full, on time, and without conditions. Until relatively recently, so did the United States. It must do so again.

America's leaders must recommit this nation to full and timely payment of assessed contributions to the U.N. and related organizations, including prompt retirement of arrears accumulated over the past decade. Financial unreliability leaves our institutions of common purpose vulnerable and inefficient. We must sustain—and, where needed, increase—our voluntary financial support of the U.N. system's many vital activities in the economic and social fields as well as peace and security. We should press for assessment scales that fairly reflect nations' relative capacity to pay, and explore other means, including minimal fees on international transactions of appropriate types, to ensure that funds to pay for the U.N. system budgets that member states approve do, in fact, materialize.

AMERICA'S STAKE IN THE UNITED NATIONS

Fifty years ago we, the people of the United States, joined in common purpose and shared commitment with the people of 50 other nations. The most catastrophic war in history had convinced nations that no country could any longer be safe and secure in isolation. From this realization was born the United Nations—the idea of a genuine world community and a framework for solving human problems that transcend national boundaries. Since then, technology and economics have transformed “world community” from a phrase to a fact, and if the World War II generation had not already established the U.N. system, today's would have to create it.

The founders of the United Nations were clairvoyant in many ways. The Charter anticipated decolonization; called for “respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion”; and set up the institutional framework “for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all peoples.” In meeting the Charter's challenges, we make for a more secure and prosperous world.

Through the U.N. system, many serious conflicts have been contained or concluded. Diseases have been controlled or eradicated, children immunized, refugees protected and fed. Nations have set standards on issues of common concern—ranging from human rights to environmental survival to radio frequencies. Collective action has also furthered particular U.S. government interests, such as averting a widening war in the Middle East into which Washington might otherwise be drawn. After half a century, the U.N. remains a unique investment yielding multiple dividends for Americans and others alike.

The U.N.'s mandate to preserve peace and security was long hobbled by the Cold War, whose end has allowed the institutions of global security to spring to life. The five permanent members of the Security Council now meet and function as a cohesive group, and what the Council has lost in rhetorical drama it has more than gained in forging common policies. Starting with the Reagan Administration's effort to marshal the Security Council to help bring an end to the Iran-Iraq war in 1988, every U.S. administration has turned to the U.N. for collective action to help maintain or restore peace. Common policy may not always result in success, but neither does unilateral policy—and, unlike unilateral intervention, it spreads costs and risks widely and may help avoid policy disasters.

Paradoxically, the end of the Cold War has also given rise in the U.S. to a resurgent isolationism, along with calls for unilateral, go-it-alone policies. Developments in many places that once would have stirred alarm are now viewed with indifference. When they do excite American political interest, the impulse is often to respond unilaterally in the conviction that only Washington can do the job and do it right. Without a Soviet threat, some Americans imagine we can renounce "foreign entanglements." Growing hostility to U.N. peacekeeping in some political circles reflects, in large measure, the shortsighted idea that America has little at stake in the maintenance of a peaceful world. In some quarters, resentment smolders at any hint of reciprocal obligations, but in a country founded on the rule of law, the notion that law should rule among nations ought not to be controversial.

The political impulse to go it alone surges at precisely the moment when nations have become deeply interconnected. The need for international teamwork has never been clearer. Goods, capital, news, entertainment, and ideas flow across national borders with astonishing speed. So do refugees, diseases, drugs, environmental degradation, terrorists, and currency crashes.

The institutions of the U.N. system are not perfect, but they remain our best tools for concerted international action. Just as Americans often seek to reform our own government, we must press for improvement of the U.N. system. Fragmented and of limited power, prone to political paralysis, bureaucratic torpor, and opaque accountability, the U.N. system requires reform—but not wrecking. Governments and citizens must press for changes that improve agencies' efficiency, enhance their responsiveness, and make them accountable to the world's publics they were created to serve. Our world institutions can only be strengthened with the informed engagement of national leaders, press, and the public at large.

The American people have not lost their commitment to the United Nations and to the rule of law. They reaffirm it consistently, whether in opinion surveys or UNICEF campaigns. Recognizing the public's sentiment, the foes of America's U.N. commitment—unilateralists, isolationists, or whatever—do not call openly for rejecting the U.N. as they had earlier rejected outright the League of Nations. But the systematic paring back of our commitment to international law and participation in institutions would have the same effect.

In this 50th anniversary year, America's leaders should rededicate the nation to the promise of a more peaceful and prosperous world contained in the U.N. Charter. In that spirit, the United Nations Association of the United States calls on the people and government of the United States, and those of all other U.N. member states, to join in strengthening the United Nations system for the 21st century.

In particular, we call for action in five areas, which will be the top policy priorities of UNA-USA as we enter the U.N.'s second half-century: Reliable financing of the United Nations system; strong and effective U.N. machinery to help keep the peace; promotion of broad-based and sustainable world economic growth; vigorous defense of human rights and protection of displaced populations; control, reduction, or elimination of highly destructive weaponry.

Mr. SIMON. And then the next is a letter, a policy statement by the United Nations Association of the United States of America, sent to me—I am sure to all Members of the Senate—by the former Deputy Secretary of State John Whitehead, who many of us had a chance to know and respect a great deal. He was the Deputy Secretary of State under Jim Baker. I ask unanimous consent that his fine statement be printed in the RECORD at this point.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

UNITED NATIONS ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
July 26, 1995.

Hon. PAUL SIMON,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR SIMON: I am writing to share with you a policy statement of the United Nations Association of the United States (UNA-USA) on the U.S. stake in the United Nations and U.N. financing, adopted in late June by UNA-USA's national convention on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations Charter.

It is a serious yet succinct statement on an issue of considerable importance, with major implications for the Congress. We hope you will find it of interest. UNA-USA is eager to make a constructive contribution to the policy debate.

We should be pleased to share any reactions with UNA-USA's 25,000 members.

Sincerely,

JOHN C. WHITEHEAD,
Chairman of the Association.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I am not offering an amendment on this because, real candidly, I know what the results would be. But I hope that in conference my colleagues will keep in mind that even the House, conservative as they are, put in $425 million for U.N. peacekeeping compared to our $250 million. I hope we will go to the House figure on this.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to set aside the pending amendments, without any invasion or impingement upon the time agreements attendant to those amendments. I will offer an amendment and ask for 20 minutes, to be equally divided between Senators PELL, BUMPERS, and DORGAN, with the understanding that there will still be a vote at 9 p.m.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. FORD. Reserving the right to object, would the Senator withhold?

Mr. HATFIELD. I am happy to withhold.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will continue to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I have sent an amendment to the desk. I withdraw any further request for unanimous-consent request on time. I am just going to utilize the void that exists here on the floor and take up what time I wish.

This amendment, Mr. President, if approved, I think would greatly improve our national security. My amendment, which is identical to a freestanding bill, the code of conduct on arms transfers, would place restrictions on arms transfers to nations which pose potential threats to the United States or to our allies.

I do not want to go into my long drawn-out speech reciting the very sorry record of this country in being the biggest arms peddler in the world today. Merchants of death is about what you should more accurately title our role in these matters of providing arms to Third World countries that cannot even develop a subsistence agriculture to feed their own people, and using up to 85 percent of their own national budgets to fill their lust for arms that we have infected them with.

At least I think we ought to begin to try to draw some kind of parameters around this come-one-come-all big arms sale today in the United States. Sending out our Secretary of Commerce to hawk arms at the Paris arms show, informing our diplomatic posts around the world that certainly they would help facilitate any arms transfers they can create in their country.

What we are offering here is this amendment to the Justice-State-Commerce appropriations bill on behalf of Senator PELL, Senator DORGAN, Senator BUMPERS, and myself.

I acknowledge that this is not the perfect vehicle for a discussion on the issue of arms transfers. After all, the yearly appropriations process is virtually the only time Congress provides its input on military aid to other countries, and at least some oversight exists in the programs funded by yearly appropriations.

My amendment is very easy to explain. It is very straightforward. The focus of the code of conduct on arms transfers is not what may be sold or transferred to another nation; but rather who should receive U.S. arms. The code of conduct says it is generally not in the interest of the United States to send arms to nations which are undemocratic, or abuse human rights, engage in illegal acts of war, or refuse to participate in the U.N. Registry of Arms. In other words, U.S.-built weapons should not be provided to nations which are a threat to our security.

We have had plenty of history where we have faced our own arms in a battle where they are aimed against our own people. I need not go into a long recitation of that.

Our world is awash in conventional weapons. This is conventional weapon focus. Even as we celebrate another major victory in nuclear arms control, the permanent ratification of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, and come closer to reaching agreement on a permanent ban on underground nuclear testing, we cannot ignore the death and destruction caused by conventional arms. Over 40 million people killed by conventional weapons since World War II. That is a pretty sizable part of the world's population.

More than anything else, we cannot ignore the last four times the United States sent significant numbers of troops to combat. Our soldiers faced adversaries which had received U.S. arms, training, or military assistance. I am talking about Panama, Iraq, Haiti, Somalia.

In other words, our arms transfer policy has backfired, particularly in those instances. It has created the boomerang effect where U.S.-provided weapons are used against our own military. Clearly, a new policy is needed.

The American public has been polled on the question of arms transfers and resoundingly—over 95 percent—said that no U.S. arms should go to dictators. Yet the United States continues to provide arms to nations which are not democratic.

The Clinton administration undertook to review the arms trade policy last year. That process took many months and the announcement was made in February of this year, 1995, that a new policy had been adopted. The truth is there was nothing new about the administration's policy. It represents no real departure from the arms transfer program our Nation has followed for the past 15 years.

We can go back and say this whole idea emanated out of post-World War II France when General de Gaulle needed to try to replenish the military arms arsenal of plans and found the best way to do it was to sell arms to other parts of the world to make money off of them to fill his own arms needs.

If we want to go with the President, President Kennedy in 1961 saw that as a policy and began to launch that policy in this country. So, consequently, we have had Democrat and Republican alike, no change or difference in party labels, that have followed this kind of arms peddling policy.

I think one important and dangerous difference today than previous has been thanks to the new policy that domestic economic considerations now have an important role to play in arms transfer decisions. Apparently we are willing to trade national security away for a few jobs. In other words, domestic production. That is foreign trade.

I think it is very interesting, we used to have a Department in the Defense Department, Department of Munitions. Now we call it the Department of International Defense Trade. Is that not a nice, sweet name for nothing but peddling arms?

This position is terribly out of step with the international movement to curb arm transfers. Last week I received a letter from Nobel laureate Dr. Oscar Arias, the former President of Costa Rica, who informed me that he is organizing a commission of Nobel laureates to develop an international code of conduct on arms transfers to be presented to the U.N. General Assembly.

Dr. Arias has already signed on four additional Nobel laureates in this effort—mind you within this very brief period of time, four more, which is based in part upon the code of conduct I am presenting here on behalf of my colleagues and myself.

In addition, I have heard from members of the European parliament, led by Glenys Kinnock. The efforts are underway to develop a comprehensive arms export control policy to be endorsed by the European Union.

Mr. Kinnock points out in his letter, this is Mr. Glenys Kinnock, that the United States and the nations of the European Union together will sell 80 percent of the world's weapons this year—80 percent.

Clearly, the code of conduct on arms transfers is not a unilateral move which will have only limited effect upon the global flow of arms. This is an international initiative which demands U.S. leadership.

Yet the administration refuses to make this pledge. Under Secretary of State Lynn Davis also testified before the Appropriations Committee on the matter of arms transfers. Secretary Davis told me that she thought that all components of the code of conduct on arms transfers—this bill or this amendment—democracy, human rights, transparency in arms transfers and renunciation of illegal wars—were all acceptable to the administration, and indeed, are all shared goals.

Setting goals is not enough. Non-democratic governments received 85 percent of the $55.2 billion of American weapons that were transferred to developing countries through sales or foreign aid during the past 4 years.

With a record like that, I could not disagree more with the administration's assertion that flexibility is the most important factor in arms transfer policy.

But I nonetheless have, in my amendment, provided a waiver authority, so that the President may come to Congress with a request to provide arms transfers to a nation who does not meet the criteria when it is in the interest of our own national security.

Should dictators be rewarded with weapons? Of course not. Early this past summer the Catholic Bishops of the United States approved unanimously a major statement calling upon the United States to undertake "more serious efforts to control and radically reduce" its role in the arms trade.

Many of you know that I have been a longtime critic of arms sales to the developing world. As I have indicated earlier, too many poorer nations—nations which have inadequate water and food supplies, inadequate education, and inadequate housing—have been caught up on regional arms races or been subjected to the gross military expenditures of despots. For years the United States has led the way in sales to these countries, although I would note that France slipped ahead of us this past year.

Earlier this year I held a hearing on the bill which is the basis for the amendment I offer today. A representative from Human Rights Watch provided testimony to the Appropriations Committee regarding the link between human rights and conventional weapons transfers. The representative reminded the committee that "the fact of arms does not necessarily create abuse" but went on to discuss how the tragic genocide in Rwanda a year ago was worsened by the enormous flow of weapons the year before the massacres. The influx of grenades and automatic weapons—all available cheaply—not only brought on the creation of militia who left tens of thousands of Rwandans dead. The Existence of these weapons also made U.N. efforts to protect refugees extremely difficult.

If we are to prevent future Rwandas and improve international respect for human rights and promote democracy, we need a code of conduct on arms transfers. The United States can and should exert its leadership by stating explicitly that it does not sell arms to dictators.

Mr. President, one closing remark. We have problems today in Bosnia and the Balkans. I stood on this floor 2½ years ago and warned about the flow of arms coming in both directions on the Danube. The Danube River was literally a river full of arms going into that very part of the world, from allies, from friends as well as from people of different kinds of relationships to the United States. These are now coming home to roost.

People say what else can we do but to send troops? What else can we do but to bomb? If we would choke off the supply of arms into that area of the world, we would be saving lives and we would be going to the source of the conflict and the source of the destruction and the source of the violence. But, unfortunately, arms have become too big an economic enterprise in our Western World, particularly in the United States. So it is much easier to call out the troops and send them into trouble spots of the world than to choke off arms to the world. We are now, as I say, one of the largest peddlers of such arms in all parts of the world.

Mr. President, I made my pitch. I want to say I appreciate being able to inject this at this moment. If the time is such that Senator BUMPERS and other cosponsors of this may have a moment to speak, I will hold it in suspension. I am ready to close off and call for a vote. I recognize the ultimate defeat, but nevertheless I feel constrained to make this pitch at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, is the Senator from Oregon waiting now to call for a vote on his amendment or has he yielded the floor?

Mr. HATFIELD. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, tonight we are going to be voting on some amendments that are very significant, and I want to take an opportunity to express some views concerning those amendments. One is going to be offered to refund to its 1995 fiscal year level—I believe it is $415 million—the Legal Services Corporation.

This is a place we should draw the line, go back. In fact, this is one area where the Senate came out with a better proposal than the House came out with. It is my understanding the House suggested reducing the funding to $278 million. The Senate would reduce it down to $210 million and have that block granted out to the States.

I really believe the Legal Services Corporation was conceived as a part of the Great Society program, understandably, perhaps, at the time, to offer legal services to the poor. However, over a period of years it has turned into an agency that is trying to reshape the political and legal and social fabric of America. In fiscal year 1995, the taxpayers spent $415 million to operate the Legal Services Corporation. However, the cost, the $415 million, is only a very small part of it when you consider the extensive class action suits and frivolous litigation that has followed.

There are so many examples that have been given here on the floor, and that I have given myself, concerning the activities of the LSC. The negative effects of the LSC's attempts to reorder society permeate our culture, from the business community to government to homes to churches. Perhaps the most troubling is the role of legal aid in challenging parental involvement statutes, so-called children's rights advocates such as Mrs. Clinton, who served as the chairperson for the LSC's board that challenged parental consent laws in several States. The income level of the litigants was often ignored. It really cannot be used as an argument that it was to provide legal services for the poor.

Parents are attacked in their efforts in keeping drugs out of their homes. In Idaho, the LSC protested when parents voluntarily invited police into their homes to check for drugs. Legal aid asserted privacy rights of the violators, who were teenagers who were on drugs at the time.

We have had Legal Services also involved in illegal immigration. The LSC supported organizations that sued California for its efforts to ascertain residents' immigration status for emergency Medicaid services. Legal Services promised to take this one to the Supreme Court.

Legal Services also contributes to our public housing woes. The LSC tried to prevent the local housing authority from evicting a woman who was dealing in drugs out of her apartment. Despite overwhelming evidence of constant drug-related activity, the LSC lawyers vigorously opposed her eviction on the grounds that she was not aware of what was going on.

The examples go on and on and on. I encourage my colleagues to seriously consider defeating the amendment that will be offered tonight.

There is another one coming up I heard articulated on this floor a moment ago by the Senator from Texas, Senator GRAMM. Although he was talking about his amendment, the Shelby-Inhofe amendment that will be offered later on is an amendment to put work back into our prison system. We have proposed in this amendment that we require work, 48 hours per week, along with education pursuits so individuals can go out when they are once released and work themselves back into society.

I know a lot of people are saying these are not country clubs; our prison system already is punishing criminals. I suggest that, since the 1960's, we have grown in this body to be more concerned about the violators than we have the victims.

The other day, I ran into a notice that was posted in one of the Massachusetts correctional facilities where it stated:

A third softball field will be made in the west field in order to allow more inmates to play softball. The horseshoe pits will be temporarily relocated near the golf course. The bocce [or whatever that is called] area will be relocated at the site of the new gym. The soccer field will be relocated to the east field behind the softball field.

It goes on to say, "We hope that our clients"—they do not call them inmates, do not call them prisoners—"will not be inconvenienced too much."

I think it is time. If there is one mandate that came with the elections of 1994, it was to start to change our prison system, to quit spending the exorbitant amounts, and to get involved in punishment as a deterrent to crime.

I was very proud when we passed our bill through the Senate, after the disaster occurred in the State of Oklahoma, that calls for real habeas reform and, for the first time, in my opinion, reverses the direction of our attitude in terms of crime and punishment.

I yield the floor.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I believe that I have 2 hours allotted to my amendment that will be equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. BIDEN. In fairness to the Senate, I was supposed to be here at 7 o'clock to start that amendment. So I would suggest that—I have checked this with at least the staff of the minority—the time for my amendment be cut to an hour and a half equally divided so that we are finished by 9 o'clock with this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I withhold the request. I will just begin my statement, and then we can work out the time as we go along.

Before Senator INHOFE leaves the floor, I am just curious. That prison notice that he read, I would like to ask my colleague, was that a Federal prison or State prison?

Mr. INHOFE. It is a State prison. However, our amendment addresses not just Federal prisons but prisons that receive Federal funds.

Mr. BIDEN. I thank the Senator. I was just curious. I would point out to him that in the Federal prison system, we stopped fooling around—unlike the State of Oklahoma or the State of Delaware and other States—we stopped fooling around like many who served in the State legislature fool around. We passed an amendment that the Senator from Delaware offered in the late 1970's and early 1980's. It is called "the same time for the same crime." You get convicted in the Federal court, you go to jail for all the time, and I am just sorry the State legislatures are not as we have been and as the Federal Government has been for a long time.

Mr. INHOFE. If I could respond, we have been fooling around in some States. That is what this is all about, to try to get some uniformity. And any time you have a murderer like Roger Dale Stafford, who sat on death row for 15 years after murdering nine Oklahomans in cold blood, it is time that we changed our attitude toward crime and punishment in this country.

I would suggest—and I think perhaps the Senator from Delaware would agree—that when someone is contemplating a crime, and if he thinks the downside is going to be sitting on death row watching TV in an air-conditioned cell for 17 years, that is not much of a deterrent. And that is what I would like to change.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I agree with the Senator. Maybe he could make that very compelling speech to Mr. GINGRICH so we can actually pass the terrorism bill instead of him holding the terrorism bill up that we—the Senator from Oklahoma and I—worked so hard on. The House has not passed it yet. It is a great emergency.

I have not heard any speeches on the floor from my friends who were decrying failure to move quickly on the terrorism bill when we had it. I have not heard any speeches about why the Republican House of Representatives is holding it hostage. God only knows. Maybe it has to do with a line-item veto that they used to be for as well in the House. I am not sure. But I think we would all serve the Nation well if we constantly spoke out and asked Mr. GINGRICH to let the terrorism bill go instead of turning that into a habeas corpus reform. I would hate to have that sit over there for the remainder of the year.

Mr. INHOFE. I will respond that I have talked to Mr. GINGRICH, and he is very anxious to get to that. However, I think we are all aware that we have some appropriations bills to get out of the way. And, in the order of things, I am sure it will be expedited.

Mr. BIDEN. I am happy to hear that. But he had the bill for months and months before we started the appropriations process.

I do not stand for that reason. I rise to speak to an amendment that I have. Let me very briefly describe it before I send it to up to the desk.

Mr. President, the crime bill—which we passed, and is now the crime law—was in many ways authorized in this appropriations bill. My good friend from Texas, Senator GRAMM, for whom I have great respect and I have never underestimated his abilities, was very effectively able to, in the appropriations process, essentially change the authorization process by dealing with a number of the provisions in the crime laws that are in place and functioning.

What this amendment essentially attempts to do is go back and undo—whether the Senate will agree is a different story—essentially what was done in the subcommittee on appropriations. I am not speaking to each part of the amendment, but I will give you the major points.

One, it reinstates money for the drug courts. The Appropriations Committee eliminated the funding for drug courts, something that we passed a year ago into law and is now law.

Second, it eliminates money for drug treatment in prisons. I might note for those who might think that is sort of a silly, soft-headed notion that the States in the United States of America in the year 1993, after releasing prisoners from the jail—prisoners who had served their time in the State penitentiary—as they walked out the gate from a State penitentiary with the clothes they wore in and a bus ticket and five bucks in their pocket, 200,000 of them in one year walked out of that penitentiary drug addicted, drug addicted, addicted to drugs after having served their time as they walked through the portal.

So what all the evidence shows is that drug treatment in prisons is as effective as drug treatment out of prison, and it makes a big difference because you have 154 crimes a year committed by a drug-addicted person. If you have 200,000 people, after having walked out of jail, still drug addicted as they walk out the gate, we have a problem. But unfortunately, the meager amount of money that was in the crime bill, in the crime trust fund, which should have been spent and would have been spent in this upcoming year, that also was zeroed out.

In addition, there was in the crime law a provision that a vast majority of my colleagues, Democrats and Republicans, supported when we debated the crime bill 2 years ago, and that was rural drug enforcement grants. I have spent a lot of time with the Presiding Officer, my colleague from Utah. And, as a consequence, I do not pretend to know the State of Utah, but I have become much more familiar with it. I need not tell the Presiding Officer that drug trafficking in methamphetamine with the gangs from Los Angeles moving into rural Utah, drive-by shootings occurring in Salt Lake City that never occurred before, the influx into the large intermountain States of drug deals, drug cartels, and drug organizations primarily dealing in synthetic drugs and methamphetamine—all of them have put an incredible burden on all of those things and have put an incredible burden on the rural law enforcement agencies in the small towns in the State of Utah, in New Hampshire and in Delaware.

I mentioned those States because the three Senators representing those States are on the floor. We represent States where the vast majority of their cities are very small. The largest city in the State of Delaware is 85,000 people.

Now, I realize Utah is larger than that, and I think Manchester, NH, is larger than that. But the point is, we do not have that many big metropolises. We have tens, scores of small, little towns of one sheriff or one police officer or two or three. And what every rural law enforcement agency said to us when we were writing this bill was that we need help, particularly we need help in the area of dealing with drug enforcement problems, because the problems that are visited upon those small towns are not just the kids selling marijuana in the schoolyard; the real problems that have occurred in the last 10 years is these drug organizations move into those small towns, or they move into the outskirts of those small towns that in effect are incapable of being dealt with across State borders by small, rural law enforcement agencies.

Unfortunately, the subcommittee on appropriations saw fit to zero out that function as well. I attempt in this amendment to restore that money.

In addition, I also restore another thing that was cut totally, and that is the Law Enforcement Family Support Act.

Now, most people do not know what that is, but a number of us have participated, and I expect my colleagues on the floor tonight will participate in the ceremonies that take place at the law enforcement memorial once a year, where almost every year the President speaks, whether it be President Bush or President Clinton, and where we deal with and hail the slain officers and the families of officers slain in that calendar year who come to Washington. And they come to Washington to be recognized and to recognize the contributions of their spouses, mothers or fathers, brothers or sisters.

A very important part of that, as those of you who have attended may know, is that when that ceremony is over out in The Mall, there are 2 days set up of counseling for the families, the families that come from all across America, that come from Idaho, Utah, Montana, Maine, Florida.

You speak to the families of those slain officers, and they will tell you this counseling that they get as to how to deal with this and being able to deal with other families who have been through it is one of the most helpful things that happens to them. It matters to them.

What this $1.2 million we cut does is to provide that very counseling. So I hope when my colleagues vote on this amendment, they will remember that next year when they are invited down to the law enforcement memorial ceremony and they see and, God forbid, it will occur we know, another 25, 50, 100 families down there where officers have been slain in the calendar year doing their duty, we will realize that in failing to put this money back in the thing that those families valued the most will in fact not be available to them because they literally leave there, go to a luncheon and get on buses to take advantage of these counseling services. So I attempt to restore the $1.2 million in the Law Enforcement Family Support Act that was taken out by the committee.

It also restores—no new money, no change in money—the State option that is presently available under the crime law, under the prison grant portion, to allow States to use their prison dollars to build boot camps if they choose to do it. The argument that we heard on the floor, Democrats and Republicans, for the past year is that we want to allow more local control. We do not want the Federal Government telling people what they should do.

We passed, with my support and the overwhelming support of the people in this body on both sides of the aisle, the mandate legislation saying we should not be mandating to the States what they must do without sending the money. But implicit in that is we have also said as a matter of policy that we do not know federally, we have acknowledged we do not know federally as much about the specific needs of the States and the localities as the States and localities know.

So I find it curious that my colleagues, at least the majority on the appropriations subcommittee, decided to tell the States they do not have the option to build boot camps. I do not quite understand that. Everybody stood on this floor and talked about how valuable and important boot camps are. But the language that I have in this amendment—and I will go back to this in a moment—restores the State option. No requirement, no State has to build a single, solitary boot camp. They can all go build maximum security prisons. They can do whatever they want to do with the money as it relates to prisons. But they should have the option of being able to build a boot camp, as my State has decided. And there are several other changes that this amendment contains for the purpose of making sure that we in effect put the crime law back together.

This amendment is supported, I might add, by I believe every single major police organization in the country. The legislation relating to law enforcement and family support is specifically supported by the National Association of Police Organizations.

As I said, everyone may remember a year and a half ago there were a rash of police suicides across the country including what personal toll was taken on America's law enforcement officers and their families as a consequence of them being shot or wounded or killed. This amendment on the Family Support Act helps deal with that.

So let me speak a little more specifically to each of the general areas that I try to restore. Again, $100 million for drug courts, $20 million—and by the way, we authorized $150 million.

I should point out one other thing. We are dealing with moneys from a trust fund. These are not any new taxes. What we all decided to do under the leadership of Senator GRAMM of Texas and Senator BYRD of West Virginia, when the crime law was being debated a year and a half ago, was to say, look, why not make sure this is not funny money. Why not make sure we can pay for what we say we want to do. I wholeheartedly agreed.

And under the leadership of Senator BYRD, with the strong concurrence of Senator GRAMM of Texas—and quite frankly, with the ingenuity of John Hilley, who was then the administrative assistant for Senator MITCHELL—they came up with a unique idea. Never before, to the best of my knowledge, did the Senate ever set up a trust fund for law enforcement. And the way that was funded, the Senator from Texas [Mr. GRAMM], insisted that the commitment that we made to reduce the Federal work force by 272,000 people over a 5-year period be written into the law. It had not been legislated before.

And so, as a part of the crime bill we legislated, the President would have to reduce the present work force by 272,000 people. OMB calculated how much the revenue that was now being paid out of the Treasury to pay those folks' salaries would be. And we agreed that as that attrition took place—and we have cut now by 170,000 some Federal employees. We have done that. That is real. That has been done. Their paychecks would go into this trust fund and that from the trust fund the funding for the crime bill would come.

Now, someone could have argued legitimately that when I say, "No new taxes," they say, "BIDEN, you could have taken those savings from the reduction of the Federal work force and you could have lowered the deficit or lowered taxes." That is true. We could have done that. But the majority of us—and I for one strongly felt it was a higher priority to fight crime in America and give localities the resources to do that.

So I want to make it clear what we are talking about here is trust fund moneys. So what I do in this amendment is I reinstate $100 million of the $150 million for drug courts, $27 million for drug treatment in prison, $10 million for rural drug enforcement, and $1.2 million for the Law Enforcement Family Support Act, and then change other language—no reallocation of funds for making sure that States have the option dealing with being able to use prison money to build boot camps.

Now, let me speak to what I think the single most important piece of this amendment is, first, in more detail, and that is the drug courts. The Federal Government has long focused on the fight against illegal drugs, but few of its efforts have shown the promise already demonstrated by drug courts. The key to the drug court program is to punish and control offenders in the most efficient way possible.

In fact, it is precisely because of the success of the drug courts seen in model States, that I worked with the Attorney General to include the Federal support for drug courts in the 1994 crime bill signed into law a year ago.

Drug courts represent an innovation in how our criminal justice system deals with low-level, first-time drug offenders. Throughout the Nation non-violent drug offenders are simply released back into society with no punishment, no treatment, no supervision. Nationwide, the most recent estimates are that 600,000 such offenders are on the streets; 600,000 people convicted of abusing drugs and committing crimes sent back out into the streets with no reason not to return to more drugs and more crime and with no punishment, no treatment, and no supervision—1.4 million of these nonviolent drug offenders are convicted every year, and 600,000 of them get absolutely no treatment, no supervision, no punishment.

Now, let me tell you how the drug courts work. The drug courts work so that what happens is the States, with the money provided by the Federal Government as seed money, this $100 million, set up drug courts where they take these first-time, nonviolent offenders into the court. They adjudicate their cases very rapidly, usually within 30 days. They then sentence that offender to something, including all of the following:

First, if they are in school they must stay in school.

Second, if they have a job they must keep a job.

Third, they must be subject to random drug testing.

Fourth, they actually must report two times a week to a probation officer and a counselor.

Fifth, they are required to enlist in drug treatment and stay in drug treatment.

If they violate any of those things, they go straight to jail. They do not pass go—straight to jail. In Dade County, FL, which, unfortunately, probably has more experience with drug trafficking and illegal drug use than any other county in America, it was put into effect several years ago.

The rearrest rate prior to the institution of drug courts was about 34 percent. Thirty-four percent of all the people who were convicted the first time of a nonviolent drug offense ended up rearrested and reconvicted and back before the courts. When the drug court program was put in place—and it has been there now about 5 years, I believe, maybe a little longer—the rearrest rate dropped to around 3 percent—3 percent.

I can say to the Presiding Officer and others who are listening that in my State, the State of Delaware, a Republican attorney general named Richard Gebelein became a superior court judge and set up a drug court system like this—strict, strict, strict rules for non-violent offenders once they are convicted, requirements of treatment, requirements of public service, requirements of random drug testing, requirements relating to keeping a job, very strict requirements. They were literally required to sign a contract. And when they violate any of those provisions, they go to jail. It is amazing what an incentive it is. It is amazing what an incentive it is.

In my State they are going to be going to boot camps because boot camps cost 40 percent less to run than the prison system does, than building bricks and mortar. So they work. I say to my friend from Utah and others who are here, they work. And, unfortunately, I know in the interest of trying to find money for other purposes in the bill, they were zeroed out. So what I do in this legislation is I restore $100 million of the $140 million that has been authorized.

Again, drug courts combine a carrot of drug treatment and the helping hand with a stick of mandatory drug testing and the gavel of a judge that says you go back to prison if, in fact, you violate any of the provisions.

For example, as of about 1 month ago, the Delaware drug court had worked on 481 offenders in my small State in what it calls its track one program. That is, 143 of these 481 people had completed the program and were on their way to being productive citizens; 80 were, to use the Delaware judge's phrase, "terminated." In other words, they were sent back to jail. And the remaining 258 are presently working their way through the program.

But an interesting thing, I say to the Presiding Officer. Guess what? Of those 481 people who were in the system, committing an average of 154 crimes a year, the crime rate has gone down precipitously among those people. And those who could not stay in the system were, to use the phrase of the former attorney general—now judge—Gebelein, they were terminated. They were sent to jail.

Absent the drug court system around the country, what happens now is they never get any treatment, they never get any punishment, they never get sent to jail; 600,000 of them a year are out there walking around after having been convicted.

So I say to my friends, as they look at this, ask their judges in their home

State, ask their probation officers, ask their police officers, ask their prison officials, and I can tell you, they will find almost without exception that the drug court innovation is viewed as one of the best hopes law enforcement has to deal with what is ultimately the problem. And to paraphrase a phrase used in a Presidential campaign last time around, "It's drugs, stupid. It's drugs." Crime is drugs. "It's drugs, stupid. It's drugs."

Now, on the point of drug treatment in prisons, I will again merely make the point that it works. Last week the Department of Health and Human Services released preliminary estimates from the 1994 national household survey on drug abuse. And its report is alarming.

The survey found that among youth age 12 to 17, the rate of illicit drug use increased between 1993 and 1994 from 6.6 percent to 9.5 percent. In the past year, nearly 10 percent of our youth were using illicit drugs. Marijuana use among 12- to 17-year-olds has nearly doubled from 1992 to 1994.

Perhaps even more frightening than the upsurge in use trends is the increase in the perceived availability of illicit drugs, substances in all age groups. The percentage of youth reporting that marijuana was easy to obtain increased by over 10 percent. Fifty-nine percent of the young people in America said marijuana is easy to obtain and they know how to get it. There was an increase in the perceived availability of LSD, PCP's, and heroin for all age groups.

The percentage of people age 35 and older who claim that cocaine was easily obtainable increased from 36 to 41 percent. Clearly, despite the progress we made in drug abuse prevention and treatment and law enforcement, there is still a great deal more to be done. And things are moving the wrong way.

Given the need for more and greater efforts in the war on drugs and given their call for a strong stand on the drug issue, I cannot understand why my colleagues in this body employ the decision to abandon the key antidrug initiative in the 1994 crime law. Specifically, I would like to mention the three programs they have eliminated. One I have spoke to—the drug courts; second is drug treatment in State prisons; and the third is rural drug enforcement grants. I do not quite understand why, as we talk about drugs, we in fact find ourselves with legislation that cuts our effort in fighting drugs.

Last year, the 1994 crime law took a strong stand against drug abuse in rural areas, against drug abuse throughout the court system and in the prison system. But this bill zeros out those functions.

So it always surprises me, when we talk about being tough on drugs, why more of our colleagues do not go home and talk to their police, why they do not talk to their prison officials, why they do not talk to the tough guys, the law-and-order types, who will tell them. I am telling you they will tell you that in fact they want these programs.

What my amendment does, it takes funds from an open-ended, unfunded block grant to make sure that these dollars are targeted to the antidrug measures I mentioned. In other words, the amendment allocates funds directly—what we do is we take $117 million in the bill—we do not look for any money anywhere else—and apply it to the three programs I mentioned, and here is how we do it. We increase the fee charges to obtain green cards. A few years back, when the non-U.S. citizen was in the United States and applied for and was authorized to obtain a green card, that person would have had to return to their native country and then reenter the United States legally.

In 1994, we passed a law that allowed the person in those circumstances to remain in the United States and obtain the green card if certain requirements were satisfied. That person paid an additional fee of a few hundred dollars. The rationale behind the additional fee is that, in paying the fee, the person did not have to leave the United States, return to their home country, reenter the United States, and they saved a round-trip fare ticket. In addition, there is $21.2 million in offsets from the reduction in the State prison grants.

I note that the House funded the administration's request of $500 million. The bill before us provides $750 million for prisons. We all know that whatever comes out of conference is not going to be $750 million. So we take $21 million—a mere $21 million—out of the additional $250 million for State prisons that the Senate subcommittee put in. And should it be adopted, the bill would still provide more than $725 million for prison grants. And so when my colleagues legitimately ask, OK, BIDEN, let us assume the three programs that you and the cops talk about all the time are as good as you say, and that is drug courts, the drug prison money, and drug treatment money in prisons and rural drug enforcement—what I did was I found the $117 million to offset that from the places I just stated.

I see my friend from Missouri. I have more to say. How much time remains for the Senator from Delaware?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMAS). There is no time, since the amendment has not been offered.

Mr. BIDEN. I did not mean to do that to the body. I was trying to save time.

Mr. GREGG. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. BIDEN. Sure.

Mr. GREGG. Will the Senator from Delaware be inclined to have the time that has been consumed applied to the hour and then have the time begin to run?

Mr. BIDEN. Yes, I would. It is not my intention, by not sending up the amendment, to be able to elongate the time that would have otherwise been allotted to the Senator from Delaware. I will do that. The reason why I have not sent the amendment to the desk is there are a few changes several of my Republican colleagues want, in the form they want it in to be able to send it up. That is the reason.

I see my colleague from Missouri on the floor. I am told he would like to speak to the drug court issue. If that is the case, I ask the permission of my friend from New Hampshire whether I could ask unanimous consent to yield to him 5 minutes of whatever time I have, if we reach an agreement on that time?

Mr. GREGG. Would it be possible now to propound a unanimous-consent agreement that the time for debate on the Senator's amendment would be limited to not beyond 9 o'clock, that the time consumed up until now would be charged to your time, that the 5 minutes to be used by the Senator from Missouri be charged to our time, and that the remainder of the time be divided equally?

Mr. BIDEN. Yes, I believe so. I would like to ask, how much time would I have left under such an agreement?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The original informal agreement was an hour and a half, from 7:30 until 9, equally divided. The Senator has since used 35 minutes out of his 45-minute allocation.

Mr. BIDEN. I am happy to accede to the suggestion of the Senator from New Hampshire, if he wishes, that the time on this amendment extend until 9 o'clock and that the Senator from Delaware would have approximately 12 minutes remaining?

Mr. GREGG. I have just been advised that if that is the case, we end up locking in the offsets here, which is something we would rather not do. Why do we not continue to proceed.

Mr. BIDEN. That is what I thought. On that score, I will be delighted to yield to the Senator from Missouri at this time. Then I will seek recognition when he finishes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri is recognized.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I am not going to take up a great deal of time. There are a number of things to work out on this amendment. I could not pass up this opportunity to come and tell this body that the concept of a drug court has been in place in Kansas City, MO, for about 2 years, and it is too early to say that this is the real solution. But the results, to date, are very spectacular.

In Kansas City, drug offenses were clogging up the court system. We did not have the court resources available to provide full trials. We were getting citations. We did not have the prison space for the minor offenders. The drug court has been used with, apparently, a great deal of success for the nonviolent minor drug offenders in Kansas City.

As the Senator from Delaware has already described, this is a program in which they go before a judge—and I talked at length with a judge—Judge Mason—whom I had the pleasure of appointing when I was Governor of Missouri, and the county prosecuting attorney, Clara McCaskle, who said this was one of the best ideas they had seen for trying to get people early on in their careers, after they started taking drugs, off of drugs and off of a life of crime.

There have been about 200 people in the program in 2 years, only 10 have been rearrested. Some of them failed. The nice thing about a drug court is that if you fail the program, that is it, you go into jail. There is no question about it. But 60 people have completed the program. Only one has been rearrested. That is a significantly higher success rate than most of the other programs I have seen for dealing with the minor drug-related offenders.

This, obviously, applies only to non-violent offenders, who have not used a weapon in their crime. We think this kind of tough supervision by a concerned judge—and it requires a judge who is willing to devote his or her time to these cases, to give the drug offender the attention and discipline needed to get them off of the drug habit and get them out of a life of crime, offers a great degree of promise.

I had asked that the drug court at least be made a permissible use under the block grant program. Frankly, I think making it a permissible use is not enough. Based on what we have seen, I would like to see the drug court procedure in the law in some form.

I look forward to working with my colleague from Delaware and my colleague from New Hampshire to see if we cannot include provisions for drug courts. I can tell you, from the heartland where we have a drug problem, the drug courts seem to be one of the most promising ways of dealing with the problem. Anything in this area that holds out a chance of working I think should be given a chance.

At the very least, the drug court program should be made an option used under the block grant program. I would like to see us go further. I would like to see us say that drug grant programs should be entitled to a certain percentage of the block grants.

I look forward to working with the managers on both sides.

Mr. President, I reserve the balance of my time. I yield the floor.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, in keeping with our informality here, let me finish up. I thank my friend from Missouri for speaking to the efficacy of drug courts.

Let me speak to two other pieces of this amendment. One is the rural drug enforcement grants. The latest reports from rural America tell a bitter story of violent crime, murder, rape, aggravated assault. It is rising faster in rural America. Most of our colleagues from urban States do not realize this. It is rising faster in rural America than in urban America.

From 1992 to 1993 alone, the violent crime rate in rural areas increased 7.4 percent; violent crime among juveniles in rural areas—violent crime now—rose 15.2 percent in rural areas.

Drug trafficking and addiction are also skyrocketing in America's rural States, especially among our young people. Drug abuse violations have increased by nearly 30 percent among young people under the age of 18 in recent years.

At the same time, the number of law enforcement employees per 1,000 inhabitants in rural areas has not changed, leaving already understaffed law enforcement teams in rural America to fight devastatingly high increases in serious offenses.

In 1993, the most recent year that data is available, 12 percent of our population or almost 32 million people were served by rural law enforcement agencies.

That is 32 million people who have watched their communities become frighteningly dangerous. That is 12 percent of the population that has witnessed their children becoming increasingly vulnerable to becoming victims of violent crime or becoming involved in drugs, crime and violence.

Rural drug enforcement grants have, we found, been the best way to target assistance to rural area law enforcement agencies. I might point out that Senator HATCH was one of the leaders in making sure this provision was in the crime bill.

These grants, which place a special emphasis on drug enforcement over the 32 million people living in rural areas, give the protection they need and deserve. These dollars can be used for the same purposes State and local officials use their Byrne grant money; specifically, funding will support the highly successful multijurisdictional State, local, and Federal drug enforcement task forces.

These joint efforts have proven that they work. They have a proven track record of reducing drug trafficking in rural America.

Put this in commonsense terms. How can a rural sheriff, a rural chief of police in a town of 800 or 1,000 or 1,500 or 5,000 people, with one officer or maybe as many as three or four, how can they possibly deal with the sophisticated drug operations that come into their areas? They cannot do it.

In the good old days when I was chairman of the Judiciary Committee, many of my colleagues, Republican as well as Democrats, would come to me and say, "Joe, can you help me get an extra DEA agent in Montana? Can you help me get an extra DEA agent or two of them in Idaho or North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont, Maine?" Small States, but rural States. They are big geographically.

The reason they needed them is their local sheriffs, their local police officer coming to them and saying, "We need some expert help and advice." We even went so far as to allow for the providing of training for local law enforcement officers from rural and small police departments down at the FBI training facility. They need the expertise.

These are brave women and men who are outmanned, outgunned and outsmarted because they are dealing with something that goes well beyond the town limits or the county limits that they have the jurisdiction over.

Ten rural States are eligible for these grants statewide. These States include Alaska, Arkansas, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, and Wyoming.

I will note that Delaware is not on that list. These States that I mention, these 19 rural States are eligible for statewide grants, although all the remaining States, the remaining 31 States could benefit in their rural areas. Rural areas of all other States will receive funds, as well. These grants must be removed from the unfocused block grant and funded separately. If they are to remain in the block grant scheme, they will have to compete with a great many programs for limited funds.

Let me ask all who are not in the 19 States, what do you think of the possibility your rural law enforcement officer is going to get this money? What do you think the possibility is that your Governor will send it your way? Do you think maybe it will go where the population centers are?

I bet it surprises even some of my colleagues here on the floor to hear me say that violent crime is rising faster in the rural parts of your State than it is in the urban parts of your State.

In the block grant, I very much doubt and I believe you would be hard pressed to convince me or yourself that this money which was specifically earmarked for rural areas and States that are rural in nature, they need the help. So I would like to point out that rural areas often come up last when it comes to the so-called funding fight in each State. This fact has not escaped my colleagues in previous years.

The need for special targets of anticrime funds to rural areas was also expressed by my colleague, Senator HATCH, on February 10, 1994, while he was speaking in support of the Biden-Hatch rural crime amendment, when he said:

We need to get more officers to rural areas where the violent crime problem is increasing at a greater rate . . . drugs, crime, and violence are national problems facing both urban and rural America. Unfortunately, the crime problems faced in rural America have been overlooked by Federal agencies in Washington. They have focused on the crime in urban areas. Yet the problems of rural states need greater Federal attention as well . . . if there is a place where additional Federal expenditures is warranted, it is to fight crime and violence in rural states.

That was what my colleague said February 10, 1994. In the 102d Congress, Senators ADAMS, BAUCUS, BRYAN, BUMPERS, CONRAD, DASCHLE, FOWLER, HARKIN, HEFLIN, LEAHY, PRYOR all co-sponsored the Rural Crime and Drug Control Act which I authored and passed in 1991.

I believe areas experiencing growth in violent crime and drugs are areas to which enforcement funds should be targeted, especially when those areas are already underfunded and their enforcement efforts such as in rural areas are undermanned. That is why I am asking the rural drug enforcement grants receive direct funding, so they can guarantee rural areas their fair share of help from the Federal Government in ridding their communities of drugs and crime related to drugs.

Again, I daresay if you go ask your rural law enforcement people what they would rather have, what chance they think they have of getting any adequate funding out of this when it goes into one big pot and it goes into the State legislature and is distributed by the Governor, I wonder if they think they are going to get a fair share. I predict to you they will not.

If the Dole block grant is adopted, the block grant amendment introduced by Senator DOLE gives targeted aid to urban areas. The formula for the block grants is targeted to high-crime areas, weighs population in its equation for determining crime rates, and the formula guarantees that urban areas will receive targeted funds while assuming that most rural areas will not receive such aid.

In 1993, the most recent year for which data is available, the murder rate grew 3.4 percent in rural America and it decreased 2.8 percent in the Nation's largest cities. Similarly, the violent crime rate rose 1.4 percent in rural areas, while it decreased 3.4 percent in the largest cities.

But the Dole block grant proposal that is in this bill targets aid to the most populous areas. It clearly does not target funds to those areas most in need, rural America. While violent crime rates, including homicide, forcible rape and assault, are declining in urban areas, they are clearly on the rise in rural America. And rural America does not receive the funds under this block grant proposal. Rural areas have historically had the hardest time producing funds for law enforcement, and it seems to me we should not allow these areas to continue to receive less attention and less antidrug-related money than urban areas just because they are less populous.

This is just an example of the creative budget games that are going on. By providing open-ended block grant funds which may be used for this or any other program, while at the same time significantly cutting the amount of total funding available, my friends are limiting programs such as rural drug enforcement block grants without doing so directly because of where they will have to compete.

The last point I wish to speak to at this moment is the boot camps.

Our ability to reduce crime in a manner depends directly upon our ability to target offenders with the appropriate time of sentence.

This means, of course, we have to identify violent offenders and make sure they go to prison. But it also means we must separate out the non-violent offenders who can be diverted, potentially, from a career of crime through an intensive cost-effective programs such as military-style boot camps.

That is exactly what we did in 1994 with the Biden crime law. We encouraged the States to identify nonviolent offenders and offer them alternative, more cost-effective programs while we, in fact, kept them incarcerated. We provide $9.7 billion to States to build and operate prisons and we gave them the option to use a portion of that money for boot camps.

This appropriations bill would completely eliminate State flexibility to use boot camps for nonviolent offenders in order to free up conventional prison cells for violent offenders. My amendment would restore the State option, the State flexibility to use boot camps for nonviolent offenders, to use their Federal prison money for boot camps.

Let me first tell my colleagues a little bit about boot camps so they can be clear what we are talking about. Boot camps provide a regimented program of work and exercise for young, non-violent offenders. And they have shown marked success with young offenders who learn discipline and respect for law and authority.

They are put behind barbed wire. They are locked in. They are essentially put in Quonset huts. Some argue it is inhumane. I argue if it is good enough for a marine to sleep in a Quonset hut, it did not hurt him very much, it sure in heck should not be too tough to put a convicted person, a non-violent person in such a circumstance.

At the time we did this in the Biden crime bill just about everybody stood up and supported boot camps. It was one of the few things everybody agreed on. Now I am a little concerned. I do not know what has happened that we would go contrary to the trend of the last year, which is to give States more flexibility. I have heard no one argue these boot camps are not worthwhile. I have heard no one argue that States should not be allowed to have them. And I have heard no one argue that States should not have flexibility. So, maybe it was an oversight that States were explicitly prevented from using their prison money to build boot camps. I do not know. But the bottom line is quite simple. Boot camps work to do one very important thing—I suspect many others, but one. That is, I will end where I started.

Two years ago the States convicted—not in Federal court, in State court—several hundred thousand violent offenders were convicted in the State court system. Mr. President, 30,000 convicted, violent offenders never spent a day in jail—30,000, in the States; 30,000 convicted State felons, violent felons, never served a day in jail. The reason they did not is because the State legislatures did not want to go back to their folks in the State and say to get tough on crime we have to build more prisons. To get tough on crime we have to raise your taxes. To get tough on crime we are going to increase our spending. Most States did not do that.

What this does, it gives the States the option to be cost effective. For 40 percent of cost, they can take the non-violent offenders, who are serving time in a penitentiary, behind bars, in a secure, maximum security facility, put them behind barbed wire with folks with guns watching them, in Quonset huts, and free up hard-core prison space for the violent offenders.

At a minimum that is what boot camps do. At a minimum. They also do much more. But in the interests of time I will not belabor the Senate with that argument.

So, to sum up, what I do here is I come up with a total of $117 million in shifting around of how the Appropriations Committee allocates the money. I take $117 million and I get it two ways. One, I take a total of $21.2 million from State prisons, which were increased by a quarter-billion dollars by this committee over the requested amount, and over what the House has, still leaving a total of $225 million for prison grants. And I take money by increased fees on people obtaining green cards, because they now would have to go home and spend the cost of going home and back to be able to get the green card and now they do not have to do that. It is not onerous. It is a reasonable charge for that privilege. And that is how I get the $117 million in off-sets.

I take that money and I put it in the drug courts, drug treatment and prisons and rural drugs as well as law enforcement, family support.

I thank my friend from New Hampshire for his indulgence in listening to my amendment and I will be happy to yield the floor for him or anyone else to speak against the amendment. But I ask unanimous consent to send the amendment to the desk, that no amendments to my amendment be in order, and that my amendment be in order.

Mr. GREGG. I have no objection.

AMENDMENT NO. 2818

(Purpose: To restore funding for residential substance abuse treatment for State prisoners, rural drug enforcement assistance, the Public Safety Partnership and Community Policing Act of 1994, drug courts, grants or contracts to the Boys and Girls Clubs of America to establish Boys and Girls Clubs in public housing, and law enforcement family support programs, to restore the authority of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, to strike the State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Block Grant Program, and to restore the option of States to use prison block grant funds for boot camps)

Mr. BIDEN. I send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Delaware [Mr. BIDEN], for himself and Mr. BRYAN, proposes an amendment numbered 2818.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 26, line 10, after "Act;" insert the following: "$27,000,000 for grants for residential substance abuse treatment for State prisoners pursuant to section 1001(a)(17) of the 1968 Act; $10,252,000 for grants for rural drug enforcement assistance pursuant to section 1001(a)(9) of the 1968 Act;".

On page 28, line 11, before "$25,000,000" insert "$150,000,000 shall be for drug courts pursuant to title V of the 1994 Act".

On page 29 line 6, strike "$750,000,000" and insert "$728,800,000".

On page 29, line 15, after "Act;" insert the following: "$1,200,000 for Law Enforcement Family Support Programs, as authorized by section 1001(a)(21) of the 1968 Act".

On page 44, lines 8 and 9, strike "conventional correctional facilities, including prisons and jails," and insert "correctional facilities, including prisons and jails, or boot camp facilities and other low cost correctional facilities for nonviolent offenders that can free conventional prison space".

On page 20, line 16 strike all that follows to page 20 line 19 and insert:

Section 245(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1255(i)) is amended—

(1) in the second sentence of paragraph (1), by striking "five" and inserting "ten"; and

(2) in paragraph (3), by inserting before the period at the end the following: "or, notwithstanding any other provision of law, may be deposited as offsetting collections in the Immigration and Naturalization Service "Salaries and Expenses" appropriations account to be available to support border enforcement and control programs".

The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to funds remitted with applications for adjustment of status which were filed on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

For activities authorized by section 130086 of Public Law 103-322, $10,300,000, to remain available until expended, which shall be derived from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund.

Mr. BIDEN. I realize this is a mildly backward way of doing it, speaking to it before I send it to the desk, but I did it, and I yield to the Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I appreciate the presentation of the Senator from Delaware. There is some which I agree with and some which I do not agree with. I would like to point out that I agree with his comments relative to boot camp. We have used the boot camp process in New Hampshire, and it has been quite successful. I have to believe that the decision to drop the boot camp was inadvertent. I hope we will correct it.

If the Senator at some point wishes to divide his amendment and bring that up separately, I would certainly be supportive of it. In any event, hopefully we can at least work out that part of his amendment.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I rise in support of the Biden amendment. I ask unanimous consent to be added as an original cosponsor. Included in this amendment is a provision to restore the Community Oriented Police Service Program and the local community crime prevention block grant and that is the part to which I would like to address my remarks.

The bill the Senate is currently considering: (1) would dismantle the COPS program, (2) would combine the COPS program and the crime prevention block grant into one big block grant, and (3) would cut the funding for both.

I believe this would, first of all, open the door to funding anything under the sun that a Governor determines is law enforcement or crime prevention. And, it effectively would eliminate all crime prevention from this crime bill that is now law. For when law enforcement is pitted against crime prevention efforts, law enforcement always wins.

This, I say to my colleagues, turns the clock back on the commitment we made last year to help communities fighting as well as prevent crime.

Last year Congress passed and the President signed the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994. A central part of the crime bill included money for the hiring, over 5 years, of 100,000 more police officers under the Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) Program. To date, under this program, more than 25,000 police officers have been hired—in Minnesota alone, 354 new cops have been funded. Importantly, each of these officers was hired to be on the beat, not in the office.

At a time of very tight budgets, the money for both the COPS Program and the crime prevention block grant come from savings achieved by reducing the Federal bureaucracy. None of these new police officers or crime prevention programs are adding an additional burden on the taxpayer. We, as a Congress, and indeed a country, made fighting crime a top priority last year when we decided to use the savings from streamlining the Federal Government and from cutting some domestic programs for fighting crime.

The COPS Program is a good program. It is reaching and helping communities. It is very flexible. Local jurisdictions can work with the Justice Department to meet their particular needs. The Justice Department has acted swiftly, has minimized the paperwork, and has staffed 800 numbers for immediate assistance. It is not surprising, therefore, that approximately 200 Minnesota jurisdictions have participated in this program. What's more, just a few weeks ago Attorney General Janet Reno announced a new effort at the Department of Justice to target some of these new cops on the beat to helping address domestic violence.

Having more cops involved in community policing fighting crime, means less crime. It is as simple as that. In only a short time the COPS Program is already delivering on its promise of providing more police officers in a very cost-effective, flexible manner. Not surprisingly those on the front line in the fight against crime have only praise for this program. Police chiefs, sheriffs, deputies, and rank-and-file police officers all support this effort to put more police in communities.

But now this very successful, popular crime-fighting program is under attack by Republicans who want to convert its funding into a block grant. Unfortunately, the Republican block grant plan does not stipulate that the money must be spent on hiring cops. Instead, the money can be redirected to fund restaurant inspectors, parking meters, radar guns—and any other of a host of things.

The money ought to be spent the way it was intended and the way law enforcement officials want it spent: to hire police officers. The Nation's major police enforcement organizations all agree on this point.

We all know that crime is one of the great plagues of our communities. People in the suburbs and people living downtown are afraid—they are afraid to go out at night, they are afraid to venture into the skyways, they are afraid to leave their cars parked on the street. We also all know that having a larger police presence helps deter the very crimes that people fear the most. Buying more parking meters, radar guns, or hiring more restaurant inspectors does not address this plague nor address peoples' legitimate fears.

It is peculiar that the party that claims to be tough on law and order is proposing as one of its first steps to change a successful, cost-effective "law and order" program—one that ought to have broad, bipartisan support.

Crime prevention was also an essential element of the crime bill. Despite the fact that at each step of the way in passing the Crime bill, prevention programs got watered down, in the end we decided that crime prevention had to be part of this bill.

Two years ago, when Congress began consideration of the crime bill we started with a substantial portion of the crime bill addressing prevention; after all, prevention is crime control, stopping crime before it ever happens. It, by the way, included something that I think is extremely important—supervised visitation centers. A model that I brought from Minnesota to help families with a history of violence.

Ultimately, we ended up with a crime bill that included a block grant to the States for prevention programs—the local community crime prevention block grant. And, funding was not even authorized until FY 96. We haven't even given it a chance to work and get into communities—one of the few provisions in the crime bill that was intended to prevent crime, one of the few provisions that was not funded until next year and some in Congress are trying to cut it off at the knees.

The Biden amendment would restore the crime bill structure and ensure that some of the funds that were set aside as part of the Crime Control Trust Fund are spent on real prevention programs.

The local crime prevention block grant, like the COPS Program, provides a lot of flexibility to the States and communities. Under this block grant, communities can determine what types, within a general list of about 14 different ideas, of prevention programs to fund, what prevention plans fit their community the best. But this block grant is for prevention, nothing else. Again, it is one of the few aspects of the crime bill that focuses on prevention, an essential element of any crime fighting effort. And, as I stated earlier, it has not even had a chance to be implemented. This coming year would be the first year funding will actually go to help communities.

I cannot emphasize enough how important crime prevention is—especially now. And, under this appropriation bill very little, if any, funding would go to prevent crime.

If we were to listen to people in the communities that are most affected by the violence, they would say to us you have to have the money in prevention. But how interesting it is that those who would essentially eliminate these prevention programs do not come from those communities, do not know the people in those communities, and I do not think they asked the people in those communities at all what they think should be done.

Mr. President, I can just tell you that in meeting with students, students that come from some pretty tough background—students at the Work Opportunity Center in Minneapolis, which is an alternative school, young students who are mothers and others who come from real difficult circumstances, all of them said to me: You can build more prisons and you can build more jails, but the issue for us is jobs, opportunity. You will never stop this cycle of violence unless you do something that prevents it in the first place.

Then I turn to the judges, the sheriffs, and the police chiefs, and I call them on the phone in Minnesota, and I ask them what they think. And they say yes we need community police and yes we need the other parts of the crime law, but they all say, if you do not do something about preventing crime, if these young people do not have these opportunities, if we do not get serious about reducing violence in the home, do not believe for a moment that we are going to stop the cycle of violence.

Mr. President, I believe that a highly trained police, highly motivated, community-based, sensitive to the people in the communities, can make a difference. They are wanted and they are needed. But the bill we are considering today will do nothing to prevent the criminal of tomorrow. And indeed without more cops on the beat it may not do much to fight the criminals of today.

Every 5 seconds a child drops out of school in America. This is from the Children's Defense Fund study. Every 5 seconds a child drops out of a public school in the United States of America. Every 30 seconds a baby is born into poverty. Every 2 minutes a baby is born with a low birthweight. Every 2 minutes a baby is born to a mother who had no prenatal care.

Every 4 minutes a child is arrested for an alcohol-related crime. Every 7 minutes a child is arrested for selling drugs. Every 2 hours a child is murdered. Every 4 hours a child commits suicide, takes his or her life in the United States of America. And every 5 minutes a child is arrested for a violent crime.

Mr. President, if we do not continue to be serious about the prevention part, we are not going to stop the cycle of violence.

All too many young people are growing up in neighborhoods and communities in our country where if they bump into someone or look at someone the wrong way they are in trouble, where there is too much violence in their homes, where violence pervades every aspect of their life. And people who grow up in such brutal circumstances can become brutal. And that should not surprise any of us.

Prevention and law enforcement—both essential elements of any crime fighting effort. These two should not have to compete with each other for funding, nor should funding be cut for either.

I urge my colleagues to support the Biden amendment.

IN DEFENSE OF THE COPS PROGRAM

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I rise today in support of a program that is vital to each and every one of us. It is vital to the safety of our States, of our towns, of our communities. In 1994, Congress passed the omnibus crime bill. Among other things, this important legislation will put 100,000 more police officers on the street through the Community Oriented Policing Services Program—or COPS Program.

Today, as I stand in this Chamber, there are over 25,000 officers that would not be out there—protecting citizens in communities across this country—if it were not for the COPS Program.

If we eliminate this program and turn the fund over to the States in a block grant, as the Appropriations Committee has proposed, there is no guarantee that a single additional police officer will be hired. Not one. We made a commitment to the American people when we passed the crime bill. All of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, made a commitment to the citizens of this country that we would work with them to reduce crime. The COPS Program insures that more police officers will be on the beat in towns and communities across the country.

Mr. President, of the 100,000 new police officers promised, almost 26,000 have already been hired—253 in Arkansas alone. Our police departments are made up of men and women who put their lives on the line every day to make our streets safer—not just in big urban areas, but in small towns and rural areas. With a block grant, funds may not filter down to small towns that desperately need the extra help. They are being asked to do more with less as crime rates continue to rise rapidly. Gangs and drug dealers are migrating out of the larger, more sizable cities and into the smaller towns at an alarming rate.

It is our duty, Mr. President, to assist the prevention of crime in our country. The major law enforcement organizations in my State of Arkansas, as well as across the country, have united in support the COPS Program. They tell us that this program is working, that it is getting more officers on the streets. So why are we eliminating a program that is working?

I have received phone calls and letters from police chiefs and sheriffs in towns, both large and small, throughout my State praising this program.

For example, the Danville Police Department in Danville, Arkansas, has, through the COPS Program, been able to hire an additional officer to patrol the streets at night. In the month since Mike Pyburn has been hired, he has already made a drug arrest. As he was patrolling the streets one night, Officer Pyburn spotted and stopped a person with a warrant out on a misdemeanor. In this person's possession at the time of the arrest was 14 individually wrapped bags of marijuana. The COPS Program enabled this officer to be on the job and get these illegal drugs off the streets of Danville. This is one of many arrests this officer has made. Having additional night patrols has not only improved public safety, it has relieved the people's fears. The citizens of Danville can now sleep at night feeling a little safer because Officer Pyburn is on duty.

Colonel John Bailey, the Director of the Arkansas State Police, put the importance of the COPS Program into simple terms. He said that "This program puts the money where the problem is. In five years, anyone in Washington can come down and I'll say, 'This is what your money provided for us. Here he is.' and introduce them to my new officer." You can't necessarily say that with block grant funds, Mr. President.

This program is effective, and it is easy for law enforcement agencies to apply for the additional officers they so desperately need. Unlike most Federal grant programs, there are not pages and pages of complicated forms to be filled out, and extensive regulations to follow. For small towns, there is one page to fill out. That's it. One page. And it takes less than an hour to fill out.

I have a letter from Larry Emison, the Sheriff of Craighead County in Northeast Arkansas. They also have used their COPS grant to add an additional deputy to their night patrol. He has been in place since April, but the community has noticed a difference and feels safer on the streets, particularly at night. Mr. President, this feeling of safety is due in large part to this officer made possible through the COPS Program.

Chief Wiley White in DeValls Bluff has called this program "a lifesaver for the community." He hired David Huggs, a former prison guard who he had been working with for years. Chief White told me that Officer Huggs has "been a miracle for this town."

I have a lot of these stories, Mr. President. Officer Rebecca Hanson was hired in Crittenden County, Arkansas, to investigate criminal sexual abuse to children. Officer Hanson has special training in interviewing children about the abuse they have suffered. In her first 5 months since being hired, Officer Hanson has handled a total of 42 cases, resulting in 7 arrests. We can only speculate as to what might have happened to these innocent children if it hadn't been for Officer Hanson's presence on the police force.

The Morning News of Northwest Arkansas reported in July how valuable the COPS Program has been to the Rogers Police Department and the citizens of Northwest Arkansas. Two new officers have been added to their force. According to the article, Capt. Steve Russell of the Rogers Police Department said that the grant program has given them the opportunity to have additional personnel that they would not have had otherwise. Captain Russell said the COPS FAST grant program is an example of how the Federal Government can make it easier for local agencies to reap the benefits of Federal programs. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the RECORD. I also ask unanimous consent that a few of the letters I have received on the COPS Program be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

POLICE DEPARTMENT RECEIVES GRANT
(By Thomas Sissom)

The Rogers Police Department will reap the benefits of President Clinton's campaign promise to put 100,000 more law-enforcement officers on the streets with the receipt of a $132,337 COPS FAST grant.

"It certainly is a valuable program to local and rural law-enforcement agencies," Capt.

Steve Russell, administrative commander of the Rogers Police Department, said Tuesday. "It's given us . . . the opportunity to have additional personnel we wouldn't otherwise have had."

The COPS FAST program operates under the office of Community Oriented Policing Services of the U.S. Department of Justice. The grant program is designed to help law-enforcement agencies immediately increase their available manpower. The three-year program will allow the Rogers Police Department to add two new officers with the federal grant of $132,337 added to $44,113 in local funds to cover the cost in salaries and benefits of $176,450 over the three years of the grant. After the grant ends, all of the costs will be borne by the local agency.

Russell said the COPS FAST grant program is an example of how the federal government can make it easier for local agencies to reap the benefits of federal programs. "This was one of the fastest programs we've seen, in terms of the time from the application to us getting the money," Russell said. "That just allows us to put more police on the streets faster, which we certainly need. The application process was very simple, unlike most federal grants."

Russell said the Rogers department currently has 59 certified law-enforcement officers, with one approved slot remaining open. The department has four officers who are just completing their 10-week training course at the Arkansas Law Enforcement Training Academy in Camden. Another five are scheduled to start the course Monday. Officers who successfully complete the academy training course still have to complete another 12 weeks of field training with the department, he said, giving new officers about six months of initial training.

According to Russell, the Rogers Police Department's staffing levels are below national average for law-enforcement agencies. Rogers has 1.82 officers for every 1,000 people. The national average is 2.65 officers per 1,000 people. To reach the national average, he said, Rogers would need 87 officers.

POLICE DEPARTMENT,
CITY OF BULL SHOALS,
Bull Shoals, AR, August 1, 1995.

Senator DAVID PRYOR,
267 Russell,
Washington, DC.

SENATOR, I wish to express my sincere thanks for all your work related to the "Cops" Programs. As I am sure you know, my Department received a grant to add an Officer to the staff. That hiring has turned out to be a very progressive move. Our citizen contacts have risen markedly, and the results have been very positive.

Charles Robert Chapman is the Officer who was hired. Since his employment, which began 04-15-95, Officer Chapman has been very productive. Within the first month Officer Chapman was on the street he developed the information which lead to a search warrant and arrest of a 32 year old male subject on the charge of being a Felon in Possession of Firearm. The subject who was dismissed, had been convicted and jailed on Felonies for Burglary and Drugs. Officer Chapman also developed information from a citizen that led to the location and confiscation of Marijuana plants being grown on Federal Property. I know that in many Cities these cases along with several cases related to weapons, probation violations, domestic batteries and DWI, would not make an Officer stand out. But here in a relatively secure retirement and recreation area these significant arrests go a long way to ease and assure the minds of our citizens. I have been involved in Law Enforcement for over 20 years and have never seen an Officer so well accepted and welcomed into a community. The "Cops" program is what facilitated this boost to our Department.

Again thank You for all your work. I would also like to compliment a member of your staff, Cynthia Wetmore, who has always been very responsive and made many of the processes much easier.

Sincerely,
ROBERT R. WOCHNER,
Chief of Police.

UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS FOR MEDICAL SCIENCES, OFFICE OF THE CHANCELLOR,

July 20, 1995.

Sheriff DICK BUSBY,
Crittenden County Sheriff Dept.,
Marion, AR.

DEAR SHERIFF BUSBY: As Multi-disciplinary Team Project Coordinator for the Arkansas Commission on Child Abuse, Rape and Domestic Violence, I wanted to commend your department for their involvement on the Crittenden County Multi-disciplinary Team. The dedication of local community professionals has had a positive impact upon the child abuse victims in your county. The Commission is particularly pleased with the number of joint investigations being conducted. Crittenden County is one of the few counties involved in joint investigations. Children are indeed much less traumatized and the quality of investigations is improved. Your time is extremely valuable and we appreciate that you are willing to give so generously to child abuse victims. We hope that you will continue to participate in the Crittenden County Multi-disciplinary Team efforts.

Sincerely,
SHANA H. CHAPLIN,
MDT Project Coordinator.

Attn: Cynthia Wetmore
REF: COPS Grant

DEAR SENATOR PRYOR: We are very pleased to be the recipient of a COPS grant for 1 deputy sheriff. Due to a lack of manpower in the past, our night patrol was lacking. This additional deputy has been placed on the night shift, therefore, giving us at least 2 deputies per night patrolling Craighead county. This has only been in place a short period of time and I can already see a difference with this additional coverage. I have had several comments from citizens within the county, stating that they now see a patrol car at night more than they have in the past.

I want to personally thank you, Congress, and President Clinton for making this program available. This will make great difference in the fight against crime in the United States.

Sincerely,
LARRY EMISON,
Craighead County Sheriff.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, putting an additional 100,000 officers on the streets is a promise that this body made last year when it passed the crime bill. It is our duty to continue this vital program that represents an approximate 20 percent increase in the American police force. What the American people want is to feel safe in their homes and on the streets of their neighborhoods. They deserve this safety and the COPS Program is delivering it to them. I urge my colleagues to stand with me in protecting what is important to our country. I urge you to vote to save the COPS Program.

LEGAL SERVICES TO NATIVE AMERICANS

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I seek a few moments in order to seek clarification from my esteemed colleague, the senior Senator from Alaska, with regard to language that is contained in an amendment proposed by my colleague. When the Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, State and the Judiciary met to consider H.R. 2076, the appropriations bill for fiscal year 1996, Senator STEVENS proposed an amendment to the amendment proposed by the esteemed chairman of the full committee, Senator HATFIELD, relating to the provision of legal services as it affects Native American households.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, my amendment, which was adopted by the Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, State and Judiciary on September 7, 1995, provides that in States that have significant numbers of eligible Native American households, grants to such States would equal an amount that is 140 percent of the amount such states would otherwise receive. My amendment was necessary in order to prevent a serious reduction in legal services to Native Americans. Under current law, there is a separate, additional appropriation for legal services to the Native American community. The Legal Services Corporation is also given the flexibility to allocate additional resources to States like Alaska, which experience increased costs due to the difficulty of providing legal services to remote populations, many of which are comprised of Native Americans. Given the fact that the Legal Services Corporation, including the separate Native American appropriation, was eliminated the committee's bill, my amendment was necessary in order to ensure the continued provision of legal services to the Native American community.

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I wish to express my deep appreciation to my colleague from Alaska for his efforts in this area, and for recognizing that the significant needs for legal assistance in Native American communities span a broad range of issues, from housing and sanitation to health care and education. In my own State of Hawaii, Native Hawaiians comprise less than 13 percent of the population, but represent more than 40 percent of the prison inmate population. Native Hawaiians have twice the unemployment rate of the State's general population and represent 30 percent of the State's recipients of aid to families with dependent children. Over 1,000 Native Hawaiians are homeless, representing 30 percent of the State's homeless population. Native Hawaiians have the lowest life expectancy, the highest death rate, and the highest infant mortality rate of any other group in the State. Moreover, they have the lowest education levels and the highest suicide rate in Hawaii.

Mr. President, in my State, we have the Native Hawaiian Legal Corp. [NHLC], a nonprofit organization established to provide legal services to Native Hawaiian community. NHLC has a 20 year history of providing exemplary legal assistance to Native Hawaiians, and it has long been affiliated with the Native American Rights Fund. Fifteen percent of NHLC's annual funding comes from the Native American portion of the Legal Services Corporation budget. It is my understanding that the language proposed by my esteemed colleague from Alaska is to ensure the continued provision of legal services to Native Americans that are currently being provided through a separate Native American allocation of the funding provided to the Legal Services Corporation. My question of my colleague from Alaska is whether it is his intent that Native Hawaiians would continue to be eligible to receive funds appropriated for the provision of legal services under your amendment, consistent with the current situation under the Legal Services Corporation?

Mr. STEVENS. I thank the Senator for his earlier comments. My colleague from Hawaii, in his capacity as the former chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee, has traveled many, many times to my State of Alaska, and I know that he has come to appreciate the very difficult circumstances under which the vast majority of our native villages live. I know the challenges the Senator from Hawaii faces in trying to meet the needs of native communities in the State of Hawaii, and I therefore understand full well his desire to clarify the meaning of "Native American households". When I proposed this language, it was my intention to ensure that those Native American communities, including native Hawaiian households, currently being served by the Legal Services Corporation would continue to have access to legal services under the block grant approach proposed by Senator HATFIELD. Have I sufficiently addressed my colleague's concerns?

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, I wish to thank my colleagues from Alaska, for clarifying this matter for me. I am certain that the native Hawaiian community will be most appreciative of the Senator's clarification.

ABUSES INVOLVING MICROWAVE INCUMBENTS

Mr. BREAUX. I would like to raise an issue that has become of concern to several members of this committee on both sides of the aisle.

Previously, as chairman of this committee and of the Appropriations Subcommittee, the Senator from South Carolina was instrumental in establishing spectrum auctions for new PCS services, and was a guiding force on developing the rules that were adopted by the FCC governing relocation of microwave licensees out of this spectrum.

He is aware, as we have discussed, that certain enterprising individuals have recruited a number of microwave incumbents as clients and now seem to be manipulating the FCC rules on microwave relocation to leverage exorbitant payments from new PCS licensees.

I am advised that if this practice continues unchecked, more and more microwave incumbents are likely to employ these unintended tactics. More importantly, it will reportedly devalue spectrum in future auctions to the tune of up to $2 billion as future bidders factor this successful gamesmanship into their bidding strategy. Previously scored revenue for deficit reduction will be unfairly diverted instead into private pockets.

Would the Senator agree with me:

First, that this type of gaming of relocation negotiations was unintended, is unreasonable, and should not be permitted to continue unchecked;

Second, that the affected parties should attempt to agree on a mutually acceptable solution to this problem;

Third, that if an acceptable compromise cannot be brought forth by the affected parties within a reasonable time period, then either Congress or the FCC should address this matter as quickly as possible with appropriate remedies?

Mr. HOLLINGS. I thank my colleague for raising this issue. As he noted, I offered an amendment on the State, Justice, Commerce Appropriations bill in 1992 on this issue. The electric utilities, oil pipelines, and railroads must have reliable communications systems. The FCC initially proposed to move these utilities' communications systems from the 2 gigahertz band to the 6 gigahertz band without ensuring that the 6 gigahertz band would provide reliable communications.

My amendment, which the FCC subsequently adopted in its rules, guaranteed that the utilities could only be moved out of the 2 gigahertz band if they are given 3 years to negotiate an agreement, if their costs of moving to the new frequency are paid for, and if the reliability of their communications at the new frequency is guaranteed.

Now I understand that some of the incumbent users may be taking advantage of the negotiation period to delay the introduction of new technologies. It was certainly not my intention to give the incumbent users an incentive to delay moving to the 6 gigahertz band purely to obtain more money. I agree with my friend that the parties involved in this issue should try to work out an acceptable solution to this issue. If the parties cannot agree to work out a compromise, I believe that Congress or the FCC may need to revisit this issue.

WOMEN'S BUSINESS PROGRAMS

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I would like to address an important portion of the Hatfield amendment, preservation of Small Business Administration funding for women's business programs.

I believe the issue of women in business needs to be placed in the clearer context.

The new dynamics of the American economy have brought about a sea-change in society. Thirty years ago, when most women entered the work force, they did so to supplement their families' incomes. Most often, women working outside the home did so in clerical and support roles.

Thirty years ago, a young couple could live on the income of one professional. On that income, a schoolteacher could buy a nice house in a good neighborhood. Young families could hope to save, drive a nice car, educate their children, and take vacations. Today many cannot.

Economic restructuring and societal changes have accelerated the entry of women into the work force, into the professions and into business. We see the challenges these changes have generated all around us.

Nothing has been more exciting and challenging, though, than the emergence of women as business builders and entrepreneurs. Without exception, every aspect of business offers extraordinary opportunities for women.

Women-owned firms are an increasingly dynamic sector of our economy.

According to the most recent census data available—1982-87—the number of women-owned firms increased by 57 percent—more than twice the rate of all U.S. businesses.

These businesses employed 35 percent more people in the United States than the Fortune 500 companies employed worldwide, and had a payroll of nearly $41 billion.

More women-owned businesses have staying power—over 40 percent have been in business for 12 or more years.

Businesses owned by women tend to hire more women. It is not unusual to find that two-thirds of their employees are women.

In 1993, the Small Business Administration's flagship lending program, the 7(a) program, guaranteed 25,000 loans totaling $6.4 billion to women-owned businesses. While women-owned businesses accounted for nearly one-third of all small businesses, they only made up about 10 percent of loan recipients that year. In 1994, that total rose to 24 percent.

In spite of their successes in getting started in providing employment, one of the biggest impediments that women-owned businesses face today is constraints on their growth—they remain small. Women-owned businesses average annual sales of $67,000, compared to $140,000 in sales for all small businesses.

That is why, Mr. President, the National Women's Business Council and the Women's Business Ownership Development Program are so important.

The National Women's Business Council monitors plans and programs developed in the private and public sector which affect the ability of women-owned businesses to obtain capital and credit. The council also develops and promotes new initiatives, policies and plans designed to foster women's business enterprises.

It has conducted: symposiums on getting access to capital, in conjunction with the Federal Reserve; and informational meetings on Federal Government procurement contract opportunities for women-owned businesses.

In November, the council plans to initiate a project with Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management to develop an agenda for national research on women's entrepreneurship.

The continuation of current funding for this council's salaries and expenses at a level of $200,000 represents a modest—but prudent—investment in our Nation's business sector.

There is an urgent argument to be made for well-thought-out initiatives aimed at encouraging more women to create their own businesses:

Here are some disturbing facts: half of all working women are sole support for themselves and their families; and women and the children they support comprise more than 75 percent of people who live in poverty in the United States.

Mr. President, if we as a Nation want to reduce the reliance of women and children on welfare and social service programs, these women must become economically self-sufficient—and the opportunity for self-sufficiency will most likely come from women-owned enterprises.

The Women's Business Ownership Development Program addresses these problems in constructive ways. It is a public-private partnership whose goal is the creation of new jobs, increasing the earning potential of women, and forging a larger pool of skilled women entrepreneurs.

There are 38 demonstration sites in 20 States, with plans for more. More than 25,000 clients have been served in urban and rural locations. Each center tailors its program to the particular needs of the community. Training activities include: assistance in accessing capital; management assistance; marketing and procurement assistance; and specialized programs that address home-based businesses and international trade.

The North Texas Women's Business Development Center, which is being dedicated tomorrow, is a shining example of the promise this program holds. It is a collective effort of the National Association of Women Business Owners, the North Texas Women's Business Council, the Greater Dallas Chamber of Commerce, the Dallas-Fort Worth Minority Business Development Corp. and the Dallas County Community College.

Under the auspices of the Women's Business Consortium, this broad-based, private-sector supported initiative will help start-up and growing women-owned businesses. One of the areas on which they will concentrate is Government contracting opportunities for women.

Four million dollars will help establish demonstration sites like the one in Dallas in cities all across this country.

Programs like the National Women's Business Council and the Women's Business Ownership Development Program—modest in scope but breathtaking in the possibilities they hold out to those willing to work hard—have the potential to turn America around. I am pleased my colleagues saw their value and agreed to continued funding.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I would like to express my concern about the programs that are suffering as a result of the appropriations in this bill. The programs that I am referring to are critical to the future of the U.S. economy. Economic security, competitiveness, jobs. That is what is at risk.

Technology development is slated to be the victim of our budget axe. Investments in technology are investments in our future and should not be terminated. In our enthusiasm to make cuts to balance the budget we are losing sight of the reason we want to balance the budget in the first place—to make our economy stronger. The irony is that by cutting technology programs we are cutting programs that are already making our economy stronger. We will be defeating our own purpose.

I am particularly concerned about the integration of the technology and trade functions in the Department of Commerce. Within the Department of Commerce there are programs that work with the private sector to foster new ideas that may underpin the next generation of products. This is one of the few places where information channels are developed that make sure that the ideas generated in our world class research institutions find their way into the marketplace. Previous Administrations had the foresight to realize that we are entering a new era, an era where economic battles are as fiercely fought as any previous military actions. New kinds of technology programs were begun with bipartisan support to make sure that the United States was well armed for these economic battles. I do not want to see us lose our technology edge in the marketplace, because this edge translates directly into jobs for our work force, new markets for American business, improvements in our balance of trade, and from this economic success, desperately needed revenues for our treasury. The home of technology programs is with our trade programs where they will have the most impact and do the most good for our economy. The Technology Administration is a critical component of the Department of Commerce and we need to make sure that its key functions are maintained.

Making changes in technology and trade functions at this juncture in time must be done extremely carefully. New markets are emerging in developing countries. Conservative estimates suggest that 60 percent of the growth in world trade will be with these developing countries over the next two decades. The United States has a large share of imports in big emerging markets currently, in significant part because of the efforts of the Department of Commerce. While we are making changes in the Department of Commerce, our foreign competitors are increasing their investments in their economies. Competing advanced economies are just waiting for us to make a move that will weaken our economic capacity. We cannot afford to dismantle successful programs that are making and keeping the United States competitive. We should be sure that changes we make will be improving the Government's efficiency and improving the taxpayer's return on investment.

The kind of technology programs that I am advocating are not corporate welfare or techno pork. I find these terms not only inaccurate and derived from ignorance, but offensive. American industry is not looking for a handout. Quite the contrary. These programs are providing incentives to elicit support from the private sector for programs that are the responsibility of the Government. Times are tough and the Government needs to cut back, so we are looking for the handout from private industry, not the other way around. Let me explain.

Everyone agrees that when markets fail, it is legitimate to have the Government step in. For example, so-called basic research, the Government funds, because no one industry can capture the benefits of the investment. Basic research is described as research that is so far reaching that it will impact a wide array of applications in a variety of different industries on a timeframe that could be quite long. No one expects a single company to make an investment, when it can not capture a sufficient return on its investment, or when the investment would be too risky or too long term. That would be bad business. I agree with this definition of basic research and I agree with these criteria for the appropriate role for government investments. These criteria apply equally to investment in technology research, as long as the technology research is precompetitive, high risk, and long term.

So-called basic research has also been defined as research that does not have any clear application. This definition is puzzling. One could legitimately ask, why perform research that deliberately has no application? In reality, research is rather fickle and difficult to predict. Sometimes one can plot a nice logical progression from basic research, to applied research, to product development, but this is usually not the case. Often what appears to be basic research turns out to be product development, or applied research results in a fundamental breakthrough with far-reaching results, or as most commonly happens, at the end of an experiment, the research scientist must go back to the drawing board and try one more experiment before she can claim success. Thus, the research scenario is complicated and trying to make clear distinctions is artificial at best.

Our goal should be, not to try and categorize research, but to make investments that are appropriate, and that strengthen our economy. I believe that there is an important and legitimate role for government to play in technology research. The National Association of Manufacturers has spoken out strongly in favor of the kind of technology programs that are run by the Department of Commerce. I would like to read some quotes from their statement about Federal technology programs:

The NAM is concerned that the magnitude and distribution of the R&D spending cuts proposed thus far would erode US technological leadership.

A successful national R&D policy requires a diverse portfolio of programs that includes long- and short-term science and technology programs, as well as the necessary infrastructure to support them. The character of research activities has changed substantially in the past decade, making hard and fast distinctions between basic and applied research or between research and development increasingly artificial. R&D agendas today are driven by time horizons not definitions. In short, rigid delineations between basic and applied research are not the basis on which private sector R&D strategies are executed, nor should they be the basis for federal R&D policy decisions.

The NAM believes the disproportionate large cuts proposed in newer R&D programs are a mistake. R&D programs of more recent vintage enjoy considerable industry support for one simple fact: They are more relevant to today's technology challenges. For example, "bridge" programs that focus on the problem of technology assimilation often yield greater payoff to a wider public than programs aimed at technology creation. Newer programs address current R&D challenges far more effectively than older programs and should not fall victim to the "last hired, first fired" prioritization.

In particular, partnership and bridge programs should not only not be singled out for elimination, but should receive a relatively greater share of what federal R&D spending remains. These programs currently account for approximately 5 percent of federal R&D spending. The NAM suggests that 15 percent may be a more appropriate level.

Given the critical importance of R&D, far too much is being cut on the basis of far too little understanding of the implications. The world has changed considerably in the past several years, and R&D is no different. Crafting a federal R&D policy must take stock of these changes; to date this has not happened.

As the major funder and performer of the R&D in the US, industry believes its voice should be heard in setting the national R&D agenda. The Congress and the Administration should draw on industry's experience and expertise in determining policy choices. For example, as a guide to prioritizing federal R&D programs, the NAM would favor those programs that embody the following attributes: industry led; cost-shared; relevant to today's R&D challenges; partnership/consortia; deployment-oriented; and dual use.

We believe these criteria provide the basis for creation of a template for prioritizing federal R&D spending.

In sum, the NAM remains firmly committed to a balanced federal budget. But we also firmly believe that the action taken thus far in downsizing and altering the direction of US R&D spending is tantamount to fighting hunger by eating the seed corn. We urge the Congress to consider carefully the impact of R&D on US economic vitality and to move forward in crafting an R&D agenda that will sustain US technological leadership far into the future.

I would like to describe two programs in which I have taken a particular interest, the Advanced Technology Program [ATP] and the Manufacturing Extension Program [MEP].

ATP

Dr. Alan Bromley, President Bush's Science Advisor in 1991, determined a list of 20 technologies that are critical to develop for the United States to remain a world economic power. There has been very little disagreement among analysts and industry about the list. No one company benefits from these technologies, rather a variety of industries would benefit with advances in any one of these areas. These are the kinds of areas that form the focus areas of the ATP. The focus areas are determined by industry, not by bureaucrats, to be key areas where research breakthroughs will advance the economy as a whole not single companies.

There is no doubt that industry benefits from partnering with the Government. The nature of the marketplace has changed, and technological advances are a crucial component in maintaining our stature in the new world marketplace. Product life cycles are getting more and more compressed, so that the development of new products must occur at a more and more rapid pace. The market demands products faster, at higher quality and in wider varieties—and the product must be delivered just in time. Innovative technological advances enhance speed, quality, and distribution, to deliver to customers the product they want, when they want it. Ironically, the competitive market demands that companies stay lean and mean, diminishing the resources that are available for R&D programs that foster the kind of innovation necessary to stay competitive. Because of all of these pressures, industrial R&D is now focused on short-term product development at the expense of long-term research to generate future generations of products.

The conclusion is clear. This short-term focus will lead to technological inferiority in the future. Our economy will suffer. Some of my colleagues in Congress believe that basic research will provide the kind of innovation necessary to generate new generations of high-technology products. On the contrary, we have seen historically that basic research performed in a vacuum, that is without communication with industry, is unlikely to lead to products.

In this country, we have the best basic research anywhere in the world. There is no contest. Yet, we continue to watch our creative basic research capitalized by other nations. We must improve our ability to get our brilliant ideas to market. Basic research focuses on a time horizon of 10 to 20 years. Product development focuses on a time horizon of less than 5 years, and sometimes much shorter than that. It is the intermediate timescale, the 5 to 15-year time-frame that is critical to develop a research idea into a product concept.

We have a responsibility to make sure that our private sector does not fall behind in the global economy. Diminishing our technological preparedness is tantamount to unilateral disarmament, in an increasingly competitive global marketplace. Government/industry partnerships stimulate just the kind of innovative research that can keep our technological industry at the leading edge. These partnerships help fill the gap between short-term product development, and basic research.

American companies no longer survive by thinking only about the national marketplace. They must think globally. Familiar competitors like Japan and Germany, continue to compete aggressively in global markets. New challenges are coming from India, China, Malaysia, Thailand, some of the leading Latin American nations and more. We cannot afford to let jobs and profits gradually move overseas to these challengers, by resting on our laurels, complacent in our successes. Other countries, seeing the success of the ATP, are starting to imitate it, just as we are considering doing away with it. Our competitors must be chuckling at their good fortune, and our shortsightedness. We simply cannot afford to cut the ATP.

MEP

The state of manufacturing in this country is mixed. On the one hand our manufacturing productivity is increasing, but on the other hand we are losing manufacturing jobs by the millions. Manufacturing which once was the lifeblood of our economy is bleeding jobs overseas. We need to provide the infrastructure that insures that our manufacturing industry flourishes.

As I look at our manufacturing competitors, I am struck by how little we do to support this critical component of our economy. In the United States we are used to being the leaders in technologies of all kinds. Historically, English words have crept into foreign languages, because we were the inventors of new scientific concepts, technology, and products. Now when you describe the state-of-the-art manufacturing practices you use words like "kanban" and "pokaake." These are Japanese words that are known to production workers all over the United States. Kanban is a word which describes an efficient method of inventory management, and pokaake is a method of making part of a production process immune from error or mistake proof thereby increasing the quality of the end product. We have learned these techniques from the Japanese, in order to compete with them.

In a global economy, there is no choice, a company must become state-of-the-art or it will go under. We must recognize that our policies must change with the marketplace and adapt our manufacturing strategy to compete in this new global marketplace. The Manufacturing Extension Program [MEP] is a big step forward in reforming the role of government in manufacturing. This forward looking program was begun under President Reagan, and has received growing support from Congress since 1989.

The focus of the MEP Program is one that historically has been accepted as a proper role of government: education. The MEP strives to educate small- and mid-sized manufacturers in the best practices that are available for their manufacturing processes. With the MEP we have the opportunity to play a constructive role in keeping our companies competitive in a fiercely competitive, rapidly changing field. When manufacturing practices change so rapidly, it is the small- and mid-sized companies that suffer. They cannot afford to invest the necessary time and capital to explore all new trends to determine which practices to adopt and then to train their workers, invest in new equipment, and restructure their factories to accommodate the changes. The MEP's act as a library of manufacturing practices, staying current on the latest innovations, and educating companies on how to get the best results. At the heart of the MEP is a team of teachers, engineers, and experts with strong private sector experience ready to reach small firms and their workers about the latest manufacturing advances.

Another benefit of the MEP is that it brings its clients into contact with other manufacturers, universities, national labs and any other institutions where they might find solutions to their problems. Facilitating these contacts incorporates small manufacturers into a manufacturing network, and this networking among manufacturers is a powerful competitive advantage. With close connections, suppliers begin working with customers at early stages of design and engineering. When suppliers and customers work together on product design, suppliers can provide the input that makes manufacturing more efficient, customers can communicate their specifications and timetables more effectively, and long-term productive relationships are forged. These supplier/customer networks are common practice in other countries, and lead to more efficient and therefore more competitive, design, and production practices.

The MEP is our important tool in keeping our small manufacturers competitive. We are staying competitive in markets that have become hotbeds of global competition, and we are beginning to capture some new markets. More importantly, companies that have made use of MEP are generating new jobs rather than laying off workers or moving jobs overseas. These companies are growing and contributing to real growth in the U.S. economy. For each Federal dollar invested in a small- or mid-sized manufacturer through the MEP, there has been $8 of economic growth. This is a program that is paying for itself by growing our economy.

Each MEP is funded after a competitive selection process, and currently there are 44 manufacturing technology centers in 32 States. One requirement for the centers is that the States supply matching funds, ensuring that centers are going where there is a locally supported need. In summary, the MEP provides the arsenal of equipment, training, and expertise that our small- and mid-sized manufacturers need to keep them in the new global economic battlefield.

The ATP and the MEP are critical technology investments. They are both run under the auspices of the National Institutes of Standards and Technology, [NIST]. In addition to these NIST programs, NIST itself is at risk. I would like to bring to my colleagues' attention, a recent letter sent by 25 American Nobel prize winners in physics and the presidents of 18 scientific societies. As the New York Times put it "Budget cutters see fat where scientists see a national treasure." These scientists are shocked and appalled that we could think of making cuts in NIST and its programs. According to the scientists "It is unthinkable that a modern nation could expect to remain competitive without these services" and they continue "We recognize that your effort to balance the budget is forcing tough choices regarding the Department of Commerce, however the laboratories operated by NIST and funded by the Department of Commerce are a vital scientific resource for the Nation and should be preserved in the process of downsizing the Federal Government." These scientists are the leaders of the scientific community and we should not disregard their advice.

This amendment restores funding for NIST and its programs at a time when we cannot afford to be without their contributions to national competitiveness. Investments in the trade and technology functions in Department of Commerce are investments in our future economic health, in high wage jobs for our workers, in the American dream.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I would ask unanimous consent that the vote scheduled for 9 p.m. this evening be postponed to occur at 10 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, and that immediately following the granting of this consent, Senator DOMENICI be recognized to offer his amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. HOLLINGS. Reserving the right to object, Mr. President, is it also understood that we can follow as we originally intended to stack the Domenici vote; namely, after the 10 a.m. vote on the Biden amendment, we would have the Domenici vote?

Mr. GREGG. That, to my knowledge, has not yet been agreed to with Senator DOMENICI. He will be here at 9 to begin debate on his amendment. And at that time I would hope that such an agreement could be reached with Senator DOMENICI.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I would hope so.

Pending that, Mr. President, I would have to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURNS). Without objection, it is so ordered.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT AGREEMENT

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the vote scheduled for 9 p.m. this evening be postponed to occur at 10 a.m. Friday, and immediately following the granting of this consent that Senator DOMENICI be recognized to offer his amendment.

I further ask unanimous consent that at 9 a.m. the Senate resume consideration of the McCain amendment No. 2816 with 60 minutes equally divided, that a vote occur following the Biden vote with 4 minutes equally divided between the two votes, and that following these votes, the Senate resume consideration of the Domenici amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. DOMENICI. Reserving the right to object, did the Senator say I would offer my amendment tonight or tomorrow?

I have no objection.

Mr. GRAMM. Immediately following this, the Senator would do it tonight.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from New Mexico is recognized.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, will the Senator be kind enough to yield for 30 seconds?

Mr. DOMENICI. Certainly.

AMENDMENT NO. 2818, AS MODIFIED

Mr. BIDEN. In the amendment which I sent to the desk numbered 2818, my omnibus amendment, I made a mistake in two places in it in terms of numbers. They were as described but different than written, and it has been cleared with the majority and minority.

I ask unanimous consent that I may modify my amendment, and I send the modification to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is so modified.

The amendment (No. 2818), as modified, is as follows:

On page 26, line 10, after "Act;" insert for following: "$27,000,000 for grants for residential substance abuse treatment for State prisoners pursuant to section 1001(a)(17) of the 1968 Act; $10,000,000 for grants for rural drug enforcement assistance pursuant to section 1001(a)(9) of the 1968 Act;"

On page 28, line 11, before "$25,000,000" insert "$100,000,000 shall be for drug courts pursuant to title V of the 1994 Act;"

On page 29, line 6, strike "$750,000,000" and insert "$728,800,000".

On page 29, line 15, after "Act;" insert the following: "$1,200,000 for Law Enforcement Family Support Programs, as authorized by section 1001(a)(21) of the 1968 Act".

On page 44, line 8 and 9, strike "conventional correctional facilities, including prisons and jails," and insert "correctional facilities, including prisons and jails, or boot camp facilities and other low cost correctional facilities for nonviolent offenders that can free conventional prison space".

On page 20, line 16, strike all that follows to page 20, line 19, and insert:

Section 245(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1255(i)) is amended—

(1) in the second sentence of paragraph (1), by striking "five" and inserting "ten"; and

(2) in paragraph (3), by inserting before the period at the end the following: "or, notwithstanding any other provision of law, may be deposited as offsetting collections in the Immigration and Naturalization Service "Salaries and Expenses" appropriations account to be available to support border enforcement and control programs".

The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to funds remitted with applications for adjustment of status which were filed on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

For activities authorized by section 130016 of Public Law 103-322, $10,300,000, to remain available until expended, which shall be derived from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

AMENDMENT NO. 2819 TO THE COMMITTEE

AMENDMENT ON PAGE 26, LINES 18 THROUGH 20

(Purpose: To improve provisions relating to appropriations for legal assistance)

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I am going to send an unprinted amendment to the desk in a minute. This unprinted amendment is an amendment to the committee amendment beginning on page 26, line 18 wherein we add the following. I want to state before I send it there that my cosponsors as of now—and I welcome any others that would like to join—are Senators KASSEBAUM, HOLLINGS, D'AMATO, STEVENS, INOUE, HATFIELD, KENNEDY, and SPECTER.

Mr. President, the only thing I want to put in the RECORD tonight after I have introduced the amendment, I will put in—I did not. I do not have to send it up until I am ready to send it up. Right? I think that is the rule. I will send it up shortly.

I am putting a list in of the prohibitions that are found in this amendment with reference to what the Legal Services Corporation will be prohibited from doing. So overnight, if anybody has any concern about my not getting rid of class action lawsuits and the like, I would like them to peruse this list and give me their advice.

Therefore, Mr. President, with that explanation, I send the amendment to the desk and ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending question will be the amendment on page 26.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI), for himself, and Mr. HATFIELD, Mr. HOLLINGS, Mrs. KASSEBAUM, Mr. D'AMATO, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. INOUE, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. SPECTER, proposes an amendment numbered 2819 to the committee amendment on page 26, lines 18 through 20.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The text of the amendment appears in today's RECORD under "Amendments Submitted.")

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I believe the Parliamentarian might have had in mind that I sought unanimous consent that there be cosponsors when there was no amendment there.

I now ask that those cosponsors that enumerated a while ago be added as original cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send two documents to the desk. One is a summary of the Domenici amendment, and a separate sheet indicating the prohibitions that will be imposed on legal services, and I ask unanimous consent that they be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SUMMARY: DOMENICI LEGAL SERVICES AMENDMENT, H.R. 2076, COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES

IN GENERAL

The amendment restores the Legal Services Corporation, provides $340 million in funding for fiscal year 1996 and adopts House Appropriations restrictions on use of funds. Appropriate offsets will be found throughout the appropriations bill.

FUNDING

Provides $340 million in FY 1996, $225 million through August 31, 1996 and $115, to be provided upon the September 1, 1996, implementation of a competitive bidding system for grants, as outlined in the amendment.

RESTRICTIONS ON USE OF FUNDS BY CORPORATION AND RECIPIENTS

Advocating policies relating to redistricting (same as House).

No class action lawsuits (stronger than House).

Influencing action on any legislation, Constitutional Amendment, referendum or similar procedure of Congress, State or local legislative body (same as House).

Legal assistance to illegal aliens (same as House).

Supporting/conducting training programs relating to political activity (same as House).

Abortion litigation (same as House).

Prisoner litigation (same as House).

Welfare reform litigation, except to represent individual on particular matter that does not involve changing existing law (same as House).

Representing individuals evicted from public housing due to sale of drugs (same as House).

Accepting employment as a result of giving unsolicited advice to non-attorneys (same as House).

All non-LSC funds used to provide legal services by recipients may not be used for the purposes prohibited by the Act (same as House).

SPECIAL PROVISIONS

Competitive bidding of grants must be implemented by September 1, 1995, and regulations must be proposed 60 days after enactment of the Act. Funds will be provided on an "equal figure per individual in poverty."

Native Americans will receive additional consideration under the act but no special earmarks are provided as have existed in the past.

Restrictions shall apply only to new cases undertaken or additional matters being addressed in existing cases.

Lobbying restrictions shall not be construed to prohibit a local recipient from using non-LSC funds to lobby for additional funding from their State or local government. In addition, they shall not prohibit the Corporation from providing comments on federal funding proposals, at the request of Congress.

Under the Domenici amendment, all funds, regardless of source, received by the corporation, or its grantees may not be used for the following prohibited purposes:

Advocating policies relating to redistricting. Prohibited.

Class action lawsuits. Prohibited.

Influencing action on any legislation, Constitutional Amendment, referendum or procedure of Congress, State or local legislative body. Prohibited.

Legal assistance to illegal aliens. Prohibited.

Supporting/conducting training programs relating to political activity. Prohibited.

Abortion litigation. Prohibited.

Prisoner litigation. Prohibited.

Welfare reform litigation. Prohibited. Except to represent individual on particular matter that does not involve changing existing law.

Representing individuals evicted from public housing due to sale of drugs. Prohibited.

Accepting employment as a result of giving unsolicited advice to non-attorneys. Prohibited.

All non-LSC funds used to provide legal services by recipients may not be used for the purposes prohibited by the Act. Prohibited.

Additionally, there are a number of clarifying and special provisions:

Competitive bidding of grants must be implemented by September 1, 1995, and regulations must be proposed 60 days after enactment of the Act. Funds will be provided on an "equal figure per individual in poverty."

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield the floor.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of the Legal Services Program and in opposition to the pending appropriation bill. Pursuant to this legislation, and the Legal Services Program—as it has existed for more than two decades—would be abolished and replaced with a legal assistance block grant program, funded at a level that is drastically less than current funding for legal services.

The Legal Services Corporation has been at the forefront of our efforts to give real meaning to the words enshrined in stone above the portals of the Supreme Court: "Equal Justice Under Law." The Legal Services Program has provided critically needed services to millions of poor, elderly, and disabled citizens who otherwise would not have access to the American legal system and the protection it affords the many basic rights we enjoy in this country and which so many of us take for granted.

The Legal Services Corporation provides funds to State legal aid programs throughout our Nation. It has been described as one of the most effective and worthwhile Federal programs in existence, while also being one of the least costly. Legal Services programs provided needed legal assistance to approximately 1.7 million clients annually, benefiting about 5 million individuals living in poverty in this country, primarily women and children. LSC accomplishes this using only about 3 percent of its total funding for administration and management. That means that 97 percent of the appropriation goes directly to the local programs that provide the services, clearly illustrating the efficient operation of this valuable program.

Maryland's Legal Aid Bureau, which receives by far the largest portion of its total funding from the Legal Services Corporation, has done an outstanding job of representing Maryland citizens living in poverty. With the funding received from LSC, the 13 legal aid offices located throughout Maryland provide general legal services to approximately 19,000 families and individuals annually, assisting Marylanders in such routine legal matters as consumer problems, housing issues, domestic and family cases, and applying for and appealing the denial of public benefits.

Because the Republican measure proposes that grants be made to individual attorneys, and appears to exclude current legal services programs from eligibility for funding under the program, the Maryland Legal Aid Bureau could lose some of even all of this critical Federal funding. This would leave Maryland Legal Aid unable to provide these vital services to the many thousands of clients currently represented—who, in fact, represent only a small percentage of Maryland's poor citizens—unless alternative funding can be provided at the State and local level.

Mr. President, the Legal Services Corporation has operated an effective and efficient program in representing citizens, who without this assistance, would never have their day in court. Although most of the cases involve routine legal disagreements related to housing, consumer issues, family and domestic matters, and employment, these routine matters often become insurmountable when coupled with the other pressures of a complex society that weigh on a family unable to afford legal representation.

The Republican proposal would replace the Legal Services Corporation with a block grant program administered by the Department of Justice, through which funds for civil legal assistance would be allocated to the States. The bill severely reduces funding for legal services, cutting the funding from the $400 million appropriated to the Legal Services Corporation for fiscal year 1995 to $210 million—a reduction of nearly 50 percent.

Not only does the bill slash funding for legal services for the poor, it also establishes severe restrictions on the type of services that may be provided under the new block grant program. This program would drastically limit qualified services to 10 specific causes of action. As a result, low-income individuals would be denied representation with respect to numerous critical—and basic—legal matters.

Under the measure, qualified services appear to exclude representation in essential legal matters such as applying for or appealing a denial of statutory benefits, including Social Security benefits, veterans benefits, unemployment compensation, food stamps or medical assistance; obtaining or refinancing home ownership; housing discrimination; claims based on consumer fraud or defective products; discrimination in hiring; wage claims; problems with public utilities; immigration; unfair sales practices; preparation of wills; paternity; and patient rights.

Most of these excluded causes of action represent legal matters that routinely arise out of everyday problems faced by many Americans. Under the committee bill, legal assistance with respect to these routine types of cases would be denied arbitrarily to low-income individuals and families.

Additional restrictions would prohibit legal service providers from using funds under the program for representation in cases related to matters such as redistricting, legislative and administrative advocacy, and prison litigation. Class action lawsuits against the Government or private parties—which, contrary to the myth currently being perpetuated, actually encompass less than one-tenth of 1 percent of all legal services cases—would be barred, as would lawsuits challenging the constitutionality of any statute.

Another particularly disturbing provision in the bill would require that any qualified client, as a condition for receiving services under the program, waive the attorney-client privilege and the attorney work product privilege. This clearly interferes with the ethical obligations that all lawyers have to their clients.

Mr. President, the drastic cutbacks and restrictions in this bill would strike a devastating blow to many of our citizens who would find access to the courts blocked and would be unable to assert the rights to which they are entitled by our Constitution and our laws.

I strongly urge my colleagues to oppose these attempts to dismantle this vital program and to support the continuation of the Legal Services Corporation and the current legal services delivery system, as well as increased funding for legal assistance for the poor over the level proposed in this appropriation measure.

An editorial appearing in the September 15 New York Times eloquently addressed the current Republican attack on funding legal services for the poor and the importance of maintaining the Legal Services Corporation. I ask unanimous consent that this editorial be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SHOWDOWN FOR LEGAL SERVICES

Equal justice for all may be an American ideal but not to the Republican-controlled Congress, where measures advanced ominously this week to abolish the Legal Services Corporation, the federally financed program to help poor people with legal problems.

The corporation, which was created in 1974, managed to survive previous attacks on its mandate and financing during the Reagan and Bush Administrations, aided by powerful Democratic friends in Congress and some Republicans, like former Senator Warren Rudman of New Hampshire. But its continued existence is now in jeopardy. Not satisfied with the disabling funding cut already approved by the full House, or pending provisions in both chambers that would greatly restrict the types of cases that may be handled, the Republicans who control the House and Senate are moving to dismantle the program entirely.

The House voted in July to slash the corporation's budget from $400 million a year to $278 million. By an 18 to 13 straight party-line vote on Wednesday, the House Judiciary Committee approved a measure pushed by Representative George Gekas of Pennsylvania that would carry the demolition further. It would break up the corporation and its expert network of poverty-law specialists and replace them with a more bureaucratic, fragmented and inefficient system of small block grants to fiscally hard-pressed states. Some states have shown little interest historically in providing civil legal services that empower the poor, and may not bother to apply for the dwindling amounts of money allotted. In the Senate, meanwhile, a similarly unworthy dismantling scheme proposed by Senator Phil Gramm of Texas has passed the Appropriations Committee and is due to hit the Senate floor perhaps as early as today. It would cut funding even more, to $210 million, and funnel it through block grants.

The program's critics complain that the corporation uses the courts to push "a liberal agenda." But, clearly, what is driving the attack is their own ideological opposition to what poverty lawyers do, which is to protect the legal rights of the poor. This mostly entails handling mundane eviction, divorce and installment credit cases. Only on rare occasions do legal services lawyers bring the class action lawsuits that so offend the powerful enemies of the program, but which serve a valuable function in holding government agencies accountable.

At a moving news conference, leaders of the bar were joined by religious leaders and Legal Services clients in calling for the presentation of the Legal Services Corporation. The group included two victims of domestic violence, whose lives were dramatically transformed for the better by virtue of having the sort of access to the justice system that Republicans seem determined to foreclose.

Senator Alfonse D'Amato of New York, and other Republicans whose poor constituents stand to be badly hurt by the latest assault on legal services, should fight for amendments to the pending Senate bill that would prevent the worst from happening. If efforts at moderation do not succeed, President Clinton must stand ready with his veto pen.

AMENDMENT NOS. 2820 THROUGH 2828 EN BLOC

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to set aside the Domenici amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I send to the desk a number of amendments that have been cleared on both sides, and I ask unanimous consent that they be considered en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The Senator from Texas (Mr. GRAMM) proposes amendments numbered 2820 through 2828 en bloc.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendments be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments are as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 2820

Purpose: To terminate the Regulatory Coordination Advisory Committee, the Biotechnology Technical Advisory Committee, and the Advisory Corrections Council)

At the appropriate place in the bill insert the following new section:

SEC. . (a) The Regulatory Coordination Advisory Committee for the Commodity Futures Trading Commission is terminated.

(b) Section 5(h) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 is repealed.

(c)(1) Section 5002 of title 18, United States Code, is repealed.

(2) The table of sections for chapter 401 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking out the item relating to the Advisory Corrections Council.

(d) This section shall take effect 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

AMENDMENT NO. 2821

(Purpose: To extend the authority to administer au pair programs through fiscal year 1999)

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. . EXTENSION OF AU PAIR PROGRAMS.

Section 8 of the Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship Act of 1990 is amended in the last sentence by striking "fiscal year 1995" and inserting "fiscal year 1999".

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, the amendment at the desk extends the life of a program that is essential to thousands of American working parents. It extends the operations of the United States Information Agency's Au Pair program for another 4 years, through the end of fiscal year 1999.

Mr. President, the Au Pair program provides families with two working parents a perfect alternative to day care. It allows these families to invite young people from other countries into their homes, for a year at a time, to live and work. The families and the au pairs, thus, live together while each teaches the other about their respective cultures; in return, the family's children receive exceptional care and the young au pairs experience a year in the United States while living with an American family.

Earlier this year the members of the Foreign Relations Committee adopted a provision that would have extended the life of this program for another 4 years, just as the pending amendment does. The committee-adopted provision, however, is still pending in the committee's authorization bill which the Senate has yet to consider fully. Since the authority to continue this program expires on September 30 of this year, the Senate must take immediate action.

One may ask why I offer a 4-year extension of this program. The answer is twofold: First, the authorizing committee made the decision to extend it for 4 years and, second, so that we can put this issue to rest for at least one additional authorization cycle.

Our committee has spent countless hours overseeing this program during the last few years. The U.S. Information Agency, which administers this program, has spent many hours on it as well. USIA this year applied new regulations to the administration of the au pair program and I want to see these regulations implemented for awhile before a determination is made as to whether the program should be permanently authorized.

Mr. President, the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee has indicated his support for this measure. I thank him and ask that we move on this simple issue expeditiously.

AMENDMENT NO. 2822

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate on United States-Canada Cooperation concerning an outlet to relieve flooding at Devils Lake in north Dakota)

On page 124, after line 20, insert the following:

SEC. 6. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON UNITED STATES-CANADIAN COOPERATION CONCERNING AN OUTLET TO RELIEVE FLOODING AT DEVILS LAKE IN NORTH DAKOTA.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) flooding in Devils Lake Basin, North Dakota, has resulted in water levels in the lake reaching their highest point in 120 years;

(2) basements are flooded and the town of Devils Lake is threatened with lake water reaching the limits of the protective dikes of the lake;

(3) the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation are now studying the feasibility of constructing an outlet from Devils Lake Basin;

(4) an outlet from Devils Lake Basin will allow the transfer of water from Devils Lake Basin to the Red River of the North watershed that the United States shares with Canada; and

(5) the Treaty Relating to the Boundary Waters and Questions Arising Along the Boundary Between the United States and Canada, signed at Washington on January 11, 1909 (36 Stat. 2448; TS 548) (commonly known as the "Boundary Water Treaty of 1909"), provides that "waters flowing across the boundary shall not be polluted on either side to the injury of health or property on the other." (36 Stat. 2450).

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the United States Government should seek to establish a joint United States-Canadian technical committee to review the Devils Lake Basin outlet project to consider options for an outlet that would meet Canadian concerns with regard to the Boundary Water Treaty of 1909.

AMENDMENT NO. 2823

On page 75 of the bill, line 7, after "grants" insert the following: "Provided further, That of the amounts provided in this paragraph $76,300,000 is for the Manufacturing Extension Partnership program".

MANUFACTURING EXTENSION PROGRAM

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I want to commend the chairman of the Appropriations Committee for including in his amendment an additional $25 million for the Industrial Technology Services account at the National Institute of Standards and Technology [NIST]. That funding is for the Manufacturing Extension Partnership [MEP] program, which supports locally run manufacturing extension centers around the country.

I would like to enter into a brief conversation with the chairman to clarify that this funding is provided for three purposes. First, $22 million is provided to support new centers that are now close to be chosen, under an ongoing centers competition. The amendment restores funding that had been provided in the fiscal year 1995 Appropriations Act for new centers but which the present bill would shift to other purposes. This amendment therefore overrides the committee report language which says that no funds can be used to open a new center during the coming year.

Second, $3 million is provided for fiscal year 1996 support services for the existing 42 manufacturing extension centers. These are services such as materials for training extension agents, provided to centers through MEP's National Programs account. This $3 million is in addition to funds which the bill already provides for fiscal year 1996 support of the existing 42 centers, including the eligible centers originally supported by the Defense Department's Technology Reinvestment Project.

Third, with this amendment the amount of new appropriations for the MEP program now totals $76.3 million, and the amount of prior year appropriations and new appropriations for meeting prior Advanced Technology Program [ATP] commitments totals $109,138,000. The ATP is intended to receive $83,838,000 in prior year appropriations and $25.3 million in new appropriations. I would like to ask the chairman if this three-part interpretation of the MEP portion of his amendment is correct.

Mr. HATFIELD. The Senator is correct.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I thank the Chairman.

On page 79, line 22, delete "$42,000,000" and insert "$37,000,000".

AMENDMENT NO. 2825

On page 115, line 2 after "equipment" insert the following: "Provided further, That not later than April 1, 1996, the headquarters of the Office of Cuba Broadcasting shall be relocated from Washington, D.C. to South Florida, and that any funds available to the United States Information Agency may be available to carry out this relocation."

AMENDMENT NO. 2826

At the appropriate place, insert the following new section:

"SEC. . Sections 6(a) and 6(b) of Public Law 101-454 are repealed. In addition, notwithstanding any other provision of law, Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship, Incorporated, may use any earned but unused trust income from the period 1992 through 1995 for Fellowship purposes."

AMENDMENT NO. 2827

On page 110, between lines 2 and 3, insert the following new section:

SEC. 405. (a) Subject to subsection (b), section 15(a) of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956 (22 U.S.C. 2680(a)) and section 701 of the United States Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948 and section 313 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, fiscal years 1994 and 1995 and section 53 of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act, shall not apply to appropriations made available for the Department of State in this Act.

(b) The waiver of subsection (a) shall cease to apply December 1, 1995.

WAIVER OF AUTHORIZATION

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, the pending amendment authorizes the Senate and House committees on appropriations to waive the requirement in section 15 of the State Department Basic Authorities Act that appropriations must first be authorized. This waiver applies through December 1, 1995.

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which has the responsibility of authorizing the activities of the Department of State and its related agencies, I am reluctant to agree to this waiver. However, because the administration and certain Members of this Senate have refused to allow a vote on the committee's authorization bill—S. 908, the Foreign Relations Revitalization Act of 1995—and since Senate consideration of S. 908 bill is still pending, I have agreed to allow the State Department's funding to go forward without authorization through the first of December.

This window will allow adequate time for the President and his representatives to advise their friends in the Senate that no further efforts on their part should be made to forbid a vote on the authorizing legislation S. 908.

Mr. President, I reiterate now what I have asserted on numerous occasions since the Democrats' filibuster against S. 908 began; the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will resume consideration of and action upon all nominations, treaties, and legislation pending before the committee once the administration urges Senate Democrats to vote on our legislation.

I thank the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee for his cooperation on this issue. I thank him also for his continued support of our efforts to consolidate three anachronistic Federal foreign affairs agencies into the Department of State which, he and I agree, will help balance the Federal budget.

AMENDMENT NO. 2828

(Purpose: To make available for diplomatic and consular programs funds collected from new fees charged for the expedited processing of certain visas and border crossing cards)

On page 93, line 7, after "Provided," insert the following: "That, notwithstanding the second sentence of section 140(a)(3) of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1994 and 1995 (Public Law 103-236), not to exceed $125,000,000 of fees may be collected during fiscal year 1996 under the authority of section 140(a)(1) of that Act: Provided further, That all fees collected under the preceding proviso shall be deposited in fiscal year 1996 as an offsetting collection to appropriations made under this heading to recover the costs of providing consular services and shall remain available until expended: Provided further,".

MACHINE READABLE VISA FEES

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, this amendment will permit the Department of State to continue to charge and collect a fee for the issuance of machine readable visas in specific countries around the world through fiscal year 1996. The Department may collect up to $125 million worth of fees this year alone.

It also authorizes the Department of State to use the moneys collected to offset the costs of diplomatic and consular activities overseas.

In the fiscal year 1994-95 State Department authorization bill—Public Law 103-236—the Committee on Foreign Relations authorized the Department to charge and collect these fees up to a total of $107 million. The Department almost met that ceiling this past year and expects to exceed that amount this fiscal year in as much as this relatively new program is now being implemented in more countries and, is thereby, made available to more people. Therefore, the Department is authorized to collect approximately $18 million more in fees this year.

Mr. President, this amendment does not cost the American taxpayer a penny. It is, in fact, a tool for sound fiscal management the Department will be able to utilize this year, especially in light of budget cuts affecting the Department of State.

I understand the able chairman of the subcommittee agrees with this measure and I thank him for his support.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, these amendments have all been cleared on both sides.

I ask unanimous consent that they be agreed to en bloc, and that statements accompanying the amendments be printed in the RECORD as if read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments (Nos. 2820 through 2828) were agreed to.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, on advice from Senator HOLLINGS, who is unable to be here at the moment, I understand that these are acceptable to him on this side.

AMENDMENT NO. 2819

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, while we await our instructions on closing out business of the day, I would like to just very briefly, though we are going to speak tomorrow at some length about the Domenici amendment, say that I think it is important tonight to at least to begin to call our colleagues' attention to the fact that the Domenici amendment is not simply an amendment to reestablish the Federal Legal Services Corporation. We can debate the merits of that and the demerits. I believe the demerits outweigh the merits. But the Domenici amendment has a profound impact on the rest of this bill because it cuts other programs.

I simply want to leave with my colleagues tonight a very brief outline of what the Domenici amendment does in order to fund this expansion in legal services.

It cuts $25 million from our efforts in the Justice Department related to the Criminal Division, to the Civil Rights Division, to the Environmental Division. It cuts funding for the U.S. attorneys office by $11 million. That is money that would have gone to fund U.S. attorneys to prosecute drug felons and gun felons. It cuts $40 million from the FBI budget, funds that would be used to build the new FBI academy, to build infrastructure, which the FBI greatly needs.

It cuts the Bureau of the Census both economic and statistical analysis and the census itself in a period when we are getting ready to have the 2000 census, the millennium census. It cuts funding for the court of appeals, for district courts, and for other courts by $25 million. Every day we have people waiting to be tried in civil cases and criminal cases, and we are cutting funding for our courts to fund legal services.

Funding is cut by $21 million for the reorganization/transition fund in the State Department. That is a major Republican initiative in an authorization bill for which the majority of Senators have voted in the affirmative. The bill cuts funding for the commerce transition fund. The budget adopted by the Senate called for the elimination of the Commerce Department. This eliminates transition funds that would be required.

Finally and stunningly, the distinguished Senator from New Mexico has a budget gimmick in the funding mechanism which has a delayed obligation of $115 million which becomes effective only on September 1, 1996, so that we are in fact committing ourselves to a level of funding which is substantially higher than the funding level which is claimed in this amendment.

No one needs to give me a lecture on the power of the special interest groups that support the Legal Services Corporation. I understand that perfectly, and I understand that the majority of the Members of the Senate support funding for the Legal Services Corporation. But I want my colleagues to know that in supporting that funding, they are supporting cuts in our criminal activities, our civil rights activities in the Justice Department, our Environmental Division within the Justice Department. They are denying funding for the FBI Academy and in the process cutting funds for courts.

So what we are talking about is basically cutting funding for prosecutors, for the Justice Department to work in areas that are critically important. We are cutting funding in courts when we desperately need more prosecutors and more courts. I hope my colleagues will look at these offsets.

Governing is about choices, and the choices we look at on this bill are, basically, do we want to fund courts and U.S. attorneys to prosecute violent criminals and drug felons or do we want to fund the Legal Services Corporation? To me that is a very easy choice. I wish to be sure that my colleagues understand it, and I thank the Senate for in the closing moments of this legislative day giving me the opportunity to make it clear to people what we are talking about.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I send a list of the Domenici offsets to the desk, and I ask unanimous consent that they be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there now be a period for the transaction of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

OKLAHOMA'S MISS AMERICA

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, It is with great pleasure and pride that I congratulate Miss Shawntel Smith, who was crowned Miss America 1996 recently in Atlantic City on her 24th birthday.

Shawntel is the fourth Oklahoman to be named Miss America in the pageant's 75 years. She joins three other Oklahomans who have won that honor: Norma Smallwood in 1926, Jane Jayroe in 1967 and Susan Powell in 1981.

Shawntel is a native of Muldrow, Oklahoma, a town of about 3,200 residents who are by all accounts very proud and supportive of this young lady. When she was crowned Miss Oklahoma earlier this year, the town erected road signs along the Eastern Oklahoma roads leading into Muldrow.

It seems, now, however, those signs are a little outdated.

During the next year, Shawntel will represent Oklahoma and all of America as she travels to special events and speaking engagements as Miss America.

Her platform is to raise awareness for the need to prepare students for the job market. Shawntel believes that "by exposing students to potential careers and making them aware of the education needed, students can make their dreams become realities." And Shawntel obviously knows a little something about making dreams become realities.

Education has been an important part of Shawntel's own life. Through competition in pageants she has been able to earn enough in scholarship money to put herself through Northeastern Oklahoma State University, where she is now working as a marketing director. Shawntel's winnings from the Miss Oklahoma and Miss America pageants will allow her to continue her education. Her goal is to obtain a master's degree in business administration from Oklahoma City University, and I have no doubt she will.
